Peace Agreement Signing Possible Before Thursday

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Vietnam peace talks officials converged on Paris today for crucial and possibly final talks on settling the 12-year-old war. Saigon reports said the agreement could be initialed by Wednesday or Thursday and formally signed a few days later.

President Nixon gave Henry A. Kissinger final instructions today and dispatched him to Paris to complete the Vietnam cease-fire agreement. Washington dispatches said Nixon and Kissinger met in the old State Department Building at 8 a.m. EST.

White House sources said Kissinger would be prepared to initial a Vietnam agreement by Thursday if no unexpected snags arise in his talks Tuesday with Le Duc Tho, a member of the Hanoi Politburo, and Xuan Thuy, the chief North Vietnamese negotiator in Paris.

Today's arrivals in Paris included two foreign ministers — Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh of the Viet Cong, and Tran Van Lam of South Vietnam —and both issued optimistic statements. The final agreement is to be signed at foreign minister level.

American officials in Saigon said Vice President Spiro agnew is tentatively scheduled to fly to Saigon Sunday Jan. 28. They said present plans call for President Nguyen Van Thieu to sign the treaty after Agnew's arrival, but added those plans were subject to change, depending on the outcome of final talks in Paris.

BACK TO PARIS — An aide held an umbrella over Henry Kissinger to shield him from a driving rain as he waved to newsmen before boarding a presidential jet in Washington this morning to fly back to Paris for the 24th and perhaps final round of private Vietnam peace talks.

Tho stayed behind in Paris when the 23rd round of talks with Kisssinger ended Jan.13. The two will meet for their climactic sessions starting Tuesday.

Technical experts from Washington and Hanoi met again today in a stepped-up effort to clear their work of drafting protocols guiding the agreement. In an unprecedented move the experts held a four-hour-long session Sunday. They have been meeting continually since Jan.2.

Both sides have maintained secrecy on the exact details of the agreement but a number of sources have said it calls for a cease-fire in place, the with-

Tribunal Rules On Abortions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled today that a woman's doctor shall be the sole judge of whether to perform an abortion during the first three months of pregnancy.

The decision could force almost every state to liberalize its laws on abortions.

The Court in striking down Texas and Georgia laws as unconstitutional did not completely prohibit state abortion statutes. Instead, the majority opinion by Justice Harry A. Blackmun set up a three-stage guideline which would:

—Make the doctor the sole decision maker during the first trimester (roughly three months) of pregnancy.

—Permit a state after that to establish regulatory procedures "that are reasonably related to maternal health."

—After the "viability" stage of an unborn baby's existence (between six and seven months), allow a state actually to prohibit abortion "except where it is necessary in appropriate medical judgment for the preservation of the life or health of the mother."

Blackmun noted that most medical authorities define viability as when a fetus begins to move, kick or show other major signs of activity, usually occurring in the 28th week of pregnancy but possibly as early as the 24th.

The Texas statute was more restrictive than that of Georgia. It made it a crime for a doctor to perform an abortion unless the woman's life was at stake.

Twenty-nine other states have such laws on their books.

Georgia specified that abortions could be obtained for three limited reasons: danger to the life or serious impairment of the health of the woman, the possibility of mental or major physical defect in the infant and for pregnancies as the result of rape.

The state also set forth a series of procedures needed tc conduct an abortion.

Fifteen other states have similar restrictions in varying degree. Whether they are constitutional depends on their exact wording. There was no immediate indication here of the full scope of the ruling.

Justices Byron R. White and William H. Rehnquist dissented from the majority opinion.

The Court took these other major actions before taking a two-week recess:

—Agreed to examine a 1972 New York state law aimed at assisting financially pressed parochial schools by the use of special tax credits, tuition grants and maintenance payments. A similar case from Pennsylvania also was accepted for arguments and a ruling either this spring or next fall.

—Refused, however, to stay a lower court decision which barred parents of children in Ohio nonpublic schools from receiving income tax credits.

—Voted to stay a lower court ruling which would have al-

180 Persons Die In Nigeria Crash

Toll Said Highest In History

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI) — A Jordanian airliner carrying Nigerian Moslem pilgrims home from a pilgrimage to Mecca crashed in northern Nigeria today, killing 180 of those aboard, airport officials said, in the worst air crash in history.

The officials said 22 persons, including the pilot and five other crew members, survived the crash at Kano, 520 miles northwest of Lagos when they fled through an emergency escape hatch near the tail of the plane.

Officials said the control tower warned the pilot of the Alia Airlines Boeing 707, which had been charted by Nigerian Airways, of fog and poor visibility just before he landed.

Many of the dead passengers were thrown from the plane and their bodies scattered along the runway.

Some of those who survived got out through an emergency hatch in the tail, the only part of the aircraft not consumed by flames. An airport official said, "the plane was completely gutted by fire except for the tail section. It literally melted."

The worst previous air disaster was the crash at Moscow's Sheremetyeve Airport on Oct. 13, 1972, of an Aeroflot Russina-built Ilyushin-62 jet, in which 176 persons died. A Japan Airlines plane crashed at a Moscow airport on Nov. 28, 1972, killing 162 persons.

The survivors were taken to hospital in Kano, while the bodies of the dead were laid in grim rows of blanketed bundles on the airport tarmac. Officials said many of the bodies had been burned to skeletons.

They were to be given a mass burial later tonight or Tuesday, officials said.

The flight, from Jeddah in Saudi Arabia, carried 196 Nigerian Moslem pilgrims back from a visit to their holy city of Mecca. Other pilgrim flights had to be diverted to Lagos after the airport at Kano was closed.

Federal Commissioner of Transport Russell Dikko left Lagos for Kano to conduct an investigation into the crash.

Post Offers Solution To Tax Surplus

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post today suggested canceling the sale of $860 million worth of construction bonds as one "equitable way of rebating the state's tax surplus to Californians.

Paying cash for such projects as school construction, clean water works and other programs would save the taxpayers $446.7 million in interest payments, he said.

Post, the legislature's nonpartisan veteran fiscal adviser, offered the proposal at the first hearing of the Senate Finance Committee on Gov. Ronald Reagan's nearly $9.3 billion proposed state budget. Also on hand was state Finance Director Verne Orr.

The governor's spending blueprint for the fiscal year starting next July 1 projects $1.1 billion budget surplus, of which $852 million was collected during the current year.

He discussed canceling the bond sales and using cash instead as an alternative to granting an across-the-board one-time income tax rebate or to delaying levying of the statewide sales tax increase next June.

"The return of the surplus to the taxpayer would be in birect proportion to the burden of taxes which he would have had to pay for the bonds," Post said, "and, therefore, identical in equity to the equity of the tax system."

"It would save interest costs of about $446 million and gain interest earnings on the investment," he said.

He listed the unsold bonds which the state now is authorized to sell as these: community college construction, $160 million; school building aid, $350 million; recreation, fish and wildlife, $35 million; clean water, $150 million, and University of California health science

County Lowers Flood Estimate

A Marin County disaster official today reduced estimates of damage to public facilities from last week's rainstorms, mudslides and flooding — but damage to private property still was being tallied.

Frank E. Kirby, county emergency services coordinator, said the latest estimate of damage to public roads and facilities was $467,000.

Bolinas Public Utility District officials earlier predicted that their community's water system alone would cost $450,000 to repair, but Kirby reported the latest estimate was $116,000 to put the system back in full operation. He said the damage total included $38,000 for emergency repairs to the Bolinas system in the past week.

Meanwhile, Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer, warned that Bolinas residents should continue to boil their water five minutes before using it for cooking or drinking. Dr. Albrecht said the Independent-Journal erred Saturday in reporting that the contaminated water warning had been lifted for the West Marin community. She said that the warning had been lifted only for Stinson Beach.

Kirby said that $300,600 of the storm damage total reflected cost of road repairs and debris removal in Belvedere, Corte Madera, San Anselmo, Tiburon, Sausalito, Mill Valley and unincorporated areas.

Reports must be received from the federal Small Business Administration and the Marin Chapter of the American Red Cross before county officials know the total damage to private property in Marin.

Red Cross headquarters in San Rafael said that its damage survey was nearing completion.

Red Cross spokesmen added that the emergency evacuation center in Novato has been closed, and all continuing relief cases are being handled from the San Rafael office.

The evacuation center served 125 residents during the height of the flooding, then provided canteen services to 75 persons during weekend clean-up operations. A total of 30 families from Novato and Southern Marin met with Red Cross workers about the need for clothing, food and shelter. Fifteen families received help and minor repairs to their homes, Red Cross said today.

Youth In Auto Death Is In Trouble Again

A 20-year-old San Anselmo youth, who was released from jail last month after serving time for the auto death of a Sleepy Hollow girl, has been arrested for being drunk in a car.

Robert Brian England of 13 Angela Avenue was arrested at 12:10 a.m. Saturday by the California Highway Patrol only 12 days after a Marin Superior Court judge lifted an order barring him from the county for five years.

England had been given a year in jail, as well as being ordered from Marin, after pleading guilty in June to the negligent homicide in the death of 13-year-old Alene Toneff, daughter of former San Francisco 49er Robert A. Toneff of Sleepy Hollow.

Former Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner, who sentenced England, later said he barred him from the county "to prevent unfortunate contacts and relationships with his very bitter neighbors and, also, to prevent him from renewing the very bad crony relationships which he had with some other young men in his community."

Judge David Menary Jr. narrowed the restricted area to Sleepy Hollow Jan. 8 after England's attorney, William O. Weissich, argued the broader ban was illegal.

England's car killed Miss Toneff on the shoulder of Butterfield Road as she walked home from a movie March 11. He was under court order not to drive at the time.

The incident stirred up Sleepy Hollow residents. About 400 signed a protest petition when his bail was set at $1,000 in that case.

England served 81 days in jail awaiting sentence and was given credit for good behavior in jail, thus enabling his release last month, according to his probation officer, Dennis Elsasser.

The highway patrol said England was arrested Saturday while a passenger in a car stopped on Highway 101 in Sausalito because he became abusive and appeared unable to control himself.

England, booked at Marin County Jail, was released without bail on the authority of the county probation office, promising to appear in Marin Municipal Court Wednesday.

Peronist Slain Outside Home In Buenos Aires

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Julian Moreno, a Peronist labor leader and candidate for political office in the March elections, was assassinated today outside his home.

A police spokesman said the assassins fled after shooting Moreno and his chauffeur as they entered Moreno's car.

Moreno was the secretary of the suburban Lanus local of the Metal Workers Union, one of Argentina's biggest labor organizations. He also was a candidate for Congress under the banner of the Justicialista Liberation Front, the political coalition formed last November by former President Juan D. Peron to support candidates in the country's elections March 11.

Marinwood Bond Vote Tomorrow

Marinwood residents in a special election tomorrow will vote on a $600,000 bond issue aimed at preserving 350 acres of undeveloped land as open space.

Polls at the community center, Miller Creek School and Mary Silveira School open at 7 a.m. and will close at 8 p.m.

A two-thirds majority of the votes cast is needed to pass the bond issue. A total of 2,334 registered voters is eligible to cast ballots.

There has been no organized opposition to the measure and directors of the Marinwood Community Services District have predicted it will pass with a 75 per cent favorable vote.

The measure would cost taxpayers 36 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, hiking the current district tax levy of $1.23 per $100 of assessed valuation to $1.59.

The cost to the owner of a home assessed at $40,000 — including exemption allowances provided by the state's new tax shift law — would be $30 annually over a 25-year priod, according to Ellis D. Jaquette, a member of the services district board.

Most of the land to be purchased is in a 328-acre package filling the community's undeveloped northwestern corner, though two other parcels are located near the community center and one is at the end of Limestone Grade adjoining Highway 101.

France Is Asked To Halt Testing

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (UPI) — The prime ministers of Australia and New Zealand issued a joint communique today asking France to abandon all further nuclear testing in the Pacific.

Following two days of talks, Australian Prime Minster Gough Whitlam and host Prime Minister Norman Kirk agreed to work together and to use all appropriate means to end the French tests.

The communique appealed to France to take account of the spcial concern the tests caused to countries in the South Pacific.

Mill Valley Man Is Slain In Oakland

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — A Mill Valley man was slain here early today, and police arrested a 23-year-old Oakland resident on suspicion of murder.

The body of Jeffrey Simon, 26, address unknown was found by officers at about 2 a.m. in front of a residence after neighbors reported hearing several shots, according to police.

Police said Robert Prudhomme, a law student who lives nearby, was arrested and booked on suspicion of murder.

Simon had visited Prudhomme earlier in the day, according to police. Motive of the killing is under investiagaion, police said.

Heavy Water Runoff Causes Taste Problem

Heavy water runoff into lakes of the Marin Municipal Water District has resulted in taste and odor problems for consumers districtwide, a spokesman for the agency reported today.

District water supplies have been laced with a medicinal odor and taste in the wake of recent rains due to chemical reaction with debris washed into the lakes, according to B. G. Grant, district publicist.

The metallic flavor and aroma does not present a health hazard, he said, adding district water will be back to normal within several days.

"The water is safe to drink. . . it just doesn't taste good," he said.

Though most complaints about the bad water have come from Southern Marin, the problem also exists in Fairfax, San Anselmo and parts of San Rafael, he said.

Plea For Unity

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI urged Roman Catholics and other Christians to go on seeking unity among themselves yesterday, but not at the cost of giving up any part of their faith.

This would result only in "pseudo unity," the Pope said before giving his traditional blessing to pilgrims and tourists in St. Peter's Square.

His speech marked Christian Unity Week, which is celebrated by most major Christian groups.

The Pope said the greatest error that Christians could commit in this respect "is that of being content with a pseudo unity. . . which considers only practical and temporal aspects but leaves out matters of faith."

Visit Studied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — State Department officials report there are tentative plans for Australia's new prime minister, Gough Whitlam, to visit the United States, a move that would help repair relations between the two countries.

Whitlam, whose Labor government came to power in Australia in December pointedly criticized the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, pointing up serious friction between his government and that of President Nixon.

State Department officials, however, say Whitlam may meet with Nixon when he attends an August meeting of parties to the U.S. Australian-New Zealand defense treaty or the opening of the General Assembly of the United Nations.

'Time Is Right'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — King Hussein of Jordan believes another Middle East war would be "disastrous" and that the time is right to seek a peace settlement.

"I believe the world is in a mood for peace and fruitful cooperation," Hussein said yesterday. "I believe the time will come when all interested parties will look more closely at this Middle East situation.

"If another war comes, it would be disastrous."

Hussein made his comments during an hour long television interview, "Speaking Freely," which was broadcast by NBC.

Doctor Denied

LONDON (UPI) — An American heart specialist has flown to London to treat Howard Hughes for a suspected heart attack, the London Daily Mirror said today. An aide for the billionaire recluse denied the report.

The newspaper said Hughes, 67, has been confined to bed in his penthouse suits in the Inn on the Park since the unidentified specialist examined him last week.

Jan Eckersley, one of the aides with the Hughes party at the hotel, said: "No specialist has visited Mr. Hughes and he is not in bed."

The Daily Mirror said Hughes is still confined to bed and an electric wheelchair has been delivered to his 9th floor suite for him when he is able to use it.

Hughes has been in seclusion in his suite since he arrived three weeks ago from earthquake-devastated Managua.

Back To Rails

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thousands of Long Island Rail Road commuters, who scrambled to work by foot, bus, subway, car pool and helicopter during a 50-day strike, rode the rails for the line's first weekday service today at the start of an interim labor-management truce.

Despite rust-covered rails, some cracked engine blocks and several malfunctioning crossing gates — all caused by the long idleness — railroad officials expected most service to be on time.

The line resumed partial operations at 12:01 a.m. Saturday as a 90-day cooling-off period engineered by Labor Secretary-designate Peter Brennan went into effect.

Under the terms of the truce, the 5,000 non-operating employes who were on strike will receive an interim 6 per cent pay hike for 1972.

18-Year-Old Girl Latest Ulster Death

BELFAST (UPI) — An 18-year-old Protestant girl shot by a sniper three days ago died today, increasing the toll in Northern Ireland violence to 689, and a policeman killed another police officer in what authorities called an accident.

Police identified the victim of the sniper shooting in the town of Portodown as Ann Rowland.

Police did not identify the dead policeman but said he died in an accident in Armagh when another officer accidentally fired a gun he was carrying.

British troops searching a garage in a Protestant area of Belfast early today uncovered 450 pounds of ammonium nitrate and bomb making equipment, an army spokesman said.

The death of Miss Rowland was the latest in 3-½ years of bombing and shooting involving Protestant and Roman Catholic extremists, the Irish Republican army and British security forces.

A gunman firing on troops Sunday in a town near Londonderry wounded a child in the foot in one of several scattered incidents reported by authorities.

Gun Store Siege Is Ended

NEW YORK (UPI) — Four gunmen who held nine hostages for nearly two days in a sporting goods store stocked with ammunition surrendered quietly Sunday when police talked them out of dying in "a hail of bullets." The hostages had escaped in a daring break up a secret stairway.

The gunmen who identified themselves with black Muslims and said they wanted to unite the world against "oppressive infidels" were booked today on murder and robbery charges.

One policeman was killed and two wounded in the 47-hour ordeal which began Friday night, apparently as an attempt to rob John and Al's Sporting Goods Store of guns and ammunition, as well as money. One of the gunmen was wounded in the exchange of gunfire with police.

The weary hostages escaped unharmed through the actions of Jerry Riccio, a co-owner of the Brooklyn store who knew of a stairway from the second floor to the roof. Riccio's problem was that the opening to the stairs was covered with plasterboard.

After convincing the gunmen to let the hostages stay on the second floor, Riccio broke open the plasterboard when the gunmen rushed to another part of the floor believing police were trying to tunnel into the building.

"Come on, we've got you covered," police on the roof yelled as the hostages scrambled up the stairs to safety. Then as the hours dragged by, the gunmen were convinced to give up by talking over a specially installed telephone with Deputy Police Commissioner Benjamin Ward.

Dr. Thomas Matthew, a physician who had treated the wounded gunman during the long weekend, released a statement quoting the gunmen as saying earlier: "This is the end. This is glory. We'll go out in a hail of bullets."

"We used all our resources to reach their philosophy—die for paradise," said Ward, who is head of the civilian review board. He said he explained to them that if they had a story to tell "they had to come out alive."

Police had cordoned off the area since Friday night, at times using up to 500 men. They denied trying to tunnel into the building, saying their policy all along had been to "buy time."

Three of the alleged gunmen, Shulab Abdul Raheem, 23, Dawd Abdullah Ar-rahm, 22, and Salih Ali Abdullah, 25, were booked on murder and robbery charges early today. A fourth suspect, Yusuef Abdullah Almussiq, 22, wounded in the shootout with police, was booked at his hospital bed.

As each man was brought before him, the precinct desk officer tersely said: "The charge is murder and robbery one. He has been advised of his rights?" In quick succession, the three were placed in cells pending arraignment and possible grand jury action later today.

In a statement released to a physician who treated the wounded gunman the four assumed the stance of holy crusaders.

In a two-page handwritten letter released through the physician, the gunmen said: "We are expressing solidarity with all Muslims and oppressed peoples of the world. Oh Muslims! Unite against the oppressive infidels whose aim is the destruction of Islam. We are taking firm steps in the establishment and defense of the one true religion (Islam).

"The patrolman that was killed was killed as a result of his trigger happy comrades who sporadically fired shots at the hostages in the store wounding one of our number critically."

An owner sounded a burglar alarm as soon as he saw the gunmen in the store Friday afternoon—even before they had a chance to announce their demands. A police patrol car arrived within minutes, and the gunmen rounded up 12 hostages —customers and employes of the store.

Almost immediately, a gunbattle broke out. Each side claimed the other fired the first shot. Patrolman Steve Gilroy was shot to death.

As more and more police poured into the area—at one point there were more than 200 officers there—the gunmen and police swapped sporadic gunfire. Patrolman Joe Adorno was wounded in the arm and Patrolman Frank Carpenter was critically wounded in the leg.

During the weekend, the gunmen released three of the hostages—one of them in exchange for medical help for the wounded gunman. The others were lined up in a display window facing the street —Brooklyn's Broadway— on the ground floor of the three-story brick building.

Much of the tension dissipated Sunday when the nine remaining hostages—six men, two women and a 15-year-old girl—slipped up a hidden stairway and escaped through a hatch onto the rooftop.

Four hours later, one gunman walked out of the shop, placed his hands high on a wall in meek surrender. He was followed by two other gunmen carrying the fourth between them on a stretcher.

"One school of thought was to hit early," Murphy said. "There is a feeling of let's get it over with."

But the prevailing attitude among police officials, commanding the small army of police, was for "buying time. The majority was for waiting patiently" —a tactic that eventually paid off.

'Protest Masses' In Manila Are Broken Up By Army Troops

MANILA (UPI) — Army troops broke up two separate "protest masses" near Roman Catholic churches yesterday in downtown Manila and arrested at least 46 persons, some of them reportedly armed with homemade bombs. It was the first major reported roundup since President Ferdinand E. Marcos assumed full personal control of the country last week.

It also was the first reported public disapproval of Marcos' action.

Information Secretary Francisco S. Tatad said the soldiers moved in after receiving reports the gatherings were meant to trigger off violent incidents against Marcos' martial law regime.

Tatad said a search turned up one fragmentation grenade inside the Santa Cruz church in the heart of the capital where outside the Binondo Church one mile away, he said, troops arrested 17 persons and seized 15 "pillboxes" — homemade bombs made up of gunpowder and nails packed inside small bottles.

Altogether, he said, troops picked up 46 persons and also seized "subversive" pamphlets in their possession.

A spokesman for the Catholic Bishops Conference, the ruling church body in this Catholic country, said the demonstrations were not held inside churches and that they took place without the knowledge of the parish priests.

Four newsmen, two of them Australian, were detained, questioned and freed. The arrests came four months to the day after Marcos proclaimed a national state of martial law which included a ban on political rallies, demonstrations and similar gatherings.

One of the Australian newsmen, Peter Couchman, said between 60 and 70 persons were arrested at the Santa Cruz church. He said leaflets distributed inside the church were critical of the government and said they apparently were "Communist propaganda."

Troops also rounded up about 16 persons attending a "liberation Mass" at the Binondo church about one mile away.

"It was a regular mass, a Requiem Mass. Communion was offered," Couchman said. "But actually, it was a silent protest rally. The Philippine national anthem was sung at the beginning of the Mass and toward the end of the Mass, another national song was sung."

Couchman said it was at this point when the troopers appeared and arrested at least 16 of the 500 people inside.

Two Filipino newsmen covering the event for American and French news agencies, also were questioned and released.

Guidelines for the mass media issued by the martial law government cover both Filipino and foreign newsmen and ban, among other things, photographs or films of "military operations."

Guerrilla Leader In Africa Slain

President Sekou Toure of Guinea announced the news Sunday over Conakry Radio and said the two assassins were captured. He did not name them, but said they were agents of "imperialism and colonialism."

Cabral, 51, was the founder, president and commander-in-chief of the African Party for the Independence of Guinea and Cape Verde (PAIGC). He was one of the chief men in the black fight against Portuguese rule in Africa and addressed the United Nations last autumn as spokesmen for all nationalist movements on the continent.

He also was received in audience in 1970 by Pope Paul VI in an unusual meeting that led to strained relations between the Holy See and Lisbon.

Conakry radio, monitored in this Portuguese-ruled territory, said Cabral was assassinated "in a horrible and cowardly" manner and Toure blamed imperialist and Portuguese colonial agents for the murder. Cabral lived in a house made available to him by Toure.

Portuguese government officials in Bissau said they did not know who killed Cabral, but said he was under fire from other nationalists in his movement.

The officials said the Fula tribesmen who live along the border dividing the Portuguese territory of Guinea and the independent state of Guinea were upset by their position in the movement. Cape Verde natives held most top positions in the movement Cabral led.

Cabral, himself from Cape Verde, was educated in Lisbon and worked for the Portuguese government in its Guinea and Angola territories before founding movements seeking their independence.

Although he led some military actions against Portuguese troops, officials in Bissau said Cabral did not agree with the "holy war" strategy adopted by the Fula tribesmen, who are mostly Moslem.

Portugal has ruled the Guinea territory, a land of 13,948 square miles and 487,500 persons, and the Cape Verde island group since the 15th century. Both are under the control of military governors.

Cabral's murder was the second of high-ranking black opponents of Portuguese rule in Africa.

Butz Sees Some Lower Food Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz foresees lower chicken prices by spring and reduced pork prices next fall but is not certain about a drop in beef prices.

Butz also said in a UPI Washington Window interview yesterday that Americans still are "getting a bargain on the whole" for food and this year will spend less than 16 per cent of their take-home pay for food.

He said government price controls on farm products would produce black markets and shortages rather than bumper crops.

Butz said he believed several steps taken recently to increase food supplies would result in some lower prices in coming months.

"I think we're going to see some changes next fall and winter in hog prices for example, and in the price of pork, he said. "We expect there to be a very substantial increase in the production of hogs in the latter part of 1973. Cattle prices we're not quite so sure about."

Butz said he expected a drop in chicken prices in eight to 12 weeks.

Hospital Construction Programs Will Be Cut By Administration

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration will end the regional medical and Hill-Burton hospital construction programs and spend more money on research in health areas to which President Nixon has given priority, according to a congressman.

The congressman, who did not wish to be identified, released a document today that he said gave a breakdown on the administration's health budget for next fiscal year, starting July 1.

The budget for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) Health Services and Mental Health Administration will drop from $1.919 million this year to $1.887 million next year, according to the document.

John D. Ehrlichman, President Nixon's top domestic adviser, today cited Hill-Burton as an example of what he categorized as a wasteful domestic program.

In an interview on the NBCTV Today Show, Ehrlichman said the program "has built lots of hospitals" but contended the nation now has 25 per cent more hospital beds than it needs.

Ehrlichman said hospitals are needed in some areas but said the Hill-Burton program does not permit selective spending of funds. He referred to it as a "sorcerer's apprentice" approach to building hospitals.

The Hill-Burton program will begin the first of a two-year phaseout. The 56 regional medical programs, established during the Johnson administration to provide grants and contracts focusing on heart disease, cancer, strokes, kidney and related diseases, also will be phased out.

The administration already had begun trimming the regional programs, which got $121 million in fiscal 1971 but only an estimated $99 million last fiscal year.

The document showed that programs for rat control will be cut in half this year, lead poisoning control will be eliminated, while injury control will be reduced.

The administration is increasing the budget of the National Institutes of Health (NIH) from $2.003 million this fiscal year to $2.090 million next year. About half of the budget goes for research.

"Presidential research priorities will be maintained, including heart and lung population, environmental health and venereal disease research," the document said.

The National Cancer Institute, also a Nixon priority, will be increased from $354 million this year to $445 million next year.

The administration will set up a health services formula grant program, funded at $509 million, to replace several smaller programs that HEW had operated itself. These included comprehensive health services, $199 million; maternal and child health, $226 million; and family planning services, $82 million.

The administration is trimming the budget for preventative health services from $114 million this year to $111 million next year.

"Project grants for immunizations are reduced in 1973 and 1974 while V.D. support is increased," the document said.

"Nutrition and chronic disease programs are reduced in 1973 and eliminated in 1974. Malaria research is eliminated in 1974, and direct operations are reduced in both 1973 and 1974 to eliminate duplicative efforts, such as family planning evaluations."

Annexation Proposal Before Fairfax Council

The Fairfax Town Council will hear a proposal to annex the area between Bothin and Olema roads when it meets at 8 p.m. today in the Fairfax Women's Club.

The council also will hear a report on flood insurance and consider formally calling a $300,000 bond election for public safety facilities.

Peace Won't Bring Flood Of Money

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Even if the Vietnam War ends soon, it will not free significant sums of money for domestic government programs, President Nixon's top domestic affairs adviser said today.

"We are already spending the peace dividend," John D. Ehrlichman, assistant to the President, said.

Ehrlichman said the Pentagon budget as a percentage of the overall federal budget had been declining throughout Nixon's first term. He said it would come to about 35 per cent — compared to 45 per cent a few years ago —in the new budget to be submitted to Congress next week.

Asked if the end of the Vietnam conflict would free additional money for spending at home, Ehrlichman said: "That process has been going on for the entire four-year period."

Asked about Nixon's efforts to hear others' viewpoints, Ehrlichman insisted that the President invites adverse comments from his advisers during behind-the-scenes discussions leading to major decisions.

He said one of Nixon's favorite phrases in staff meetings is: "Do you disagree with me?"

"He invites disagreement, then he'll draw you out," Ehrlichman said.

Soviets Offer Revised Security Talk Agenda

HELSINKI (UPI) — The Soviet Union today introduced a revised four-point agenda for a European security conference.

Western sources described the Soviet proposal as "moderate" but reserved detailed comment pending further study of the proposals.

The revised Soviet agenda included these proposals:

—Ensuring European security and principles governing relations between the states.

—Expansion of East-West trade and economic relations and cooperation in protection of environment.

—Expansion of cultural relations and contacts among organizations and people including confidence building measures.

—Establishment of a consultative committee to deal with European security.

In an apparent nod to the detailed Western proposal on "freer flow of ideas and information" the Soviets included for the first time "confidence building measures" in their proposal.

But Maltsev said "the agenda should not be stuffed with too many details."

Russia rejected the demand of European neutrals, presented last week, that military questions also be taken up at the Helsinki consultations.

Maltsev said these issues "should not be discussed here because they will be dealt with by the East-West troop reduction talks."

The so-called mutual and balanced force reduction talks (MBFR) are scheduled to start Jan. 31 and according to new Soviet proposal they should include all "interested" parties.

The Western proposal, presented a week ago at the first Helsinki session after a one-month holiday recess, suggested freer exchanges between East and West in trade, travel, tourism, marriage, radio broadcasts, films, newspapers and even some exchange of military information.

In its response, the sources said, the East was expected to limit itself to broad outlines, including establishing better contacts in East-West trade and cultural and human relations. This, they said, expands the East's earlier position.

Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev said Dec. 21 that Moscow, like the West, also favors an exchange of ideas, with broader information and contacts between nations, but on condition that such a cooperation "respects the sovereignity, laws and customs of each country."

Diplomatic sources said the principal author of the Eastern bloc response was Lev I. Mendelevich, the No. 2 man in the Soviet delegation. He returned to Moscow early last week to brief Warsaw Pact foreign ministers on the Western proposal and met the Pact's ambassadors Thursday night.

The western proposal was presented by Belgium, Italy and Denmark and was drawn up by the 10-member European Common Market and the 15-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

lowed antiwar priests, Phillip and Daniel Berrigan, to travel to North Vietnam. Both are on parole from federal convictions stemming from their protest activities.

Agreed to decide whether U.S. district courts can halt administrative hearings while they consider requests for disclosure of government records under the Freedom of Information law.

—Blocked for the time being a state court ruling which deprived all Elk lodges in Maine of their liquor licenses on grounds of racial discrimination.

The states which follow the Texas law in barring any abortion except to save the life of a mother seem clearly unconstitutional under Blackmun's ruling.

Four states —New York, Alaska, Hawaii and Washington —earlier removed all criminal penalties for abortion. Efforts are under way, particularly in New York, to get them reinstated.

The 30 states which, like Texas, permit abortion only where necessary to preserve the life of the woman are:

Arizona, Connecticut, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Fifteen states where abortion is permitted on limited additional grounds in addition to Georgia are Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Delaware, Kansas, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina and Virginia.

Other Shot Theory In Magee Case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) The defense in the Ruchell Magee murder trial said today it is not ruling out the possibility that someone else fired the shot that killed Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court.

Magee, the "other defendant" in the Angela Davis case, is accused of murdering Haley during a shootout outside the Marin County courthouse in 1970 in which the judge and three others were killed.

"We are not foreclosing the possibility that law enforcement personnel killed the judge," said associate defense counsel Rommel Bondoc during arguments on motions prior to the beginning of testimony. He said it is the defense's contention that guards fired first in the exchange of gunfire.

Magee, whose repeated outbursts in the courtroom have marked proceedings throughout the trial, sat quietly while the technical motions were argued. The jury was not present.

The incident took place when young Jonathan Jackson entered Haley's courtroom and gave guns to Magee and two other San Quentin Prison inmates present to testify. They allegedly took Haley, an assistant prosecutor and others hostage and tried to escape. Jackson and the other two inmates were killed along with Haley in a parking lot outside.

Miss Davis, a former UCLA philosophy instructor, was found innocent of any part in the incident after a lengthy trial last year. Her name came into the case when it was learned she purchased guns used in the gunbattle.

Claims Planned On Overcharges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., says the Navy is preparing $16 million worth of counter claims against Litton Industries Inc., for overcharges.

Aspin said Sunday officials of the Armed Services Contract Control and Appeals Board had told him that the Navy already has submitted $11 million in counter claims and will probably submit at least another $5 million.

"If the Navy's allegations are true, then Litton Industries has consciously cheated the government out of at least $16 million," Aspin said.

Teachers In St. Louis Stage Strike

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

St. Louis teachers, defying a court order for their first strike, succeeded today in closing many public schools. Strikes continued in Philadelphia, Chicago and Superior, Wis., affecting about 950,000 students.

In St. Louis, scattered violence was reported as students broke windows at some public schools. Teachers had set up picket lines at 1 a.m. in darkness at St. Louis high schools after a vote Sunday to go on strike for more pay.

After the St. Louis Teachers Association and the St. Louis Teachers Union, which represent three-fourths of the city's 4,000 teachers, voted to strike, three leaders of the strike were ordered to appear in court Thursday to show cause why they should not be held in civil and criminal contempt for violating a temporary restraining order against such strikes.

The strike began and supervisory personnel tempted to keep schools open for 103,000 St. Louis public school students. But by midmorning the school board reported 35 of 166 schools unable to continue, and all high schools were closed.

The Philadelphia strike by 13,000 teachers ground into its third week today, the day 24 officials of the Philadelphia Federation of Teachers were to go on trial for violating a court order directing teachers to return to work.

In Chicago, which could lose millions in school aid if the strike by 25,000 teachers continued until Tuesday—which would be its 11th day—Illinois Suerintendent of Public Instruction Michael Bakalis offered the services of his office to help settle the strike.

Most of Chicago's 650,000 public school students were out of classes and Chicago Teachers Union officials reported 95 per cent compliance with the longest teachers strike in Chicago history.

In St. Louis, 60 per cent of the association's members voted to strike and the union vote was nearly unanimous.

Four Barricaded In Building After Robbery

District of Columbia police said the four took an undetermined amount of money from a branch of the First National Bank of Washington at about 12:15 EST. and were pursued by a police cruiser when they left the bank.

The police chased the men to the eight-story, abandoned apartment building in the 2000 block of M Street — a few blocks from DuPont Circle.

Police Chief Jerry V. Wilson went to the scene with about 75 officers. A helicopter also was used.

Health Centers For Indians Eyed

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (UPI) — Dr. Carl Hoffman, president of the American Medical Association, says he hopes to develop a nationwide system of voluntary health care centers to aid health-poor Indians.

Hoffman will tour the Blackfeet reservation 100 miles north of here today to get a first-hand look at Indian health care problems. "It is tragic that the average life expectancy among the nation's nearly one million native Americans is a mere 44 years ... less than two-thirds what it is for the average American," Hoffman said. "The health of our Indian population lags 20 to 25 years behind that of the general population."

Voters Are Told Peron Will Rule

SAN ANDRES DE GILES, Argentina (UPI) — The official presidential candidate for the party led from exile by onetime president Juan D. Peron says if he wins he will allow Peron to make all decisions and policy.

Hector Campora, the Justicialista front candidate in the elections scheduled in March, told thousands of supporters in his opening speech Sunday that Peron is the party's leader despite the fact he is in exile in Madrid. "If I get into government," Campora said, "don't doubt that the power will come from Peron. He is my leader, the leader of all of us, and we owe him loyalty."

drawal of U.S. troops and the return of prisoners of war within 60 days after its signing and recognition of the 17th Parallel as a temporary political border.

These sources said an international supervisory body would be formed to police the truce, the South Vietnamese and Communist forces would discuss the political future of Vietnam in meetings to be held later and an international conference would be called to discuss a permanent peace in the area.

The law and language experts meeting in Paris were believed working out the precise wording of military and other protocols which would accompany a formal cease-fire agreement and which would detail the actual workings of the cease-fire.

The South Vietnamese foreign minister said upon arrival today he hoped for a successful conclusion of the talks.

"I came to bring the goodwill of our government to see once again the re-establishment of peace in Vietnam and if it is possible, to bring our direct collaboration on the spot and to take the negotiations to their end," Lam said."

Madame Binh, who flew to Paris late Sunday after a month of consultations in Vietnam with the Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG), expressed similar hopes.

"I come back to Paris with the instructions of our government to deploy all our efforts with the aim of signing the agreement..," she said.

Optimism that the negotiations could be coming to an end after more than four years was underlined by Thuy when he talked to newsmen while awaiting Mme. Binh's return.

"The two sides found they made progress every time they met," Thuy said.

The Viet Cong said Mme. Binh met with Tho and Thuy today and the two sides "exchanged views on the general situation and the problems concerning completion of a text of the agreement on the cessation of war and reestablishment of peace in Vietnam."

With peace apparently near, Saigon newspapers said President Thieu would issue a series of stringent controls throughout South Vietnam as soon as a cease-fire is announced. They said it would include shoot-to-kill orders for "anyone stirring trouble among the population or inciting to rebellion and support of the Communists."

Other measures included arresting persons caught with Communist propaganda leaflets or flags, arresting persons who try to prevent police from carrying out their duties, shooting of government employes, military personnel and police who abandon their posts or advocate defection, death sentences for persons caught distributing Communist banknotes, and arrest and military trials for neutralists and Communist sympathizers.

facilities, $155.9 million.

Like some Democratic legislators, Post suggested as another alternative delaying the sales tax increase from five to six cents on the dollar until next January or until July 1974, resulting in a loss of revenue totaling $368 million and $593 millon, respectively.

Delaying the scheduled 1.4 per cent increase in the corporate franchise tax rate from next July until January 1974 would cost the state $50 to $55 million, he said.

Both the sales tax and the bank and corporations tax are to be increased to help finance the state's new $1.1 billion property tax relief and school aid law.

Reagan has said he was "committed" to an income tax reduction but lately indicated he is also looking at other ways to spend the $852 million current surplus.

Post said a married couple with two cildren earning $5,000 a year would save $25 if the sales tax increase were delayed but would receive no savings if a one-time 30 per cent income tax credit was enacted.

Woman Quits Chairman's Race

BERKELEY (UPI) — Patricia Nisbit, chairman of the women's division of the state Democratic Party, announced her withdrawal from the race for state party chairman.

Mrs. Nisbit said that remaining in the campaign "might produce further misunderstanding and divisiveness" in the party.

The two remaining contenders are John Burton, a San Francisco liberal Assemblyman, and John Merlo, a Chico moderate.

Mrs. Nisbit said she plans to run for reelection to her current post.

Bay Area Teamsters Will Seek Separate Bargaining Powers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Leaders of San Francisco Bay Area Teamsters locals, including one representing Marin and Sonoma counties, have announced plans to seek separate bargaining when the national truckers' contract comes up for renewal this spring.

The local units of the powerful International Brothershood of Teamsters hope to handle "special problems" of area union members by bargaining with employers in the area, it was disclosed today.

tion from the California Trucking Association. The pact expires in June.

A union spokeman said the efforts failed because of a federal court ruling that the attempt to break away from the national pattern occurred after the contract was nearly worked out.

"We've given six months notice this time," said Chuck Mack, secretary of Local 70 which has 8,500 members in the Oakland area.

When the current national contract was negotiated in 1970, several Bay Area locals staged wildcat picketing in an effort to get special contract considera-

Five other Bay Area locals were backing the move for area bargaining. They include Local 85 of San Francisco; Local 315 of Contra Costa County; Local 490 of Napa and Solano counties; Local 624 of Marin and Sonoma counties, and Local 980 of Mendocino and Lake counties. In all they represent about 20,000 truckers.

In a letter to Teamster President Frank Fitzsimmons, leaders of the Bay Area units asked his approval of the separate bargaining.

"Our membership is convinced that national bargaining has had the effect of restricting our ability to solve the special problems which we have in the Bay Area," Mack said.

The union's by-laws prohibit local bargaining without approval of the president, who also has veto power on any Teamster strike.

Board May Terminate School Head

The Tamalpais High School District board, which has been reported to be considering firing Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins, will meet in closed session tonight to consider his contract.

The session will follow the board's regular meeting, set for 8 o'clock in Sir Francis Drake High School's student center, San Anselmo.

In the regular meeting, a new daily class schedule, to go into operation at Drake in the fall, will be explained by Drake's educational leader, Thomas M. Lorch.

The schedule adds a seventh period, moves the school day forward to start at 8 a.m., and provides for 95-minute "long block" classes.

Also on a lengthy agenda are salary proposals by the Tamalpais District Teachers Association for the 1973-74 school years. The teachers are asking for a 5.5-per-cent salary raise, bonuses for advanced degrees, income protection insurance, addition of orthodontic coverage to the present dental insurance, plus more credit for previous teaching experience.

Total cost of the proposals would be $393,980, of which $292,000 represents the 5.5-percent salary boost.

Night Meeting Set

The Novato City Council and North Marin County Water District board will meet at 6:30 a.m. tomorrow at Sambo's restaurant, Novato, to discuss coordination between the district and the city. The meeting originally was scheduled at 7:30 a.m.

Prosecution Seeking To Hear Bugged Calls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The prosecution in the Watergate case today renewed its attempt to make public the bugged conversations of Democratic party officials.

The prosecution asked for a re-hearing by the U.S. Court of Appeals on its order last week that the tape-recorded conversations could not be introduced in evidence.

Witness Alfred C. Baldwin III had testified he had made the tapes in a motel across the street from the Democratic National Headquarters in the Watergate building where at least one telephone was said to have been bugged.

Baldwin had been scheduled for cross-examination by defense attorneys today but was delayed getting to Washington by bad weather at his Hamden, Conn., home.

Baldwin had testified he was hired by the security chief of President Nixon's Re-election Committee, James W. McCord Jr., to monitor conversations with sophisticated wire tapping equipment supplied by McCord.

Gerald Arch, a defense attorney, said he intended to challenge the testimony Baldwin gave last week that he monitored about 200 telephone calls originating from the offices of the Democratic National Committee in Washington's Watergate building last year.

McCord is one of two men still on trial on charges of conspiracy, burglary and illegal wire tapping. The other is G. Gordon Liddy, a former White House aide and finance counsel for the committee to re-elect Nixon.

Five of the original seven defendants have entered guilty pleas. They are Edward Hunt, a former $100-a-day White House consultant, and four Miami men.

Police testified they arrested McCord and the four Miami men in the Democratic offices in the pre-dawn hours of last June 17.

Last week a U.S. Court of Appeals panel ruled 2 to 1 that the actual contents of the conversations which Baldwin monitored could not be admitted as evidence in the trial.

The conversations allegedly were overheard on the telephone of R. Spencer Oliver, a Democratic party official.

Earl L. Silbert, the chief prosecutor, said he might appeal that decision to the U.S. Supreme Court. Silbert argued that some information in the phone conversations was vital to the prosecution's case.

The Jobless Vet Count Shows Drop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The unemployment among service veterans of the Vietnam war era fell substantially in 1972, the Labor Department said today. The rate dropped from 8.1 per cent down to 5.5 per cent, lower than the rate for male non-veterans of the same age.

The Labor Department credited lower unemployment among veterans to improvements in the nation's economy, special efforts by government, business and labor to find jobs for returning GIs, and to lower numbers of servicemen being released from the armed forces.

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson told the President a week ago that unemployment among Vietnam war era veterans "in effect no longer constitutes a national problem."

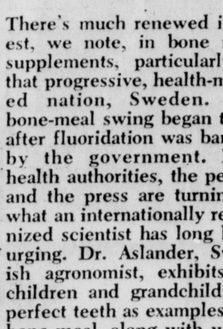
Over 30 Years Experience In Nutrition

HERE'S HEALTH!

by JUNE EMBURY



There's much renewed interest, we note, in bone meal supplements, particularly in that progressive, health-minded nation, Sweden. The bone-meal swing began there after fluoridation was banned by the government. Now health authorities, the people and the press are turning to what an internationally recognized scientist has long been urging. Dr. Aslander, Swedish agronomist, exhibits his children and grandchildren's perfect teeth as examples that bone meal, along with whole grains and good nutrition can prevent tooth decay completely.

According to various sources, including Robert Choate's recent column in the S.F. Chronicle (1/5/73) bone meal has become so popular in Sweden that for a time, there wasn't any left on shop shelves. Our shelves, though, have an ample and varied supply at all times.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, TEXAS — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss ... and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss ... but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment and see for yourself!

Naturally they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss. Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair ... now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Couple Of Places To Spend City Money

We have been known to turn a jaundiced eye toward some of the expenditures proposed in federal, state, county, city and district budgets. But we would like to recommend a couple of expenditures for the City of San Rafael.

Both, we feel, are badly needed.

FIRST OF THESE is reroofing and repair of the old house in the corner of Boyd Park which is headquarters of the Marin County Historical Society.

When Boyd Park was given to the city, a proviso in the gift was that the house be maintained for the historical headquarters. The maintenance, however, has been something less than adequate.

The Marin County Historical Society performs a public service, the value of which is being realized more as the people of Marin awaken to the loss of ties with their county's own history through destruction of landmarks, failure to keep old records and manuscripts, deaths of the pioneers who can "remember when," etc.

The City of San Rafael, as county seat ever since the county was formed, has a responsibility to help preserve this heritage. The small outlay necessary to keep the historical society's headquarters in repair is little enough for the city to contribute. Besides, the city is obligated by the terms of the park gift.

The historical society itself seems very reticent about pressuring the city council to spend some money to put the building into livable condition. Maybe the historical society officers feel it shouldn't be necessary. But apparently it is necessary.

The city has a "windfall" of federal revenue sharing money from which the needed repairs perhaps could be financed. This is the kind of "one time only" project for which the use of such funds would be appropriate. But if the federal government's strings on the money preclude its use for such purpose, we suggest funds be included in the city budget for next fiscal year.

THE SECOND project is painting of the city's two-story parking structure at Fifth Avenue and C Street.

When this structure was built, it was proposed to paint it immediately. The late City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen recommended that it first be allowed to "weather" through one winter, as a paint job on new concrete often has to be done over.

Eight winters have passed since then. The structure is still unpainted.

We think the city should make its parking lots as attractive as possible. A parking lot can scarcely be a thing of beauty; but it need not be an eyesore.

We assume that money from the parking district fund, derived from the meter fees, is available for this purpose.

Imagination And Reality

The popularity of the old radio dramas on some Bay Area radio stations proves imagination can transcend reality any day of the week. The actors provided the words and we listeners imagined the setting, the costumes, the actors' appearances and the action. Every listener brought his own idea of these things. Small wonder those of us who grew up before the age of television sometimes find it disappointing! No use for our imaginations now.

Raccoon Tracks

Everywhere we look these days, we find raccoon trakcs. Their hand and nose prints appear on our back porch window, indicating the raccoons stood on our garbage can and peered longingly in at a row of ripening persimmons. We find their muddy "baby-feet' hind footprints on the front steps where they have come to ask us to put out more food or perhaps just to observe human life in its natural habitat. Marin's raccoons are keen people-watchers.

TIMING IS EVERYTHING

Haerle's Pitch Sounds Wrong Note For Time

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Timing is everything in politics, and like everything in politics, unpredictable.

An example was the flyer put out last week by Paul R. Haerle of Strawberry in his campaign for vice chairman of the Republican State Central Committee of California. It presumably was printed some weeks ago — before the furore erupted over the governor's nomination of his former top aide, William P. Clark Jr., to the state Supreme Court.

The previously undisclosed fact that Clark had to drop out of law school, and never graduated has raised a storm of protest from prestigious legal bodies that Clark is unfit for such a high judicial position.. . .

Haerle stressed in his flyer that, as Reagan's former appointments secretary he "helped implement the governor's highly regarded merit plan of judicial selection."

AN ORDER that could "Sanforize" Marin's shrinking railways has been issued by a federal judge in Pennsylvania.

The order suspended new Interstate Commerce Commission rules that would have made it easier for railroads to abandon unwanted tracks. Under the proposed rules, a railroad could file for abandonment if it could show the tracks carried fewer than 34 carloads of freight per mile during the preceding 12 months.

The old rules, which required a railroad to prove its case for abandonment, will continue in effect until the case is heard sometime this year.

Anything that delays further railroad abandonments in Marin would give the county and Golden Gate Bridge District needed time to come up with a financial plan to get abandoned railroad rights-of-way for future transit use.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

All sorts of allowances are made for the illusions of youth; and none, or almost none, for the disenchantments of age. — Robert Louis Stevenson.

Old age isn't so bad when you consider the alternative. — Maurice Chevalier.

You take all the experience and judgment of men over 50 out of this world and there wouldn't be enough left to run it. — Henry Ford.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Letters for "What Our Readers Say" are welcomed. To be published, they must bear the writer's signature and address (only the city will be printed, but street or post office box address must be included.) Try to limit letters to 200 words. The editors reserve the right to cut long letters, or to reject any that may be libelous or in bad taste.

This Reader Objects To Getting The News

I continue to be appalled by the irresponsible journalistic techniques your paper has used in stories related to the Tamalpais High School District, the latest example of which appeared in tonight's issue (Jan. 16).

The picture of a reporter for the county's largest newspaper listening at a keyhole to a private session is not one that brings credit to that individual, her paper or her profession. Your lack of regard for the sensitivities of the people involved is surpassed only by your disregard for a law which authorizes public bodies to hold personnel hearings in closed session.

Survival Inc. Not On Brink Of Collapse

We're writing to inform you that your Jan. 13 article entitled "Near Collapse — Recycling Firm Plans Survival," distorted our financial situation and misrepresented our organization. Survival Inc. is not on the brink of financial collapse. Although we operate on a very tight budget, we are quite able to meet all our commitments within the community and fulfill all of our contractual responsibilities with the County of Marin.

What we attempted to communicate about our financial situation was the following: (1) that we were successfully satisfying the requirements of our county contract; (2) that our present level of funding does not allow us to expand our operations to meet the needs and demands of the residents of Marin County who are not serviced by us yet who would recycle if there were a depot in their area.

. . .The only problem we are experiencing financially is due to our inadequate truck. . .We are receiving more recyclables than our truck is capable of dealing with. Therefore we have needs for a more efficient trucking system than our present level of funding allows. . .

. . .Our efforts are directed to demonstrate to the county committee studying solid waste management that recycling is a viable alternative because recycling conserves natural resources and promotes conscientious consumer habits. These habits avoid one-way containers and overpackaging and thereby help to reduce the high volume of solid waste that consumerism generates. . .

Machines Cannot Sort Much Of Your Mail

I am a retired postal clerk. I spent 30 years in the service . . .

In reply to yesterday's (Jan. 10) Journal in both the feature editorial and the latter from Mr. Shand of Mill Valley . . .

I agree that trucking all mail picked up in the various mail boxes all around Marin all the way to San Francisco to be cancelled and worked seems a little ridiculous, costly, and it entails a certain amount of delay in returning mail destined for towns in this immediate area. To make matters even worse, the belief that this mail is sorted in the gigantic mail sorting machines which have been installed in all the major post offices throughout the country is a false one . . .

There are two types of sorting machines besides the conventional way of clerks casing mail by hand. The first is the multi-million dollar new OCR (optical character reader). The second is the letter sorting machines. This requires clerks to do the reading while they are sitting at consoles . . . After reading the address on each, they press certain buttons on their console that directs the letters to certain bins . . .

The OCR is a marvelous machine. The mail fed into it to be sorted enters with the rapidity of a machine gun firing. When the mail falls into the various bins in the rear all sorted, the clerks assigned to removing the mail to keep the bins cleared resemble Jackie Gleason's skit on working at the Automat. In spite of the efficiency and speed of this wonderful machine, it has its limitations. It can only read certain mail . . . The type must be of a kind acceptable for the machine to read. It must be type or print. The machine cannot read hand-written addresses, even if they are printed.

From this you will see that whatever reason the Post Office Department may have for sending the mail to San Francisco rather than to have primary distribution performed in the San Rafael Post Office, it is certainly not to have it sent through the mail sorting machines. My guess would be that San Francisco needs the work to justify the necessarily large amount of clerks they must have available for the large volumes of mail that may arrive at any time . . .

I resent this work being taken from our own post office, which is probably faced with the same problem occasionally, possibly causing a reduction in the working force, and also possibly lessening the amount of new appointments to the San Rafael Post Office.

I also resent the fact that if I want to mail a letter or greeting card to my next-door neighbor, it first must make a 50-mile trip to San Francisco in order to effect delivery . . .

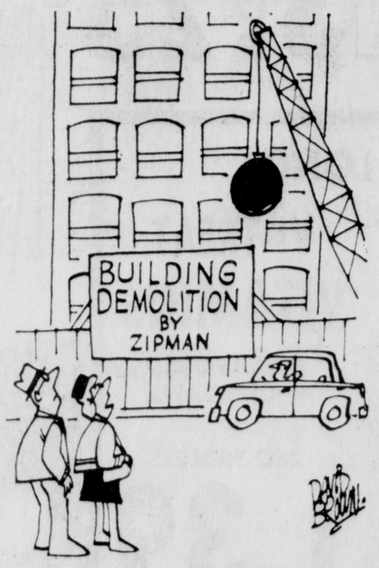
TODAY'S WORLD



"Doesn't it give you a feeling of security and well-being to know that our marriage is four years older than that building?"

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

Citizens who complain about Phase III of the President's economic plan now are sorry they ever objected to Phases I and II.

The Roman numerals are a reminder that prosperity is like Rome. It wasn't built in a day.

Phase III is voluntary. This means you have to blame yourself and not Dick if it doesn't work.

It's proving easier to phase-in higher prices and better wages than it is to phase-out inflation.

Once again our nation is faced with the difficult task of complying with the law of supply and demand.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

Behind The Bunting Lurk Dark Shadows On Inauguration

WASHINGTON — However the peace progresses and despite the die-hard anti-war demonstrators, the inauguration got a lift from the expectation that at last the killing is to end. To a lot of Americans, this time "Hail to the Chief" was particularly appropriate.

A hard-to-estimate number of millions who supported the President but abandoned him during the December bombing offensive should be back aboard by now. To Nixon loyalists who stuck with him through the promise of the '50s and the darkness of the early '60s, this Jan. 20 was the day that made it all worthwhile.

YOU DO NOT HAVE to be one of those loyalists to rejoice at the prospect of peace. Only the most dedicated peace marchers will be disappointed suddenly to be marching in protest against something that used to be. Most Americans are large of spirit, and want to wish good things to a man who has worked so hard to succeed in politics and diplomacy. Our reflex, almost, is to cheer when the bands parade past and the President waves from his platform atop a 49-state, 61 per cent landslide.

And yet. Yet when the stands are dismantled and the big contributors fly home and the pigeons scared away by chemical Roost-No-More come back to bivouac along Pennsylvania Avenue, the cheering will stop.

For there behind the red-white-and-blue bunting and the inaugural gowns, some hard facts become harder now that peace is, as the man says, at hand. With the war ending, assorted outrages that seemed tolerable while the greater outrage of war went on are going to move into truer perspective.

All of them, the ones I spoeak of, are products of the arrogance of the Nixon administration. The most obnoxious is the Watergate conspiracy.

IT WAS ALARMING enough that any group of men under auspices of either political party thought it advisable to enter into espionage and sabotage against its opponents. It was doubly so, though not surprising, when the threads that controlled these men were found to run directly into the White House.

Now it is clear that the embarrassment potential for those closest to the Oval Office is to be limited by the neat expedient of having key defendants plead guilty, thus bypassing the taking of evidence from them.

The remaining defendants are maintaining they did what they did as a purely defensive measure, out of fear that violence and harm to the President himself might thus be forestalled. Afraid that the Secret Service, the FBI and other agencies could not protect the President, they got up their own private police force, and would like the law outside of which they operated to forgive them because of their motives.

As alarming as the crimes themselves were, for those guilty to get away with this excuse, and without being required to trace the conspiracy to its original organizers, will be a dangerous precedent for the country. It will inspire those who think that to be assured that every time "Hail to the Chief" is played in the future, it is for the man with the best ties with the phone-tapping underworld.

THE WATERGATE AFFAIR reeks strongest, but mercifully it is one of its kind — as far as we know now. Administration actions of more marginal illegality, debatably within the rules of the contest between executive and legislative branches, are so numerous they defy listing.

Congress passes a massive program to clean up the nation's water, but the President vetoes it. Congress, under broad pressure from the people, overrides the veto. The President simply refuses to carry out the program once Congress has acted.

Comparable flouting of the popular will already has been ordered by effective impoundment of agricultural and housing funds, and is threatened in education. The Congress hesitates to approve a presidential plan for cabinet reorganization, so the President orders reorganization himself, funneling more power throigh fewer men who do not have to worry about either confirmation or oversight by Congress.

The phrase that any administration loyalist would pick up is "popular will." Their position is that the utmost expression of the popular will came in the landslide vote for the President —and that rather than voting against George McGovern, all those millions were voting for impoundment of water-pollution funds and whatever other ungranted powers the White House wants to arrogate to itself.

So while the band music is echoing and the cheering dies away, to all the good wishes of the day you can add a wistful wish that got away:that for the good of the country, he had won by an eyelash instead of a landslide.

Details Of Cease-Fire Pact Will Need Careful Scrutiny

Question marks over Vietnam settlement: When the text of a cease-fire agreement is published, it will be scrutinized with a watchmaker's eyeglass to see whether it achieves the goal of an "honorable peace" which President Nixon said is the only peace he would accept.

The President's goals were these:

3—Assured return of American POWs.

WHAT ARE the ingredients in such a settlement? When the terms are finally known, the essential questions are these:

Does the agreement provide reasonably adequate means to monitor and enforce a cease-fire? An unenforceable cease-fire is no cease-fire.

Does the agreement hide within it a coalition government which would mean putting unelected Communists into high office? If it does, it suggests that South Vietnam could suffer the same fate as Czechoslovakia when Moscow imposed a coalition government after World War II.

Do the terms affirm that the Saigon government has political authority over South Vietnam as Hanoi has political authority over North Vietnam until conditions for reunification can be reached?

Affirmative answers to the first two questions are crucial, to the third one important.

OTHER QUESTIONS which will arise: Will a cease-fire bring peace? What are the odds the Communists will find the means to take over South Vietnam? Will the United States go to the aid of South Vietnam if Hanoi resumes the offensive?

Here are some candid answers:

A cease-fire will not bring peace. It will mean that a military struggle will become a political struggle in which the Viet Cong, with help from the north, will do everything possible to harass, undermine and unseat the Saigon regime.

For this year and next, the South Vietnamese have considerable military resources. The capability of the north has been greatly weakened by the bombing of the last six months. The capability of the south has been greatly strengthened by Vietnamization.

Whether Saigon can win a secure peace for itself in the long run depends on its relationship with its own people. That reamins an unknown factor.

The Nixon administration has no intention of going to war in Vietnam again unless there is a massive Communist attack. Even then, U.S. air support is very uncertain.

INFLATION — It's very relative. In the United States, most consumers wonder why the government can't get inflation under control and keep prices from going up. But in Western Europe, consumers want to know why their governments can't control inflation and keep prices down as effectively as the United States. The fact is that consumer prices in all the nine Common Market countires have been rising at an annual rate of 8 per cent while U.S. inflation has been running at about 3.5 per cent.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Jan. 22, 1963

A bill to return excess profits of the Golden Gate Bridge District to the counties in the district was introduced by State Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael.

20 YEARS AGO

Jan. 22, 1953

Attorney Wallace S. Myers asked Marin Municipal Water District directors to help him litigate a suit to force the Meadow Club to pay the same water rates as other consumers. The directors refused to go along.

Secret negotiations between Pacific Greyhound Lines and the Marin Federation of Improvement Clubs on a proposed 30 per cent hike in commute fares were brought to light by the Independent-Journal.

Fickle Words Refuse To Stay With Dictionary Meanings

A dictionary is the revenge scholars try to take on words for being so fickle. Their wild dream is to nail those faithless, evasive meanings down. One, two, three options at the most, and that's it

A hopeless cause!

In this century of the quick-change, nothing changes faster than words, slipping and sliding out of their previous commitments to keep up with the world they label

One must "trade in" one's vocabulary almost as often as one's automobile another case of planned obsolescence

Words — once the firm molds for meaning, the precision tools for definition — have turned to rubber, mocking those who use them Is there anything more perishable than the latest verbal novelty? Rhetorical question What exactly will special words like "turn on" and "far out" mean a decade from now, if the terms are still in use?

COMEDIANS, NOT SCHOLARS are needed to appreciate this tragicomedy of giddy semantics The practical jokes that words play upon people call for practical jokes in return And so the world produces irreverent men who set words on banana peels and give them a shove, just to see if they make more sense upside down than right side up

Oscar Wilde was such a man. Driven to tears by the pompous weight self-satisfied people imposed upon the word "experience." Wilde declared: "Experience is the name men give to their mistakes."

Ambrose Bierce — the American journalist who, according to legend, rode off on a burro to the Mexican revolution in 1914, never to be heard from again — was another such man. Suffering fools as ungladly as Wilde. Bierce cried: "A bore is a man who talks when you wish him to listen."

These two samples may suggest the rules of comic lexicography. The comic lexicographer presumes that most words are balloons into which hot air has been pumped. He comes equipped with nice sharp pins. With a fair degree of violence, he systematically destroys cliches.

IN BRINGING BACK words to reality, the comic lexicographer inevitably becomes a satirist. His definitions are social comments, and when they are laid end to end, they add up to a point of view.

Bierce actually organized a satirical dictionary ("The Devil's Dictionary"), over the years other aphorists have been more or less cataloguing Wilde's dictionary for him. And now here comes Bernard Rosenberg, editor of Dissent, professor at the City University of New York, and author of "Dictionary for the Disenchanted."

As at least three of the following examples indicate, Mr. Rosenberg's running theme is change itself: the solemn absurdities of the modish. In alphabetical order, of course:

"Artist: A man easily identified by his bizarre clothes, outrageous habits, long hair, insouciant manners, and other visible stigmata that render him indistinguishable from everyone else

"Foreign aid Taxing poor people in rich countries for the benefit of rich people in poor countries.

"Hipster: Someone who adopts customs that go in one era and out the other."

"Like: An all-purpose expletive. Along with 'you know,' 'hopefully,' 'dig,' and 'man,' it has so enriched American English that we can henceforth do without most of the remaining 600,000 words that still clutter out-of-date dictionaries."

LIKE HIS FELLOW comic lexicographers, Mr. Rosenberg is a counter-puncher who scarcely cares what excesses he must commit in order to attack the prevailing cant. His motto is Wilde's: "Whenever people agree with me, I always feel I must be wrong."

Ah, the trials of the poor iconoclast!

The vocational malady of the comic lexicographer obviously is cynicism: he is an overreactor On subjects like marriage, his sneering is notorious. He frequently tries too hard — a sneer, like anything else, must come naturally. As La Rochefoucault, no mean definition-snapper himself, put it: "The passion to seem clever often keeps us from being so."

Mr. Rosenberg must plead guilty to these charges. But much can be forgiven a man who defines pragmatism thus: "A distinctively American philosophy whose only failing is that it does not work."

Supervisors To Study Joint Use Of Base

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, meeting tomorrow at 9 a.m. at Marin Civic Center, will discuss joint use at Hamilton Air Force Base and possible junking of the county aviation commission.

Discussion of joint military-civilian use of the air base will center on whether the county should spend about $50,000 for an environmental impact report

Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste, an opponent of joint use, said last week if the board turns down the environmental study, he will ask for the abolition of the aviation commission, which he considers "a lobby for joint use."

The Greater San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, meanwhile, has filed a report with the county showing many Marinites are in favor of joint use.

From Novato, considered a hotbed of opposition to joint use, 116 persons responded favorably and 23 unfavorably.

The Supervisors' agenda also includes:

SECURITY — A decision whether to reduce Civic Center security from the present 15-man force to a nine-man force The proposal is opposed by Sheriff Louis P Mountanos

MARINVIEW — Discussion of mudslide problems in the troubled subdivision of Marinview in Tamalpais Valley and whether additional development should be allowed and what corrective measures should be taken to guard against future mudsliding.

ELECTION — A decision whether to hold a tax rate election for the new Marin County Regional Park District or rely on the possibility of a favorable opinion from the state attorney general that no election is necessary to comply with the state's property tax limitation law.

BUDGET — Preliminary discussions on next fiscal year's budget with supervisors expected to outline what each thinks is the direction county government and county services should be going.

Sleeping Posture And Its Effects

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Colorado Springs dental researcher says he can tell a person's sleeping habits by looking at his teeth, jaws and posture

Dr Hal A. Huggins said Sunday that Children who sleep on their sides or stomachs develop crooked teeth, undershot jaws, elongated skulls and bad posture.

The back sleeper usually has a straight back and beautiful smile, Huggins told the Dental Alumni Association of the University of California.

Huggins said his conclusion came after five years of studying the effects of sleeping habits on bone structure. His presentation to the alumni group was entitled, "Why raise ugly kids?"

IRS Office Is Offering Tax Help

Residents of San Rafael and other Marin County areas may receive free assistance in preparing their 1972 federal income tax returns by telephoning the San Rafael Internal Revenue Service office, according to IRS officials.

Help will be limited to answering questions that may arise while filling out the form in those specific sections of the return with which taxpayers may be having difficulties, officials said.

IRS personnel will prepare entire returns for persons with language or physical handicaps, however, according to Charles E. Kingman, IRS district director for Northern California.

Kingman points out that more than 70 per cent of all tax questions can be answered by telephone. So when confusion arises at tax time, he urged residents to get in touch with the San Rafael office, Third and D streets.

Office hours are from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. The office also will be open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. from Jan. 27 through April 16 and each Monday until 8 p.m.

The Loot Hooked

GLASGOW (AP) — A daring raider dressed as a "city gent" — a businessman in the financial district — hooked a money bag containing $720 from behind a bank counter using his rolled umbrella. Three accomplices chatted with the teller while the raid was carried out.

State Dominates Wine Market

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California wines will make up about 73 per cent of the anticipated 645-million in 1973, as an industry consultant said today.

California wineries will produce about 252 million gallons of the total and imports about 45 million gallons, Louis R. Gomberg said in "Wines & Vines," an industry publication.

Other wine producing states such as New York, Michigan, Washington, Ohio, Missouri and Arkansas will account for the remaining 48 million gallons.

Our new 280 SE 4.5 costs almost three times as much as the "average" car. But we think there are 10,000 Americans who can appreciate the difference.

At over $10,000, it is not only well above average, it is some $2,500 more expensive than the highest priced domestic luxury sedan.

Whether it's worth that difference to you may be answered only by what you expect of a motor car.

The 280SE 4.5 is a touring sedan in the best European tradition.

Designed to provide every motoring comfort for a party of five. And engineered to cope with driving situations that vary from the descending switchbacks of an Alpine pass to the 100 mph cruising speeds of an Autobahn.

A concept so different from that guiding the design of a domestic "luxury" car that Mercedes-Benz engineers used the Nürburgring racing circuit as its final testing ground.

Its engine is unlike any built in America. An overhead-cam, fuel-injected 4.5 liter V-8.

It has no carburetor. Instead, a computer monitors engine speed and load, temperature and altitude, then electronically meters fuel to each cylinder. This more precise method of fuel delivery provides high-speed touring capability with the greatest possible efficiency.

The fully independent suspension was designed for ruts and bends, not just boulevards and turnpikes. It's so roadworthy, Road & Track contends that "no domestic luxury sedan is even in the same ballpark."

And to match its performance abilities, Mercedes-Benz engineers have equipped it with four power-assisted disc brakes, ventilated in front to resist fading.

The result is an automobile that performs with equal aplomb on the 174 curves of Nürburgring, or the unwavering ribbon of a thruway.

And an automobile that is further endowed with almost every comfort. Power brakes and steering. Electric windows. Air conditioning and tinted glass. Electrically heated rear window. An AM-FM receiver. Even a central locking system that secures all four doors, the trunk and even the gas port at the touch of a button.

In addition to the 280SE 4.5, Mercedes-Benz builds two other V-8 touring sedans in similarly miniscule quantities.

The 280SEL 4.5 is identical to the SE except that it is longer. Longer in the Mercedes-Benz sense — an increase of four inches that is translated directly into rear-seat leg room.

The 300SEL 4.5 adds air suspension to the list of performance features unavailable on any domestic automobile.

In total, these three high-performance touring sedans will account for less than one of every 400 cars sold in the United States this year.

If you can accept a car that "different," take a thorough test drive. Discover the real differences in a car built to be the best — not the best seller.

Sausalito Sentenced On Charge

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Walter B. Dachsteiner, 37-year-old Sausalito man said to have grossed $2M a year from the sale of pornographic movies, has been sentenced to federal prison for 18 months.

Judge William T. Sweigert of U.S. District Court also fined Dachsteiner, who lives at 171 Second Street, $2,500. He allowed Dachsteiner, who reportedly has pneumonia, to remain free, however, until Wednesday noon.

At that time his attorney is expected to ask the judge to release his client on bail pending an appeal of the conviction, according to Asst. U.S. Atty. Dennis Nerney, who prosecuted the case.

Dachsteiner was convicted last month by a jury of 16 charges of sending obscene material through the mails, advertising his films, and one count of mailing one of the movies.

Postal investigators began investigating him in 1971 after receiving complaints from throughout the United States from persons who received Dachsteiner's brochure.

Discussion Set On Sewer Line

Ross Valley Sanitary District officials will meet with the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce to discuss underground ing of a sewage pipe through the city's downtown at noon Thursday in the Ross Valley Savings community room.

Downtown businessmen have claimed the project will hurt business by inconveniencing shoppers.

Post's Solution To Smog Control

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — As an alternative to deferally proposed gas rationing Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post is dusting off a once-rejected plan aimed at dramatically reducing smog in Southern California.

It calls for annual inspections of all the estimated 7.2 million motor vehicles in the sprawling Los Angeles basin along with a requirement that the vacuum spark advance on used cars be disconnected.

Legislation establishing such a program was defeated last year in the Assembly Transportation Committee, which approved a similar bill only to see it die in the Denate.

Both were based on recommendations by Post, who said in an interview that he soon will renew his recommendation to the 1973 legislature.

He made the disclosure in the wake of a controversial federal proposal by Environmental Protection Agency Administrators William D. Ruckelshaus to ration gasoline in the basin during smoggy May-October. The proposal would reduce automobile use by up to 82 per cent.

The federal recommendation was viewed widely as an action designed to build public pressure on Congress to extend the 1977 clean air standard deadline for hydrocarbons, a chief ingredient of automobile-caused smog.

The federal plan also envisions annual mandatory inspections of motor vehicles, limiting automobile vacuum spark advances and installing anti-smog devices on older cars costing as much as $400.

"I saw nothing in the testimony last year that indicated the my recommendation was not an entirely viable and workable proposal," Post said.

Under questioning, he added, "I think it ought to be seriously reconsidered. We are going to request the legislature to reexamine it."

Scientific studies have shown, Post noted, that disconnecting the vacuum spark advance results in about a 50 per cent reduction in the emission of oxides of nitrogen. At freeway crusing speeds, emissions of hydrocarbons are reduced 30 to 50 per cent.

The vacuum spark advance is a device that boosts automobile acceleration. Exhaust emissions of pollutants are reduced when the mechanism is disconnected by relatively simple mechanical surgery.

The Los Angeles basin includes all of Los Angeles, Orange and Ventura counties along with portions of Riverside, San Bernardino and Santa Barbara counties.

While exhaust emissions are reduced under the disconnect procedure, gasoline mileage decreased by about 4 per cent and some auto engines overheat. Post noted that newly developed smog control devices already are costing a "considerable" mileage loss and insisted the heating problem can be easily overcome for about $25.

Originally, the analyst's roadside inspection program, financed by motor vehicle registration fees, was estimated to cost $21 million but later the proposal was refined and the price scaled down to $10 million.

Under the plan, exhaust emissions would be checked annually and the auto certified before it could be reregistered. Prior to inspection, the vacuum spark advance would have to be disconnected, a procedure which motorists could do themselves at no cost or at a service station for about $5.

Mayors To Eye Tax Shift Bill

The Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen will discuss the state's new school tax shift act, when it meets at 6:30 p.m. Jan. 31 at the Deer Park Villa in Fairfax.

The council will also consider proposals to control development within the so-called "spheres of influence" of Marin cities.

The meeting will be hosted by the City of Fairfax.

Panther Leader Is Speaker At Antiwar March

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Black Panther Bobby Seale says, "It won't be a question of four more years of Nixon...he's gonna have to deal with four more years of us."

He was speaking before 5,000 who marched from San Francisco's Ferry Building to Civic Center.

Other rallies were in San Francisco's Mission Dolores Park, Marin County, Port Chicago and Santa Cruz.

THE UNWANTED PREGNANCIES

Planned Parent Director Speaks Up

NATIONAL BOARD member of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America Mrs. Laurence Kraus of Corinthian Island said that the greatest insurance a mother can have is to let her daughter know what is available to prevent unwanted pregnancy. Contraceptive services were given to 712 girls under 18 at its Marin affiliate last year.

By PAT BALMES

"If we could cut out all unwanted pregnancies, it would go far toward establishing true population stabilization for this country," said Mrs. Laurence Kraus of Belvedere, who has been elected to the national board of directors of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America.

"Think of it in relation to the whole change of attitude in this country. After World War II couples believed four children was the ideal family; now it is two," said Joan Kraus.

A volunteer since 1959, she said that when she began, Planned Parenthood was a spacing program for married women "as a health and happiness measure." Then about a decade ago, people began talking about population as a serious threat to our way of life.

In the past Planned Parenthood has been very interested in welfare workers suggesting family planning, but they could only mention it if the client asked, she said.

NOW IT is a directive. Money is federally appropriated to subsidize family planning service for women who could not otherwise afford it, according to Joan Kraus.

From July 1971 to June 1972 three-and-a-half million low-income women were served by public and private family planning services. Still there are an estimated three million more women who need some kind of subsidized service, she said.

Mrs. Kraus described the history of the Planned Parenthood Association of Marin at her Corinthian Island Tudor home. The 1933 house has a workmanlike kitchen where she likes to read cookbooks "like textbooks and then I just cook by myself."

The mother of three sons enjoys tennis, hiking, a 10-speed bike and caring and finding homes for "a couple of litters of puppies."

Wearing a mustache as she plays the part of a man because of her low voice, Joan Kraus has appeared in Junior Theater of Marin Masque Unit plays for children for six years.

She has been elected to the board of the Family Service Agency of Marin.

Mrs. Kraus spoke of the "very courageous group of Marin County women of 40 years ago" who started the agency which referred patients to private doctors and reimbursed them. One of these founders was Mrs. Norman Livermore, she said.

Because Mrs. Kraus's mother in Shaker Heights, Ohio, had served on the national board, Joan Kraus was contacted here.

She joined the small, active all-women board in 1959 which met at Marin General Hospital. It really was a women's orgaization then, she said. Now men are on our boards in Marin, throughout the county and onthe national board.

In 1959 one doctor met with a few patients once a month in Marin City. Later the affiliate used a donated Mill Valley office once a week and another in Terra Linda. Since it did not have an office, it used Mrs. Kraus' post office box number.

She served as president from 1961 to 1963. In 1968 she accepted a regional post but remained on the local board a few more years. She plans to serve on its new board of advisors.

"THE PILL skyrocketed the number of people who wanted to use Planned Parenthood's services," said Mrs. Kraus. In 1961 it moved to its first actual office on Mary Street in San Rafael, where it held its clinic, closing the others. The present location is 710 C Street in San Rafael.

"On a rainy night in November, 20 or 30 volunteers called a list of past contributors. We just got on the phone and raised practically the whole $5,000 for the new counseling coordinator's salary," she said.

In addition, seven qualified social workers volunteered to handle the 1,122 patients ages 13 to 42 who came in this past year for pregnancy testing.

Mrs. Kraus remarked sadly that a doctor told her that it is the youngest who wait the longest to seek pregnancy testing "hoping it will just go away."

The counselors present pregnant women with a range of alternatives: adoption, keeping the baby or referral to private doctors for abortions.

Addressing other mothers, Mrs. Kraus said that the greatest insurance that they coud have is to let their daughters know what is available to prevent unwanted pregnancy. "Education is insurance," she said.

Planned Parenthood's second service, contraceptive care, is limited to girls under 18 years old. Public health facilities take care of everyone older, said Mrs. Kraus who adds that Marin's is the only strictly teenage contraceptive care clinic in the United States.

WHAT BRINGS girls in? Mainly word of mouth from their friends. Planned Parenthood sends speakers to junior high and high schools. School nurses and social workers refer them. They read notices in the newspaper.

Teen-agers who come for contraceptives go to a rap session with a social worker first where contraceptive alternatives are outlined. Some bring their boy friends, she said.

Some decide they are not ready to get a contraceptive, but the majority do. Seven hundred and twelve teen-agers last year made 4,013 visits "because we do not give long supplies of the pill."

Pharmaceuticals, pap smears, venereal disease tests and vasectomy referral are available also. There is a men's rap session once a week about vasectomy with referrals to private doctors.

Mrs. Kraus stopped working for the Marin affiliate in 1968 when she became program chairman for the Western region, representing eight states and 35 affiliates. She now works from the San Francisco regional office as well as her home.

MRS. KRAUS was elected to the national board in October and will serve until October 1975.

The federation membership consists of nearly 200 affiliates across the United States and an elected board of 100 directors. Its purpose is to provide leadership in making various means of voluntary fertility control, including contraception, abortion and sterilization, available to all.

It acts as a catalyst to research, sets guidelines for affiliates and disseminates printed material for affiliates and other family planning agencies.

Actually, Mrs. Kraus went national two years ago as the grassroots representative from the Western region on the national executive committee. She still serves this region as chairman of its resource pool of volunteer experts and as program chairman,

In her new work as a national board member she will help run the large agency and serve on its nominating and expansion and policy committees.

They are now considering a new policy on teen-age sexuality in line with recommendations by the President's Committee on Population Growth and the American Future.

The expansion and policy committee is also working on a model family planning service which will show affiliates how to add services other than those they already offer.

"The number of women seeking Planned Parenthood services has gone up 20 per cent every year," said Mrs. Kraus.

Readers Will Help Select Women Of Year

"Women of the Year", a program of honors for American women of achievement will be established by the Ladies' Home Journal.

An outstanding woman will be selected in each of eight categories. They are public affairs, arts and humanities, economy and business, voluntary action, science and research, human rights, youth leadership and the quality of life.

The Women of the Year 1973 will be selected by both readers of the Journal and a jury of women leaders. The February issue of the magazine gives details of the way in which readers can make recommendations. The deadline for suggestions is March 20.

Petalumans Pass Inaugural Invite

By KAREN PETERSON

Even though Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sams of Petaluma had to decline their invitation to the inauguration, they shared the excitement of the festivities with their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Tappero, who are in Washington, D.C.

The first of January, Mrs. Sams received a call from an inauguration committee secretary informing her that she and her husband had been invited to the inauguration.

As Mrs. Sams explained, she couldn't believe it. Her first reaction was, 'sure, what kind of joke is this?' But the secretary only laughed and said everyone she called had the same reaction.

Her first thought was let's just go, but after reconsidering, she and her husband decided to stay here and share the experience with Becki and Chris. When the secretary called back, Mrs. Sams said she sounded disappointed when they said they wouldn't be able to attend.

They received a souvenir invitation from the committee and her daughter sent her a souvenir license plate. They will also receive some medals and booklets from their children who are living in Washington.

Her son-in-law, assigned to Coast Guard headquarters in Washington, D.C., drove Supreme Court Chief Justice Warren Burger in the parade to the inauguration. Her daughter Becki, 29, who called during the interview, worked at the Vice President's reception Thursday night and was thrilled to tell her mother she had shaken hands with the First Lady — and Colonel Sanders. 'She's so excited,' said Mrs. Sams, 'and I'm so excited for her.'

The invitation was an honor, but it is not Mrs. Sam's first contact with a President.

During a tour of the White House when she was 18, Mrs. Sams saw a friend working as a guard and he offered to take her on a special tour. While walking in the halls, they ran into President Truman. 'Everyone called him Harry, my folks, everyone. So the first thing that ran through my mind was 'Hi, Harry.' He wasn't taken aback," she said, but just smiled and said "Hello Virginia."

She and her husband, a retired Air Force meteorologist, had lived in Washington and on occasion she had had the opportunity to meet President Eisenhower. While stationed in the Canal Zone, Eisenhower , at a parade at the base, recognized Mrs. Sams, stopped the car, and said, "Hello Virginia. Are those your daughters?" "He had a fantastic memory," said Mrs. Sams, "out of the thousands of people he had met, he remembered me and stopped to say hello."

Folklore Plants Under Investigation

In Appalachian folklore, jewelweed takes the itch out of poison ivy, poke berries help rheumatism and mullein is good for colds.

There may be more truth in these sayings than is generally thought, says Dr. Gabor B. Fodor, professor of chemistry at West Virginia University, who plans to investigate Appalachian plants in an effort to produce medically active compounds.

African Traditions Kept Up By Women

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Educated women in Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania help to keep the traditions of the East African culture, according to Mrs. Mebo Kabeta Mwaniki, guest speaker at the Redwood Empire District Business and Professional Women's Club luncheon Saturday at the Alvarado Inn in Ignacio.

"Once they (the children) throw away the traditional songs and dances, they grow up without the countries values," Mrs. Mwaniki, a resident of Hayward and mother of three, said, as she spoke of the status of women in Tanzania.

But the educated women in East Africa is rare, she said.

In three universities, there is only one woman to 40 men attending.

However, some of the educated women have been able to enter politics, and the present mayor of Nairobi is a woman.

The educated woman also goes into the rural areas and teaches the women in their homes about cooking, sewing and nutrition. These same rural women, even since the independence of the country in 1960, must live with perhaps a grandmother, mother-in-law and a co-wife while rearing her children, keeping the home comfortable, working in the fields and "fetching water and fire wood, while being tactful about it all."

Education for men is far greater than that for women, she said, and when a member of the audience questioned her about the various fields open to women, she said there were no women engineers in East Africa.

Social organizations for women are being formed, among them is Progress for Women, with members working for equal job opportunity for women.

Women are also making homecrafts which are sold to get money for school centers and education for the children. She showed the audience a brightly colored handbag and a handmade necklace as examples.

Mrs. Mwaniki, a native of Tanzania, served as a teacher and principal of the Nassa Girls School. She received a PhD from Stanford University and was the recipient of the graduate fellowship award from the American Association of University Women while studying at Stanford.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Wife Sees Divorce As Answer But Neither Will Take Action

DEAR HELEN:

My husband hates me, but he is so determined to have everything his own way he won't go to the person he wants to be with. He thinks a divorce will make our grown children dislike us (especially him). So he spends most of his time with his girlfriend while putting on a show of "successful marriage" to the family.

He's not fooling anyone. Our children know how hateful he is. They've gone through his hitting and cursing and stinginess. Perhaps a few friends or business acquaintances think we're compatible, but if they knew how mean he talks about them behind their backs they'd stop talking to us.

My husband is forever comparing my looks and housekeeping to his superior woman friend. Even my job is stupid compared to hers.

How can I make him see he is destroying his own life as well as mine by not consenting to a divorce so he can live with the woman he loves? I wouldn't ask for a settlement. Ijust want to be free. Must I be a prisoner to a man who can't stand me, just so he can save face? — STARVED FOR LOVE AND FUN

DEAR SFLAF:

Since when are you a "prisoner"? You have a job, therefore you're self-supporting. You aren't locked away in a feudal castle. Anytime you wish, you can walk out the front door, see a lawyer, start divorce proceedings — and, even though your husband contests, you'll probably gain your freedom plus your share of the community property.

My guess is you want your husband to make the decision so that he'll catch all the blame: then he'll be branded by the family not only as a philanderer but a deserter. Well, friend, you can't have everything, so if you really want out, make the second move. He has already made the first by choosing another woman. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

First, I want to thank you for the advice you gave me about seven years ago. I wrote about my domineering mother who had taken over our lives and home for 20 years of married life. We followed your suggestion: took her to the other children for awhile and, when she returned, we showed her who would be holding the reins. It worked, and now we all appreciate each other in his or her rightful roles. Three generations can live together, but it takes skill.

Now, another problem. Our daughter is working on her Ph.D. in psychology. While she is well-intentioned and motivated, we are sure, she puts us "on the couch" every time we see her. We have two younger daughters still at home and she works them over, too — telling us all what we are doing wrong. Figuratively, it's "shock" therapy! She pulls no punches.

My husband and I have our degrees and felt for awhile that it might be helpful to let our daughter "practice" on us, but too much is enough! We are all suffering from her unsolicited diagnoses and have told her so, but she continues.

I become so depressed after one of her sessions that for months I can barely function. Otherwise, when not attacked, I have reasonable confidence and do a pretty darn good job in the home.

What's your opinion of psychiatrists and psychologists practing on their own families? — MRS. D.V.

DEAR MRS. V:

Mighty low! Unsolicited advice is as welcome as an allergy on a hayride — and sometimes even more damaging.

Has it occured to you, Mrs. V., that history has repeated itself? You solved the domineering mother problem, only to be knocked off your feet by a domineering daughter.

So re-learn a seven-year-old lesson: let your Ph.D. candidate know that in your house you make the rules, but temper your ultimatum by suggesting that your parenting couldn't be all wrong: look what a smart young woman you produced! — H.

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

A Genetic Basis For Nail Biting

A genetic basis for nail biting in children was indicated by an investigation of the habit in twins. Of 338 pairs of twins (676 children) age 6 years and older studied, 203 children or 30.3 per cent bit their nails. The habit was 1.5 times as common in girls as in boys.

When a parent had been a nail-biter, the chances of a child being a nail-biter were about three times as great as when neither parent had bitten their nails, according to the Medical and Pharmaceutical Information Bureau.

She Hopes To Be A Boatswain

By JAMES O. CLIFFORD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Anneliese Knapp has her eyes set on invading a male stronghold: the anchor-clanking world of the boatswain's mate.

Miss Knapp, 21, of Delavan, Wis., is a seaman apprentice aboard the hospital ship Sanctuary.

All the cornball jokes about "seaperson" apprentice and being the bos'n's "mate" won't cause her to lose her good humor or the professional air she has while performing her duties on the Sanctuary.

Miss Knapp, sporting a hardhat over her long locks, and the other 60 women on the Sanctuary make a first in Navy history. The 520-foot ship will be the first vessel to set sail with a coed crew.

Ensign Rosemary Nelson, 24, of Walla Walla, Wash., was the first woman officer in a Navy crew. Lt. (j.g.) Ann Kerr, 26, of Aptos, was the first woman "line" officer aboard ship.

Miss Nelson's sleeve has the insignia of the supply corps, while Miss Kerr's uniform has the star of the "ship of the

MONEY MATTERS

The Gift Tax Exclusion

By JOSEPHINE RIPLEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

You may not be making out your federal income tax form this far in advance, but when you do so, the following question from a reader may be of interest to you.

Under the laws with respect to tax-free gifts of money to your family, there is a lifetime tax exclusion for money gifts up to $30,000.

In addition, there is a yearly tax-free allowance for money gifts up to $3,000.

You may draw on the lifetime tax exclusion at any time, and in any amount up to the $30,000 limit.

The yearly tax-free gift allowance of $3,000 is not cumulative and expires at the end of each calendar year.

HOWEVER, YOU may combine both in one year, if you wish, by taking the yearly allowance and drawing on your tax-free lifetime gift allowance in any amount up to the limit.

For instance, you could take the $3,000 with an additional $5,000 from your lifetime allowance for an $8,000 gift.

These tax-free gift privileges are available not only to husband and wife, but to all taxpayers.

But for husband and wife, there is a special provision which permits them to combine their $3,000 yearly gift allowance for a $6,000 tax-free gift to a child. This is known as a split gift and can be made only with the explicit consent of the spouse.

Husband and wife could also, if they so desired, pool their lifetime tax exemption for a gift to the child of $60,000.

Gifts in terms of property are not tax free if that giver retains the "right of enjoyment" of that gift during his lifetime. This could apply in the case of a painting, "given", for instance, to a child but still retained by the giver.

The individual's decision with respect to use of the lifetime exemption might well be determined by the tax rate at that time. For instance, if the gift is small and the tax rate low, one might prefer to reserve the lifetime exclusion for an occasion when the tax exclusion would be more beneficial.

More detailed and complete information may be found in the Internal Revenue Service publication entitled, "A Guide to Federal Estate and Gift Taxation," No. 448. The price 50 cents. It may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

MRS. M.H.B. of Texas, referring to a column entitled, "Funerals Needn't Cost So Much," asks for more information on the cost of cremation and where to find out more about it.

Local funeral directors are in a position to furnish this information. But most of them still favor the traditional funeral procedures.

Provisions for cremation are not readily available in some sections of the country, although the demands for such services are increasing.

One source of information is the Continental Association of Funeral and Memorial Societies, 59 E. Van Buren Street, Chicago, Ill. 60605.

Another is the National Funeral Directors Association, 135 West Wells Street, Milwaukee, Wis. 53203. This association would have information on funeral costs in various parts of the country.

You might also want to inquire at your state capital with respect to any state laws that might apply in the case of cremation.

A report in this column several months ago on progress in development of electronic checkout equipment for supermarkets prompted a request for information from B.F.B.of Cleveland Heights, Ohio. The reader asks about the "optical scanners and the cash registers of which they are a part," and requests names of the companies that are experimenting in their development.

Companies now engaged in the development of this electronic equipment include:

International Business Machines Corp., Old Orchard Road, Armonk, N.Y. 10504; the Singer Co., 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10020; Pitney-Bowes, Inc., Walnut and Pacific Streets, Stamford, Conn. 06904; Litton Industries, Inc., 360 N. Crescent Drive, Beverly Hills, Cal. 90210; A.R.A. Services, Inc., Independence Square, W. 6th and Walnut Streets, Philadelphia, Pa. 19106; Scanner, Inc., 500 Jefferson-Cullen Center, Houston, Tex. 77002; RCA, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10020.

Several of these electronic systems are due to be tested in selected supermarkets in the near future.

What May Be Popular Soon On Ski Slopes

Skiwear of the future may offer ski suits electrically heated by battery, convertible street-to-slopes ski clothes, transparent boots, snap-on skis, second skin suits and units combining skis, boots and pants.

The new idea is to streamline the clothes, raise the body temperature and lighten the load for skiers at high speeds by using space age materials, such as titanium or boron that will make the clothes and equipment thinner, lighter, warmer and faster.

Wilma Hover who designs for Head Ski and Sportswear, believes in a one piece suit in a second-skin, four-way stretch fabric, with the boot actually built into the suit.

"ANOTHER VIEW OF HEALTH FOOD STORES"

Every so often there appears in the newspaper some item treated as news that is little more than a planted, editorialized diatribe as slanted as some Texas oil wells.

Such an article, derogatory of health foods, health food stores and their operators appeared in the Independent-Journal on the "Food Page" Jan. 10th, 1973.

Believing in fair play, equal space should be provided for rebuttle even if it must be bought and paid for. Health food stores have proliferated it is true. There are many valid reasons for their growth.

One such reason is the public desire for them, revealing a preference for Parkinson's Law over Parkinson's Disease.

We are what we eat spiritually and intellectually. If we are fed bogus intellectual food we will not touch a health food store with the hem of our garments. If we get phony spiritual food, or none at all, we may be starved to damnation.

Unfortunately there have been unscrupulous people in all ages who like the status quo. They need the unhealthy family the drugged society the sick individual in the same way a jailer needs inmates.

Somehow all this flack against health foods and the public use of vitamins and food supplements reminds us of the Apostle Paul who was beaten of the silversmiths for his having spoken against idolatery.

"Really, I haven't had any navigational training," Miss Kerr said. "My duties are as administrative officer, personnel officer and ship's secretary. You name it."

A Navy spokesman said a male line officer in Miss Kerr's job would technically be up for command of the Sanctuary in an emergency, but she will not.

"What I'm doing is essentially what I did when I was ashore at Lakehurst, New Jersey," the officer said.

Both officers agree the real story aboard the hospital ship is with the enlisted women.

"We have our officers' rank," said Ensign Nelson. "They're the ones who will have to live with any day-to-day problems."

MISS KNAPP, the first woman "striking" for bos'n's mate aboard ship, says she hasn't encountered problems.

Sometimes, she said, a male crew member will try to help her move something heavy.

"This lifting thing works two ways," she said after a busy morning chipping paint. "I once helped a little male sailor move a heavy anchor chain. That's all part of teamwork.

"Actually, I like it when a sailor helps me with something heavy."

Miss Knapp has gone through firefighting school with the other women sailors at Treasure Island. She hopes eventually to go to cargo handling school and specialize in that phase of deck work.

Hair Cutting Now For Cleanliness

Many men and women are cutting their hair because they want to look cleaner, neater, and they are tired of an unmanageable mane. Monsieur Marc who coifs fashionable women in New York, reports there is a definite trend toward the petite head.

"It's not a bouffant or a long head or a boyish bob, but a short cut that softens the neck and can be brushed forward or backward," he said.

MODERN-DAY CINDERELLA

President Nixon danced with Mrs. Susan Synder at an inaugural ball Saturday and both seemed to enjoy it. Mrs. Snyder was unidentified in first publication of the picture, causing people around the world to wonder who the pretty blonde dancing partner of the president was and setting of a Cinderella-type search which turned Mrs. Snyder up in Sterling, Va. Nixon also danced with his wife and confided it was the first time had had danced at an inaugural ball. Below, Mrs. Snyder plays Cinderella by slipping her foot into a boot held by her husband, Gerald, after she was located by a United Press International reporter-photographer team.

Nixon To Seek To Cut Government

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, reading a mandate for spartan self-reliance in his re-election, is setting out at once to reduce the reach and the grasp of government.

Nixon will within the next 10 days, turn to domestic reform and spell out the details of his inaugural prescription for a government that promises less and performs less, at home and abroad.

He is apparently convinced that the goal of his first term — "peace with honor" in Vietnam —is all but achieved and he can now concentrate on breaking Washington of the habits of paternialism and permissiveness.

Nixon's philosophical message Saturday left his political enemies in Congress uneasy. He offered no word of reconciliation or compromise and made no Johnsonian bid to reason together.

Instead he emphasized his differences in outlook with the liberals and said he was sure that the people now and history later would judge him right.

The details are to go to Capitol Hill soon in a sparse budget and in a State of the Union address that he will send up by messenger rather than deliver in person.

Nixon, at 60 in excellent health and in joyful spirit and at the peak of his presidential powers, laid down his goals for the next four years in the inaugural address over which he had worked in isolation on and off for eight days.

It was his first direct address to the nation since a television speech on the eve of his Nov. 7 landslide.

"Abroad and at home," he said, "the time has come to turn away from the condescending policies of paternalism —of 'Washington knows best.'"

Hatless in 50 degree weather and a chill breeze, the President addressed a loyal throng from the gleaming white portico on the Capitol's east front. He drew his biggest applause with a restatement of his distaste for the social programs which have mushroomed over 40 years of largely Democratic rule:

"Government," he declared, "must learn to take less from people so that people can do more for themselves."

He paraphrased the most remembered passage from the 1960 inaugural of John F. Kennedy and turned it to his own purpose "In our own lives, let each of us ask not just what will government do for me but what can I do for myself."

After standing behind bullet-proof glass for hours to watch the inaugural parade—it featured a band from suburban Virginia of 1,976 high school performers to denote the "Spirit of '76" theme—the President attended five inaugural balls Saturday night.

At a rock dance, he invited young ladies to cut in on him and 10 accepted his offer.

He was up early Sunday to worship at an ecumenical service in the White House and to attend a reception for members of his and his wife's families.

The weekend was very much Nixon's. After a lifetime of narrow victory and bruising defeat, it celebrated his overwhelming election victory over Democrat George McGovern. McGovern spent Saturday as a tourist in London. Nixon never again likely to be a candidate for public office, spelled out a personal vision of a different government.

It will be up to each American to make the next four years "the best four years in America's history," he said.

Abroad, the United States will meet its committments but "the time has passed when America will make every other nation's conflict our own, or make every other nation's future our responsibility or presume to tell the people of other nations how to manage their own affairs."

Republicans Praise Inaugural Message, Democrats Bothered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republicans praised President Nixon's inaugural message but Democrats found fault with his exhortation to the nation to be more self-reliant.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., said the speech confirmed his fears that Nixon was getting ready to trim domestic programs.

"Self-reliance is fine," Mondale said, "But what if you're sick? What if you're poor? What if you can't get a job? What if you're mentally ill or retarded? What if you can't speak English?"

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said the speech was inspiring. Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said it "set the tone Americans are looking for to bring a lasting peace."

Freshman Sen. Dick Clark, D -Iowa, said "nothing struck me as being particularly unusual or unexpected in the address." He said he was "sorry there was not something specific on the war."

Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., both presidential candidates a year ago, said they were concerned by the lack of any presidential reconciliation with the Democratic Congress.

Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., said he was disappointed the address omitted specifics and said that Nixon's "cliches are not always equated with his actions."

Rep. Margaret M. Hechler, R-Mass., said she "liked the content." California Gov. Ronald Reagan, a Republican, said he was delighted with the speech, adding "let's say he made it perfectly clear he does intend a decentralization" of government.

Protest Leaders Pledge More Demonstrations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The last of tens of thousands of antiwar protesters trickled out of Washington today with their leaders vowing they would continue mass street demonstrations until peace is achieved.

The protesters, most of whom left Saturday night and Sunday, following a mass march and rally demanding that the United States get entirely out of Southeast Asia and sign the peace accords, packed the last of their vans and autos and headed home.

They had kicked off their three days of "an inauguration of conscience" with a news conference at the gates of the White House and an anti-inaugural concert, conducted by Leonard Bernstein, on Friday.

They concluded their protest events on Sunday with an ecumenical service in which political, religious, show business and military personalities urged an end to the war.

U.S. Park police estimated the crowd at 60,000 Saturday afternoon during the main anti-war rally on the grounds of the Washington Monument. Some estimates were lower, some higher.

Leaders of both the National Peace Action Coalition and the Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice, co-sponsors of the mass march on Saturday, said they would continue to call street protests until there was a settlement of the war they liked — and they made it clear a cease-fire would be only the first step.

Both Dr. Sidney Peck of the PCPJ and Jerry Gordon of NPAC said they were surprised and pleased at the turnout of demonstrators on Saturday, the largest antiwar demonstration in Washington since April 24, 1971, when more than 250,000 people participated.

Youngster Wounded By Pellet Gun

Officers said that Tres Black, no age given, of Walters Road, was involved in horseplay at a friend's house Saturday when the pellet weapon fired into his right kneecap. The boy was treated at Marin General Hospital and sent home, officers said.

Bicycle Rider Injured In Fall

A 27-year-old San Francisco man was hospitalized after a fall from his bicycle at 12:45 p.m. Saturday on Muir Woods Road, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Patrolmen reported that Lake hit a puddle of water on the road, causing him to be tossed from his bicycle

Sgt. Leo D Hutchinson said the youths were arrested in connection with burglaries at two Petaluma homes and at two boats in the Petaluma turning basin.

LIBRARY EXHIBIT — Fossils, lizards, architectural fragments and a broken bit of red plastic are elements in a painting by Nancy Chappell. They are trenchant suggestions that past and present overlap. This painting and others by this artist are in a duo presentation with photographs by Walter Chappell at the Mill Valley Library.

Chappel Works Win Applause

By ADA GARFINKEL

Mrs. Chappell's paintings are fields of a single color with schematic renditions of memories and memorabilia. Some of her imagery are abstractions of fossils; others retain an organic entity; still others are from every-day usage abstracted to basic shapes, and knotty linear tensions. In its entirety, each painting becomes a forum for the artist's engagement in the evolution of life and in her own interacting relationships.

Some of Mrs. Chappell's titles are clues to this process: "All Souls Shells," "Mass for Whales at Amchitka Island," "Bride's Beach" and "The Garden (married life)."

The artist's color fields are tough and biting: acid green, raw blues, orangey-peach, somber pinks. Much of the imagery is in chalky white, outlined in black and further augmented with black running-stitch — not unlike a dress pattern or an architectural elevation plan.

In the aforementioned "Garden," a huge, pyramid-like monument becomes a symbolic climb with pipes and levers and household fixtures marking stages and landmarks in the pilgrimage onward. Erasures — light overpainting —add to the introspective biography.

Each of Mrs. Chappell's paintings (there are eight) needs to be savored slowly, since they are so rich in structural content and meaning.

Walter Chappell's photographs are more painter-like and sculptural than they are about people and nature in traditional photography.

Each of the 34 black and white shots is a studied arrangement, whether of meditative nudes in single or group poses, or of textural details such as palisade-like formations, or of a trapezoidal arrangement of delicate branches flanked by a slender steeple and a wooden overhang.

Still others have the liquid, kinetic quality seen in multiple exposures. This is particularly true of the only color print with its lava-like flow of red.

There is very little photographic spontaneity. The closest thing to what might have been shot in an "on-the-spot, let's get this one" way is the detail of a foot dangling lazily in a shimmering flow of sunfilled water.

The exhibits will continue through Feb. 17, and may be viewed from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday throug Thursday, and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

MUSIC REVIEW

Bach-To-Mozart Group Adds Another Star To Marin Series

By VERA M. OLMSTED

The artistry of the Bach-to-Mozart Group, combined with the talents of its guest soloists, sparked a lively performance of chamber music last night as part of the Candlelight Concert Series at Del Mar School auditorium in Tiburon.

The concert series is by now an established Marin tradition, providing an opportunity to listen to fine music in a relaxed setting.

Every candlelit table was occupied with people sipping coffee or punch, eating dessert and obviously enjoying themselves. The large audience spilled over to chairs set up in back of the hall.

The Georg Phillip Telemann Concerto in D Major for Trumpet and Two Oboes opened the program. Edward Haug played the trumpet in a seemingly effortless manner, and with true intonation. Oboists Raymond Duste and Carolyn Michaelian added their solid musicianship to the solo group.

The overall ensemble had a few shaky moments in the firs movement, but settled down to polish off the second and third movements in fine style.

Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart wrote "La Clemenza di Tito" — last night's second offering — for the coronation of Leopold II of Bohemia in 1791. Although the opera was not a great success, several of the arias remain dramatically powerful music.

Guest artist Marie Gibson, soprano, sang Sextus's aria "Parto ma tu ben mio" from Act I. The interweaving of voice and clarinet obbligato,played by Frealon Bibbins, was marked by careful phrasing and clarity of line.

Also performed was the delightful Orchestral Suite No. 2 in B minor by J. S. Bach, scored for flute, strings and continuo.

In the first movement, a French overture in form, the dignified slow section used the flute principally to double the first strings. The lively fugal portion which followed became a showcase for the considerable talents of flutist Walter Subke.

The other six movements of the suite are dance forms, each with its own rhythm, tempo and character. The differences between them were admirably pointed up by the ensemble and the firm support of the harpsichord, cleanly played by Erika Matthes.

The aria from Albert Lortzing's opera "Zar und Zimmerman" was not performed due to a technical problem, disappointing both lovers of German comic opera and Russian history buffs.

Guest artist Robert Bernard, bass, substituted the aria "To God Our King," from Handel's "Occasional Oratorio." Phrasing and diction were exceptionally clear, and the imitative sequences between voice, trumpet and oboe were well balanced.

One of the highlights of the evening was the Quintet for Clarinet and Strings in B Flat Major, Op. 34, by Carl Maria von Weber.

The music is technically brilliant and rhythmic, relying more on strong contrasts as it moves from one idea to another, and less on thematic development. All of the possibilities of the clarinet are explored.

Frealon Bibbins displayed tremendous agility and beautiful dynamic control in his playing, especially when producing the striking pianissimo echo effects.

The last movement Rondo, with its brilliant arpeggio and scale passages, is reminiscent of Weber's piano works.

Miss Gibson returned to sing "Schweigt, ihr Floten," from Bach's Cantata No. 210, the "Wedding Cantata." This amusing aria declaims "Flutes be Silent," but did not succeed in intimidating Subke's versatile flute.

Miss Gibson was joined by Robert Bernard for the duet "Wann kommst du, mein Heil" from Bach's Cantata "Sleepers Wake." (No. 140.) Their voices balanced well although Miss Gibson sounded a bit forced in parts. William Pynchon played the intricate violin obbligato well, but one could have wished for a more ornamented realization in the harpsichord part.

The program closed with the happy and tuneful soprano aria "In Any Wind" from "Agrippina," an early opera in the Italian-style by George Frederich Handel. Miss Gibson used her voice to full advantage, singing with a smooth and flexible tone.

The next candlelight concert will be held Feb. 25 at 8 p.m.

Two Stolen Crowns Recovered

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two jewel-encrusted crowns stolen from a Roman Catholic church in Brooklyn 12 days ago recovered by the FBI yesterday crime chieftains reportedly passed the word it would be "healthy" to return them.

Agents recovered the crowns, valued at $350,000, after a gruff-voiced man called their office about noon and told them, "The package you want is in the East Side Air Terminal, Locker 112."

The gold crowns, formed from the melted down wedding rings of World War II widows and then covered with diamonds and rubies, had been kept in a supposedly unbreakable glass case behind the altar at the Regina Pacis Shrine, where Mafia "boss of bosses" Carlo Gambino is a parishioner.

John F. Malone, assistant director of the FBI in charge of the New York office, said, "From our investigation and the fact that organized crime has been aware of our interest in the case, it's a possibility that they may have had a hand in the recovery of the jewels."

MUSIC REVIEW

Charming College Opera Production

By SYLVIA L. RUBY

A charming production of Arthur Benjamin's one-act opera, "The Prima Donna," opened this weekend in the Studio Theater at the College of Marin. Phyllis Murphy and Owen Orser, music and stage directors of the Opera Workshop, respectively, did a first-rate job with a talented and enthusiastic cast.

Set in 18ty Century Venice, the plot involves the visit of Florindo's rich uncle, the count, and the hope that entertaining him with the wiles of a beautiful singer will loosen his purse strings for his debt-ridden nephew. Unfortunately, however, two prima donnas rather than one show up and each is set to outdo the other.

Guest artist J. D. Nichols as Florindo lent strength to the performance with his professional acting and singing talents. He was ably assisted by tenor Michael Barbara, who played Florindo's good friend, Alcino.

As the sly housekeeper, Claudia Siefer made the most of her part and sang with a sweet, clear voice. The trio aria by these three, enumerating a list of foods to be served the count done in Italian-style opera, was terribly clever and well-performed.

Sopranos Laurie Ulmen and Tommie Sue Anderson were delightful as the two prima donnas. Both had lovely, well-trained voices in balance with one another, yet each displayed separate personality traits — Miss Ulmen, saucy and flirtatious; Miss Anderson, red-headed and fiery.

The plum role is that of Florindo's uncle, the count. Joseph Arone, with his rich bass voice and mature acting abilities, was perfect in the part. Delectably lecherous, he took full advantage of all the stereotyped behavior one would hope for, yet never overplayed the buffoon. His final seduction scene with its parody on bird-call songs was wonderfully funny.

Written in 1933, Benjamin's music borrows freely from varied styles. In the main it is pleasant light opera stuff, but there are overtones of grand opera as well as Gilbert and Sullivan. A really fine drinking song could have made it as a college or hit tune of the 1930s or 40s.

Also on the evening's program was a presentation of several scenes from various operas. These scenes are learning experiences for less experienced singers and for those who have never taken their vocal training to a performing stage. All were staged simply but effectively.

Some of Saturday night's scenes included "The Marriage of Figaro," "Don Giovanni," "H. M. S. Pinafore," "Carousel" and "Trouble in Tahiti." James Digby was good as the blustery captain in "H. M. S. Pinafore," and Janice Richard made an appealing Carrie Pepperidge in a song from "Carousel."

Virginia Murray showed class and elegance as the wife in the pensive duet from Leonard Bernstein's "Trouble in Tahiti" about a married couple drifting apart; Horace Hill did a nice job as the husband.

"The Prima Donna" and selected opera scenes will be presented again Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Studio Theater.

Concert Of Bluegrass Music Set

County musician Bill Monroe, known as the father of bluegrass music, and his Bluegrass Boys will perform at 8 p.m. Feb. 18 at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Monroe's music, considered one of the last remaining links between the styles of the 30s and those of modern country performers, is characterized by his ringing mandolin playing and high tenor voice.

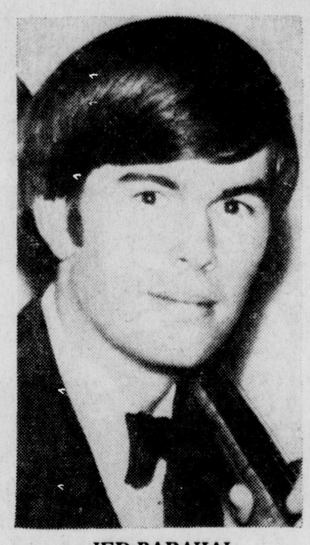
In 1927, with brothers Charlie and Birch, he formed the Monroe Brothers, a band that toured the South and Midwest and he launched his radio career in 1930.

When the Monroe Brothers disbanded in 1938, Bill formed the Bluegrass Boys, named in honor of his native Kentucky, and like Al Hopkins and his string band of the 20s, the Hillbillies, he coined a term that would become a generic name for his distinctive style of country music.

Since 1939, members of the Bluegrass Boys have included such country performers as Lester Flatt and Earl Scruggs, Don Reno, Gordon Terry, Carter Stanley, Mac Wiseman, Jimmie Martin and Sonny Osborne.

Monroe is the composer of the classic "Mule Skinner Blues." Some of his other compositions include "Blue Moon of Kentucky," "Kentucky Waltz," "Rawhide," "Bluegrass Breakdown," and "Crossing the Cumberlands."

Tickets are available at Macy's, Ticketron and the auditorium box office.



JED BARAHAL
To be guest artist

Jed Barahal To Perform As Soloist

Cellist Jed Barahal, already an internationally-trained musician while still a senior at San Rafael High School, will be guest soloist with the Marin Symphony Orchestra at its second concert of the season, Jan. 30.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m. in the Marin Veterans Memorial Building, with Sandor Salgo conducting.

Barahal, the 1971 winner of the Marin Symphony Memorial Scholarship, recently returned from a year's study at the Geneva, Switzerland, Conservatory of Music. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Barahal, accompanied the youth while his father, a San Rafael High School instructor, was on sabbatical leave.

Barahal has studied cello for eight years, under Richard Anastasio of Dominican College. For the concert, he will play Schumann's "Concerto for Cello and Orchestra." The program also will include Beethoven's "Symphony No. 2" and Dohnanyi's "Orchestral Suite in F Sharp Minor."

Tickets for the concert are available through the Marin Symphony Association, P.O. Box 300, San Rafael, or at the box office.

Museum Winter Program Opens

The winter program at the Louise A. Boyd Marin Museum of Science in San Rafael opened today with such classes scheduled as ecology walks for adults and shark fishing jaunts for children.

Classes for junior and senior high school students and adults also will deal with birds of prey, veterinary medicine and spring wildflowers. Classes on reptiles, Indian history and sea life are open to children ages 6 to 12. Nature walks and workshops will be held for 3 to 5 year olds.

Employee Benefits Will Be Discussed

Employee fringe benefits will be discussed by the Dixie School District board when it meets at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the district administration building in San Rafael.

Clifford Lund, the district's insurance agent, will report on a study he has made of fringe benefits.

Progress Report Due Tonight

The Lagunitas School District board will hear a progress report tonight on a study which will be finished in March on how the district can use its facilities more efficiently.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at San Geronimo Valley School. The office of the county superintendent of schools is making the study at the request of the board.

The board also will discuss methods being used to evaluate the success of several district programs, including the open classroom system.

MOPPING UP AT HOUSE BLAZE

Fireman Larry Wall and an unidentified companion douse the smouldering remains of the O. E. Dehnert home at 44 Driftwood Court in San Rafael. Flames broke out shortly after 8 a.m. yesterday. Damage was estimated at $45,000 to the house and its contents. Dehnert and his daughter, whose name was not known by firemen, were at home at the time of the blaze, but both escaped. Firemen said the flames erupted near a fireplace in the living room.

Cell Fire Burns Prisoner

A San Quentin inmate serving a life term for murder was in Marin General Hospital today, recovering from serious burns suffered when he set fire to his cell, San Quentin authorities revealed.

Lee DeBord, prison information officer, said that inmate Frank Lopez, 32, of Contra Costa County, was reported in good condition, expected to return to the prison either this week or next.

Lopez set fire to wadded up newspapers outside his segregation-unit cell late New Year's Eve; the fire flared into the cell and ignited bedding and clothing, DeBord said. Lopez was transferred from the prison hospital to Marin General Hospital Jan. 2, and kept under guard 24 hours a day to prevent an escape attempt.

The convict was sentenced June 29, 1971, from Contra Costa County for a murder that was connected with the armed robbery of a bar in El Cerrito, DeBord said.

DeBord said today a prison officer on duty over the holidays apparently failed to report the incident because he "didn't feel it was a reportable incident" to the press.

DeBord also said "I don't know why it happened unless he (Lopez) was celebrating New Year's Eve with a little fire." He said the incident apparently was unrelated to recent disturbances in the prison.

Leroy Gerner Is Chosen Novato Citizen Of Year

Leroy M. Gerner, 59-year-old landscape designer, was honored as Novato's 1972 citizen of the year at the city's 13th birthday anniversary party Saturday night.

Gerner, instrumental in establishing along Novato Creek what later became known as Gerner Park, was awarded a plaque before about 250 persons at the Novato Community House.

Gerner, cochairman of the Novato Citizens Creek Committee and president of the Novato Civic Foundation, designed the park, coordinated volunteer efforts, worked at the site and patrolled the area when vandals struck.

He is a member of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission and formerly lived in San Anselmo and Mill Valley. He and his wife, Ruthella, have lived in Novato nearly seven years.

The city also presented best design awards to Gerner Park; the Novato Realty building, 1122 Grant Avenue, and the Bellucci Apartments, 1100 Fourth Street.

Novato Realty and the Brass Ring, a toy shop at 817 Grant Avenue, received design awards for building signs.

The city also gave recognition to persons who have served on city commissions and committees during the past year.

Elderly Aid Bill Before Lower House

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to increase the number of people eligible for senior citizens property tax assistance has been introduced by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Many elderly citizens deserve the relief, but cannot get it because of inequities in present qualification standards, Bagley said. His measure, AB 111, would limit the definition of household income to make it easier to qualify for the aid program.

The problem, Bagley said, stems from the fact that in order to be eligible a senior citizen must have a "household" income of less than $10,000. The definition of "household," however, is so broad that it includes nearly any relative or in-law, no matter how far removed and regardless of whether they can or will contribute to the expenses of maintaining the home, he said.

The bill would limit the term to husband and wife and others in the home who substantially contribute to household needs and expenses.

Marin Shoreline Plans Submitted

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Proposals for two shoreline projects in Marin, one on the east side of Strawberry Point and one in Tiburon on Raccoon Strait, have been filed with the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Both will be heard by the commission at 2 p.m. on Feb. 1 in Room 1194 of the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue.

The Strawberry project, proposed by E. Gordon Smith of Tiburon, is for nine single-family homes and five docks covering approximately 1,600 square feet of water.

The property, below a bluff reached via a vacant lot adjacent to 355 East Strawberry Drive, was the subject of a controversial application that was denied by the commission in 1971. The applicant then, Stanley W. Taylor, wanted nine homes, all of which would have extended over the bay on piles, with extensive dredging and no public access.

Taylor fought the commission in court, but lost.

In the new application, none of the houses would extend over the bay, there would be no dredging and public access would be provided.

The two-story homes would cost about $50,000 each, plus the cost of the land, according to the applicant.

The Tiburon application, for a three-story, two-family house at 2042 Paradise Drive, was filed by Sanford Coplin, also of Tiburon. He proposes to dredge eight cubic yards of material from the bay floor to accommodate four pilings.

Portions of the structure totaling 672 square feet, or 21 per cent of the total, would extend over the bay on the pilings. Its cost was estimated at $85,000.

25 Color TV Sets Taken From Store

Thieves smashed into the Rainbow TV Center in the Bon Air Center, Greenbrae, yesterday morning and stole 25 color television sets.

Larkspur police said it appeared the intruders had backed up a truck to the store's front door to load the heavy sets.

Owner Keith Burkhart said today he had not completed inventory of the stolen merchandise, but estimated it was worth many thousands of dollars. Several of the sets were heavy table models weighing 135 pounds, he said, and normal delivery of such a large quantity would take at least 45 minutes.

The Rainbow TV Center also was burgled in October, when several TV sets were stolen.

Election Slated For Rent Board

BERKELEY (UPI) — Voters will elect the five-member rent control board Tuesday as a result of a charter amendment passed last June.

The 24 candidates bidding for the $2,400-a-year jobs include moderate Coalition for Fair Rent Control slate, the radical Community Rent Control group, and members of the Socialist Workers Party.

Turnout Is Small In College Vote

A blanket mailing of ballot cards to all College of Marin students did not succeed in boosting the percentage who voted in the student government elections last week.

A total of 488 students cast their ballots, a figure which represents 7.5 per cent of all students, or 10 per cent of full time students.

The seven candidates elected to the Associated Students board of directors were Mark Conlan, Steve F. Coleman, William A. Essertier, Mark Riordan, Mark Bredt, Dava C. Evans and Charlie O. Price III.

A student body president will be elected by the board at its first meeting in February.

Rezoning Of Club Is Appealed By Fairfax

The Town of Fairfax has appealed a court ruling that rezoning of the Marin Town and Country Club by popular vote last April was illegal.

The appeal, filed Friday, means that the ruling of Marin Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson will be reviewed by the state Court of Appeal in San Francisco.

Club owner Max Friedman last month won a summary judgment from Judge Wilson invalidating the rezoning. The town council, in a fiery meeting two weeks ago, voted 3-2 to appeal Wilson's decision.

At issue is an initiative election held last April in which Fairfax Citizens voted by more than a 2-1 margin to rezone Friedman's 26.8-acre parcel from commercial to a designation permitting only private recreational facilities.

Friedman, who had closed his club, reopened the swimming resort after the public verdict, later reversed by Judge Wilson.

Fairfax Town Councilman Lee Nelder, who has opposed any town appeal of the Wilson ruling, said today the Friday filing "is a waste of taxpayers' money."

Nelder has contended that the private citizens group that sparked the initiative should finance the appeal.

The councilman also noted that the town council soon will be voting on a new zoning ordinance next month which will rezone the parcel to the private recreational designation anyway.

Nelder is supported by Councilman Robert R. Souza. The council majority has called the appeal proper, saying Friedman's plans to develop his land with apartments would change the character of the town.

Youth Burned When Pants Catch Fire

David Leydecker of 58 Rafael Drive, son of Independent-Journal reporter Mary Leydecker and former Marin County Supervisor Byron Leydecker, was reported in serious condition today in Marin General Hospital with burns on his legs and buttocks.

Officers said they arrived at 1220 Irwin Street at about 2:30 a.m. after receiving reports of a fight and found the youth lying on the sidewalk amid shreds of burned clothing.

Area residents and firemen said he apparently had spilled gasoline or lighter fluid on his clothes and either had accidentially ignited the clothing or had tried to burn off the gas, police reported.

A neighbor said young Leydecker knocked at her door screaming for help and reported he was writhing on her patio with his pants on fire, according to police.

The youth told family members he was on his way home when he tripped over a can of liquid and became enveloped in flames when he lit a match to see what it was. He said he was refused aid when he went to a nearby home seeking aid.

Coast Commission Will Meet Wednesday

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO AIRPORT — The first meeting of the California Coastal Zone Conservation Commission will be held here Wednesday at 10 a.m. in the Savoy Room of the Hilton Inn.

The commission and its six regional commissions were created by voter approval of Proposition 20 on the November ballot.

The 12-member commission and its regional arms have three years to draft a plan for future use of the coast. All developments in the zone will require a commission permit during the three-year planning period.

The proposition allocated $5 million to the commission from the Bagley Conservation Fund.

The organizational session Wednesday will include election of officers and may also take up the issue of hiring staff. Joseph E. Bodovitz of Mill Valley, executive director of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, reportedly is a leading contender for the top staff slot in the new state organization.

One More In School Seat Races

Only one new candidate had filed nomination papers by today in the April 17 school board races in Marin, the Marin County Elections Department reported.

Harold Drob, 50, of 559 Marin Avenue, Tamalpais Valley, filed for one of three seats open on the Mill Valley School District Board. He is business manager for the Learning Resources Center at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco.

Drob's wife, Pearl, is an artist and the couple has two daughters in Mill Valley schools. Drob, born and educated in New York City, is a veteran of Army field artillery service in Europe during World War II and received the Bronze Star.

Drob said he has been attending Mill Valley school board meetings for more than a year, and believes his money management experience would be valuable to the board.

Three trustees' terms will expire in Mill Valley, but only incumbent John H. Cutler so far has said he will seek reelection. Tamalpais Valley housewife and volunteer teacher aide Cate Bauer filed nomination papers last week.

Filings will close at 5 p.m. Feb. 15 for a total of 57 trustee seats in 21 districts in Marin County.

Tennis Club Is Due Discussion

Plans for tennis club buildings to be built on the Marist Seminary grounds in San Rafael will be discussed tomorrow by the city's planning commission.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in city hall. The Marin Tennis Club proposes to build a clubhouse and locker rooms covering about 4,175 square feet, 10 tennis courts, a stadium, swimming pool and parking facilities at the site once occupied by St. Peter Chanel Seminary in the Dominican area of San Rafael.

The club has already received a use permit for the property.

Marin Girl Is Model Governor

I-J Special Report

SAN LUIS OBISPO — A 17-year-old San Rafael girl defeated four male challengers and was elected governor of the Young Men's Christian Association Model Legislature during the YMCA's Youth and Government Elections Conference this weekend.

Lisa Morrison, 43 Kinross Drive, defended the newsman's right to protect confidential records and sources in a speech that led to her victory. She is the second girl to be elected in the history of the model legislature, which celebrates its 25th anniversary this year.

Lisa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morrison, is a student at Marin Catholic High School in Kentfield, where she is vice president of the student body and president of the ski club.

She will preside at the State Building in Sacramento when the model legislature convenes Feb. 1-4 and is scheduled for several meetings with Governor Ronald Reagan and other top legislative officials.

"I'm ecstatic," Lisa said of her victory. "I tried very hard. This is really an honor for me."

This summer, she also plans to attend the YMCA National Governors' Conference in Washington, D.C.

Special Meeting

A special meeting of the Bolinas School District board will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Bolinas School to call for an election to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Trustee John G. Barrow, who is leaving the district, and to consider calling a tax increase election, according to Supt. L. M. Horning.

GM Announces Recall Of 3.7 Million Cars

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors today announced it was recalling 3.7 million 1971 and 1972 full-sized Chevrolets, Buicks, Oldsmobiles and Pontiacs to install a shield that will prevent stones from lodging in the steering mechanism.

It was the second largest recall in history, both of them by GM The other involved 6.7 million Chevrolets in which restraints were added in case engine mounts snap.

In the latest recall, GM said cars without shields could pick up stones "under very unusual circumstances" which could cause interference with steering control.

There have been 96 reports of incidents where this allegedly occurred, GM said Twenty three of these reports involved accidents in which 12 injuries were reported.

GM has been under pressure from safety groups to recall the affected cars, but did not begin the recall until it had completed its investigation.

The company said it "decided that such a campaign was desirable even though there have been only a limited number of cases reported —all of them under very unusual circumstances."

In order to take care of the few cars which might become involved, General Motors will ask the 3.7 million owners of all these cars to bring them in, a GM spokesman said.

The shields will be installed at no charge to the owners who will begin receiving certified letters in about two weeks, the company said.

Magazine Claim On Watergate Pleas Denied

NEW YORK (UPI) — Time Magazine said Sunday the five guilty pleas in the Watergate bugging trial staved off testimony that former Attorney General John N Mitchell and former White House aide Charles W Colson approved the wiretapping of the Democratic National Committee.

Spokesmen for both Mitchell and Colson denied the report Mitchell issued a statement saying. "The Time Magazine report, as it concerns me is an absolute falsehood." Colson made an unequivocal denial.

Time and Newsweek also reported that four of the defendants who entered guilty pleas had received and would get financial help from "friends" who wanted to "minimize the GOP's embarrassment" about the episode.

Three - $1,000.00 bonds will mature in 1998

DATE ON BONDS AND INTEREST RATE: Bonds are to be dated the 2nd day of March, 1973, and will bear interest from said date. Interest rate is fixed in the Resolution of Intention, as amended, at not to exceed seven per cent (7%) per annum. Such interest shall be evidenced by coupons attached to each bond, and each of said coupons shall represent six months' interest on the bond to which it is attached. The first coupon will be for interest from March 2, 1973 to January 2, 1974.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: Said bonds are authorized to be issued by the Board of Directors of the San Rafael Sanitation District, Marin County, California, by Resolution of Intention No. 223, as amended, and proceedings subsequent thereto. The purpose is for the construction of a sanitary sewer system, together with the acquisition of all necessary rights of way. These improvements are within the boundaries of the assessment district designated, "Bayside Acres Sewer Assessment District, San Rafael Sanitation District, Marin County, California," and reference for details is made to the proceedings for the formation and completion of said assessment district.

PAYMENT: Both principal and interest are payable in lawful money of the United States at the office of the Marin County Treasurer, Civic Center Building, San Rafael, California.

CALLABLE BONDS: All bonds are callable pursuant to the provisions of the Improvement Bond Act of 1915 twice each year. No bonds may be called except on July 2 or January 2 and there must be a sixty day notice of call. Any bond called will have interest to date of call and a premium of five per cent (5%) of the principal amount.

AUTHORITY FOR ISSUANCE: Said bonds were authorized to be issued by the proceedings in said assessment district and said assessment district was organized and consummated under the provisions of the Municipal Improvement Act of 1913 and bonds provided to be issued under the Improvement Bond Act of 1915 of the State of California.

SECURITY: Said bonds are payable from the redemption fund provided by law which is secured by all of the unpaid assessments within the boundaries of said district. Said bonds are further secured by a limited guarantee on the part of the entity which issued said bonds. Under the provisions of the Improvement Bond Act of 1915, any real property on which the owners have failed to pay installments of assessments as they fall due is sold for delinquencies by the Sanitation District in the same manner as real property is sold for delinquent taxes. It is the duty of the San Rafael Sanitation District to bid such property in at such tax sale. It then becomes the duty of the Sanitation District to transfer to the Redemption Fund the amount of the purchase. In the event there is not sufficient money in the General Fund to transfer this amount into the Redemption Fund, it becomes the mandatory duty of the Sanitation District to levy a tax up to 10c on each $100.00 of assessed valuation of property within the boundaries of the San Rafael Sanitation District sufficient in amount to pay for the delinquencies. It becomes the continuing duty of the Sanitation District throughout the life of the bond issue, to levy such a tax and to pay for the installments upon property sold to the Sanitation District for delinquencies. The maximum levy which the Sanitation District is obligated to make in any one year is 10c on each $100.00 of assessed valuation. The assessed valuation of all taxable real property in the San Rafael Sanitation District for the fiscal year 1972-73 is $114,720,120.00. Ten cents on the $100.00 would therefore raise, in the San Rafael Sanitation District, the sum of $114,720.00.

LEGAL OPINION: The legal opinion of the law firm of Sturgis, Den-Dulk, Douglass & Anderson, 1322 Webster Street, Oakland, California, 94612, approving the validity of said bonds will be furnished to the successful bidder without charge. In the opinion of Counsel, interest on the bonds is exempt from all federal income taxes, and from State of California personal income taxes, under presently existing statutes, regulations and court decisions, and the bonds are also exempt from all California taxes except inheritance, gift and franchise taxes.

HIGHEST BID: Bidders are requested to name the interest rate or rates not exceeding seven per cent (7%) per annum in multiples of 1/8 or 1/20 of one per cent (1%). Each bidder must specify in his bid the amount and maturities of the bonds of each rate and all bonds maturing on the same date must bear interest at the same rate. No bid may name more than four interest rates, any of which may be repeated. No rate may be more than one and one-half per cent 1½%) higher than the lowest rate named in the bid. The interest payable on any bond on any interest payment date may, however, be represented by one or more coupons. A zero rate cannot be named for all or any of the time from the date of the bond to its stated maturity and the premium, if any, must be paid in the funds specified for payment of the bonds as part of the purchase price. No bid of less than 97% of par and accrued interest or for less than all of the bonds offered will be entertained. Unless all bids are rejected, the bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose proposal results in the lowest net interest cost to the issuer, and the net interest cost will be determined by deducting the amount of any premium paid from or adding the amount of any discount to the aggregate amount of interest upon all of the bonds from their date until their respective maturities.

RIGHT OF REJECTION: The San Rafael Sanitation District reserves the right at its discretion to reject any and all bids and to waive any irregularity or informality in any bid. Any bid must be in strict conformity with this Official Notice Inviting Bids, and without any qualification.

PROMPT AWARD: The San Rafael Sanitation District will take action awarding the bonds or rejecting all bids not later than forty-eight (48) hours after expiration of the time herein prescribed for the receipt of proposals.

PROMPT DELIVERY: Delivery of the bonds will be made to the successful bidder at the office of the County Treasurer of the County of Marin, Ex-Officio Treasurer of the San Rafael Sanitation District, Civic Center Building, San Rafael, California, as soon as the bonds can be prepared, but not earlier than the date of said bonds. Successful bidder, by making a bid, agrees to pay for and take delivery of the bonds within forty-eight (48) hours after notification by the San Rafael Sanitation District that the bonds are ready for delivery, but bidder is not obligated to take delivery earlier than the date of the bonds. The successful bidder shall have the right at his option to cancel his offer to purchase if the bonds are not tendered for delivery within 45 days from the date of the bonds.

FORM OF BID: All bids must be for not less than all of the bonds herein offered for sale. Each bid, together with bidder's check, must be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the Secretary of the San Rafael Sanitation District, and endorsed "Proposal for Bonds, Bayside Acres Sewer Assessment District, San Rafael Sanitation District, Marin County, California."

BID CHECK: With each bid must be submitted a certified check or cashier's check for $10,000.00 drawn on a bank or trust company transacting business in the State of California, payable to the order of the San Rafael Sanitation District, to secure the Sanitation District from any loss resulting from the failure of the bidder to comply with the terms of his bid. Check of the unsuccessful bidders will be returned by mail upon the award of the bonds. Check of successful bidder will be credited upon the purchase price of the bonds, and no interest will be paid upon the deposit of any successful bidder. Check of the successful bidder will be forfeited to the Sanitation District if the bidder fails to pay for and take delivery of the bonds within the time provided for in this notice as liquidated damages.

NO LITIGATION CERTIFICATE: The San Rafael Sanitation District will furnish to the successful bidder, at the time of the delivery of the bonds, a no-litigation certificate, certifying that there is no controversy or litigation pending or threatened concerning the validity of the bonds.

Red Force Foiled In Land-Grab Try

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese infantrymen and armored units kept two battered North Vietnamese regiments pinned in deep jungles north of Saigon today while waves of U.S. Air Force B52s pounded the retreating Communists, military spokesmen said.

Six waves of heavy bombers roared over the Michelin rubber plantation Sunday night and dropped more than 500 tons of bombs on the Communist troops pulling deeper into the heavy jungles, according to U.S. Command reports.

Fighting broke out suddenly in the area 40 miles north of Saigon Friday afternoon when the Communist force was caught trying to sneak in close to the capital area to prepare for a land-grab after a cease-fire.

The two South Vietnamese battalions that made the initial contact were outnumbered and badly mauled in the opening round. The understrength Communist regiments numbered about 1,600 men and the South Vietnamese force was about 1,000, according to military sources.

But tactical warplanes, artillery and armored units moved in with infantry reinforcements and pushed the Communists back into the steamy jungle after a fight that lasted through Saturday. The Saigon command said 325 Communists were killed and South Vietnamese losses were 46 killed and 116 wounded.

The Communists on Sunday offered to to free 130 South Vietnamese prisoners wounded in the battle. But commanders bypassed the offer because prisoners had been used as bait in a successful ambush in the same area earlier Sunday, the Saigon command said.

In addititon, a command spokesman said, South Vietnamese helicopters and spotter planes drew fire during the day when they flew over the designated pickup zone in the Michelin rubber plantation, 40 miles of Saigon.

The prisoners were members of the South Vietnamese 5th Infantry Division who were wounded Friday in the heaviest single battle in South Vietnam in six months. Military sources said allied aircraft wrote an explosive finish to the battle Sunday night after they were called in by a U.S. Air Force aC130 Spectre gunship crew who spotted a convoy of 100 Communist trucks snaking from the Cambodian frontier toward the battlefield.

The sources said the planes destroyed 33 of the trucks and damaged 51 others.

The final toll of the battle was 46 South Vietnamese soldiers killed, 116 wounded, and 325 North Vietnamese soldiers killed, the sources said.

A Communist broadcast Sunday said the prisoners could be picked up any time that day or until sundown today by unarmed helicopters marked with red crosses.

"We did not respond to that proposal because our aircraft flying over the pickup area were shot at by ground troops," a South Vietnamese spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the Communists tried twice Sunday to entice South Vietnamese troops out into the open to pick up wounded prisoners. They succeeded the second time because the troops and prisoners were from the same outfit and knew each other, the spokesman said. But the toll was only one South Vietnamese soldier killed and 10 wounded, he added.

At the height of the three-day battle, contact was so close that B52 bombers were ordered to avoid the site due to the risk of hitting South Vietnamese troops, military sources said. One survivor told a reporter troops on both sides became so intermingled they were shooting their own men.

Nationalist Chinese Leader Rules Out Red Negotiations

By ROBERT E. PAGE

TAIPEI (UPI) — Premier Chiang Ching-kuo said today his government never will negotiate with the Chinese Communists.

"In the past 20 years," Chiang said in an exclusive interview, "the Chinese Communists have sent out numerous trial balloons and started many rumors about peace talks with us.

"But let me give you my word of honor that we will never enter into any negotiations with the Chinese Communists," he said. "Our decision in this respect is not based on political dispute or personal grudges. It is a matter of life or death."

Chiang, 62, is the eldest son of President Chiang Kai-shek and is the leader who runs the daily affairs of the Nationalist government in Taiwan.

In his first interview since becoming premier last June 1, Chiang said that continued American support of South Vietnam is the key to Asia's future.

"It is our sincere hope that President Nixon would firmly support South Vietnam as it is the key factor in the Asian situation," Chiang said.

"If Vietnam is allowed to fall to the Communists, then other countries in the area such as Thailand, Laos, Cambodia, Singapore and Malaysia will also fall.

"South Vietnam, South Korea and Taiwan are the three crucial points in Asia. If they fall to the Communists, the entirety of Asia will go."

Young Chiang, second only to his father in power in Taiwan, suffers from diabetes but appeared to be in excellent health during the interview in his office. He works 10 to 12 hours daily and never drinks or smokes.

The premier said the Nationalist government still expects to regain control of the China mainland, which it lost to the Communists in 1949. The Nationalists then retreated to Taiwan, an island 100 miles off the China coast.

"We plan to recover the China mainland by 30 per cent military efforts and 70 per political efforts," Chiang said.

"We will emphasize the political rather than the military measures. It's not that we are going to invade a foreign country. We are just returning to our own territory and therefore political measures are more important than military ones."

Chiang, who served as defense minister before he became premier, said Nationalist Chinese military forces include a regular army of 550,000 men backed by a force of 1.7 million men.

"We are confident of the defense of Taiwan against Communist attacks because we are militarily strong enough," Chiang said. "Our people in Taiwan and on the offshore islands of Kinmen (Quemoy) and Matsu will rise up against the Communists in the event of attacks to protect their properties, their families and their own lives." The premier said Peking lacks leadership.

"The problem the Chinese Communists have now is the lack of leadership," Chiang said. "There have been drastic changes in the basic political system of the Chinese Communists and their internal situation has not been steady.

"It is a matter of time that the Chinese Communist regime will topple, and the only problem is whether this will happen before or after the death of Mao (Chairman Mao Tse-tung)."

Chiang said his government cannot overlook the number of countries which have broken diplomatic relations with the Nationalists and recognized the government in Peking.

"But what matters is whether we have the ability to maintain our contacts with those nations with whom we no longer have diplomatic relations," the premier said.

"Since we lost our United Nations seat a year ago, many nations have severed diplomatic relations with us. We have been able to maintain economic and cultural relations with nearly all of them with the exception of only one or two.

"We know this is a special stituation. We don't take it easily and we are not pessimistic."

Ten Commandments In School Proposed

WASHINGTONG (UPI) — Evangelist Billy Graham has proposed the daily reading of the Ten Commandments in the nation's schools as a less controversial religious exercise than the offering of classroom prayers.

Graham made the suggestion yesterday at President Nixon's interfaith worship service. The initial reaction was not favorable.

"I believe that every Jew, Catholic and Protestant would agree that the Ten Commandments should be read every day in every classroom in America," Graham said in his sermon. "Our young people flounder because they are uncertain as to what is right and wrong. They wait desperately for someone to tell them."

Speaking with a reporter later, Graham said he was making the proposal to see what the reaction would be. He said actor Charlton Heston, who starred in the movie, "The Ten Commandments," thought it was "a great idea."

The Supreme Court twice has ruled against the mandatory offering of prayers in the classroom, and a proposed constitutional amendment to authorize such prayers has failed in Congress to date.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, who was at the service, said the reading of the Ten Commandments could not take place "at this time."

"So far even the Psalms are unconstitutional," he said.

Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin, Wilshire Boulevard Temple, Los Angeles, and Roman Catholic Archbishop Joseph L. Bernardin, of Cincinnati, who also gave sermons, expressed their support of the content of the commandments—but their reservation about reading them as Graham suggested.

"I would certainly agree with the main thesis that the Ten Commandments are as valid today as they ever were and that we have an obligation to teach them to our people and to relate them to our situation," the archbishop said.

"But whether they ought to be taught in this way, that's another matter, and I'm not prepared to comment."

Said the rabbi: "I know he means, that the gist of it is that the Ten Commandments should be taught. But it would bring up in the minds of thousands of people the question of church and state. It would be controversial."

"The Ten Commandments are the basis of moral law," Graham said.

Small Explosion Leads To Suspects In Slaying

GRANDIN, Mo. (UPI) — A small explosion at a Poplar Bluff, Mo., garage apparently resulted in the arrest of three suspects in the murder of Grandin banker Robert Kitterman, his wife and 17-year-old daughter.

Authorities said a tipster told Butler County Sheriff Clyde Hendrix he had seen one of the suspects, Dallas Ray Delay, 33, at the garage a few days before Kittermans were murdered.

The tipster reportedly told authorities Delay had a pistol and something resembling a dynamite stick, which he exploded with gun powder.

"I'm going to use this to rob a bank," authorities said the tipster quoted Delay as saying.

Ripley County Prosecuting Attorney James Hall said Sunday Delay, Lloyd Dwaine Cowin, 21, and Jerry Rector, 22, each would be charged with three counts of first-degree murder. The three lived in Van Buren, Mo., about 15 miles northwest of Grandin.

Authorities said the trio had been camping in a wooded area where a fake bomb and currency were found. The makeshift campsite was about seven miles from where the bodies of Kitterman, 43, his his wife, Bertha, 38, and their daughter, Roberta, were found last Wednesday. The victims had been tied to small trees and each was shot once in the head.

About one hour before the bodies were found, Kitterman had rushed into the Bank of Grandin, of which he was president, and scooped about $11,000 from the vault. He told a bookkeeper that his wife and daughter were being held by extortionists. Kitterman said dynamite had been strapped to his chest.

Authorities said a device consisting of a short fuse, a small metal box and a set of wires and batteries was found at the campsite. They also found money in a blood-stained blue pillowslip, a .32 caliber automatic and a sack, bearing the words "please return to Bank of Grandin." The amount of money recovered was not revealed.

It was believed the Kittermans may have been killed because they knew the extortionists and could identify them to police. Hall said Kitterman served on a jury three years ago that convicted Delay of auto theft.

Italy Changes Money System

ROME (UPI) — The government introduced a "two-tiered" money system today for lira dealings against foreign currency, a measure adopted earlier by France and Belgium.

The system divides commercial and financial — or speculative — transactions.

The Bank of Italy, an announcement said, will continue to maintain the exchange rate on straightforward commercial dealings connected with the exchange of goods, services and tourism. In such transactions, the bank will continue to hold the price of the lira to within 2.25 per cent above or below internationally-agreed limits.

Muslim Death Motive Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A special 11-member police squad probed for a motive in the murder of seven members of a Muslim group today, interviewed one victim who survived the grisly attack and cross-checked reports that a gun used in the killings was stolen.

The special squad was assigned yesterday to handle only the case in which two adults and five children were slain Thursday in a $78,000 house once owned by Milwaukee Bucks basketball star Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. The house was later donated by him to the Hanafi Muslim sect of which he is a member.

The two adults and two of the chidlren were shot to death. Three other children were drowned in a bathtub.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Iron Deficiency Is The Cause Of The Most Common Anemia

The most common, treatable anemia is caused by iron deficiency. In the United States, it is prevalent in almost every age group and is reported to be widespread among women in their reproductive years and in children under the age of 3.

Lack of iron may lead to irritability, loss of appetite, and listlessness. However, the majority of victims are unaware of the deficiency because it is borderline.

THIS TYPE of anemia occurs whenever blood iron loss exceeds iron intake in the diet. Hemorrhage is an obvious cause, but bleeding may be absent when it comes from the stomach or intestines and is not noticeable in the stools. In most instances, the cause is dietary. Many of the victims are poor and cannot afford or do not wish to eat foods rich in iron.

Almost all foods contain some iron. Milk has the least iron content and infants are likely to develop anemia if they are not given solid foods after 4 to 6 months of age. This is more lilely to occur if they have small iron stores at birth.

To be of any value, the iron in food must be absorbed. Iron in plant foods, for example, is less well absorbed than that from meats and eggs. From 15 to 20 per cent of the iron is absorbed from diets containing large amounts of animal protein, while only five to ten per cent is absorbed from diets composed of vegetable foods.

IRON DEFICIENCY is widespread in young women. This has been true for a hundred or more years. At the turn of the century, the condition was called chlorsis, because the girls had a waxen, sickly green complexion. Then, as today, it was caused by a deficiency of dietary iron. Recently, the Chicago Board of Health conducted a study of approximately 1,000 pregnant teenagers, 15 years old or younger. Approximately 60 per cent were anemic or had hemoglobin concentrations of less than 11 (normal 12 to 16).

Iron-enriched foods, such as cereals and flour, are helpful. Treatment of this type of anemia involves correcting the cause and taking iron tablets or capsules. Ferrous sulfate (USP) is one of the cheapest and best.

TALL AT 12

Mrs. R. A. G. writes: My 12-year-old daughter is the tallest in her class. Is there a way to retard further growth?

REPLY

Yes, but only if X-rays of her long bones show that additional growth can be expected. It is much better to let well enough alone. Furthermore, from this point on, her classmates may have a growth spurt and she might end up shorter than her friends.

KITCHEN BURNS

C. T. writes: What is the best way to treat a burn incurred while cooking?

REPLY

Control your temper, apply ice until the pain subsides, and then wash the area with soap and water. Cover with a sterile dressing and secure with adhesive tape or bandage.

'INHALES' CALORIES

Miss M. writes: My mother, a restaurant worker, claims she gains weight because she inhales grease fumes all day. Is this possible?

REPLY

Only from the fumes she inhales as she nibbles on food.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Sad News For A Tree Cutter

Only God can make a tree, but any fool can cut it down.

If the tree doesn't belong to the cutter, he'd better be prepared to pay, pay, pay. For the law allows three times the actual value if injury to the tree is wilful and malicious. That means not only the value of the tree itself, but the injury the owner may suffer.

For example, Larry Lucas hired a gardener to cut down Charley Goodman's trees. These trees blocked the view from Larry's home. The trees were worth $800 but the court awarded $2,400 damages.

The court said in effect, "Lucas knew the trees weren't on his land. Yet he disregarded his neighbor's rights and cut the trees for the sole purpose of improving his view. The acts were wanton and wilful and warrant triple damages."

Suppose you cut someone's trees by mistake? That isn't wilful and malicious. Then you pay double, instead of triple. Say, however, that you did this because you relied on a boundary line fixed by a licensed surveyor. Then you pay only actual "single" damages.

Consider Paulette Bunyan, who had a lease on land with the right to remove timber. She was mistaken in believing that her lease was still in force. She had cut and removed some trees. Her lessor sued. The court awarded the mandatory double damages.

True, Paulette didn't act malicously. She made a mistake. Still the law awards double damages. The purpose of the law is to prevent the wrongful cutting of trees and the burden is on the cutter to make sure he has the right to cut. Said the court: "Section 3346 gives treble damages against the rogue and double damages against the blunderer."

Some trespasses are crimes. Removing crops, taking shrubs or even dirt and rocks are acts of trespass. The person may be sentenced to up to six months in jail and a fine of $500.

A new subdivision may change many environmental conditions. For example, it may cause changes in drainage of rain. This can cause flooding and deposits of mud on property nearby. This is an act of trespass or the creation of a nuisance. The injured party may recover damages and also get an injunction to make the developer correct the nuisance. (Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.)

Four Are Killed In Plane Crash

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — A twin-engine Cessna 310 crashed on landing at Omaha's Eppley Airfield Sunday night. Four persons were killed and one critically injured.

Authorities said the plane was enroute from a point in Kansas, but its destination was not immediately known.

Witnesses said the plane approached the airport from the southwest during a freezing drizzle, but fell short of the runway and slammed into a dike which protects the airport from the Missouri River.

ALMANAC

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Monday, Jan. 22, the 22nd day of 1973 with 343 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening star is Saturn.

British poet Lord Byron was born Jan. 22, 1788.

On this day in history:

In 1789, the first American novel, "The Power of Sympathy" by Sarah Morton, was published in Boston.

In 1963, the nations of France and Germany — old foes — signed a treaty pledging cooperation in foreign policy, defense and cultural affairs.

In 1968, Communist North Korea seized the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo in the Sea of Japan and took 83 crewmen captive. The crew was released 11 months later and North Korea kept the vessel.

In 1972, a pact was signed to enlarge the European Common Market to 10 by the admission of Britain, Ireland, Norway and Denmark. Norway later voted against joining the trade community.

A thought for the day: British scientist Havelock Ellis said, "A man must not swallow more beliefs than he can digest."

Smuggling Conviction Is Given

A Santa Rosa woman has been convicted of smuggling Scotch to her inmate husband at San Quentin, but a Marin Superior Court jury acquitted her on a charge of smuggling secobarbital.

The jury in the court of Judge Charles R. Best deliberated for two days before returning the mixed verdict in the case of 35-year-old Ruby Bonita Medina.

Mrs. Medina was arrested July 24 during an overnight visit to her inmate husband, Benjamin. Prison officials said she was carrying a partially consumed bottle of Ballantine's Scotch and three balloons containing white powder.

Guards went to the cottage where the Medinas were enjoying a 48-hour visit because Medina, a convicted robber and burglar, appeared to be under the influence of a drug at morning roll call.

Mrs. Medina's defense was that the drugs came from inside the prison, but she failed to convince the jury on the alcohol count. Sentencing was set for Feb. 9.

Novato Planners To Eye Apartments

Two Are Injured In Explosion Of Rail Tankers

POWDER SPRINGS, Ga. (UPI) — A Seaboard Coast Line freight train carrying five tankers of butane and other forms of gas derailed and exploded "like an atomic bomb" Sunday night about 500 yards from a chemical plant. Two crewmen were injured.

Two tankers containing LP butane gas exploded after the train skipped the tracks in a sparsely-populated area, but police said the three remaining tankers held some sort of "deadly, toxic" gas.

Police said the chances were "remote" the fire would endanger the chemical plant, but said there was danger of the other tanks exploding.

Police said at 2 a.m. that the fire apparently had been brought under control.

Plea Is Entered On Reduced Charge

The Independent-Journal erroneously reported Jan. 5 that Carole Ann Desalernos, 31, of San Francisco, was sentenced for drunken driving.

Originally charged with the violation, she pleaded guilty on Dec. 21 to a reduced charge of reckless driving. She was placed on probation for six months and fined $182.

Mr. J. Oliver Finds Way To Help Shrink Painful Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues

...caused by inflammation and infection.

Junction City, Kansas.—Mr. J. Oliver writes: "I couldn't get relief. Then I bought Preparation H. I surely recommend it. It's worth its weight in gold."

(Note: Doctors' tests have proved Preparation H® actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation. It's so effective that in many cases the first applications give prompt, temporary relief from pain and itching in such tissues. There's no other formula like Preparation H.)

Youth Held On Pair Of Charges

An 18-year-old San Rafael youth was arrested at 8:20 p.m. Saturday on suspicion of auto theft and concealing stolen property, San Rafael police reported.

Ronald Roland Cardinalli of 14 Francis Street was held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $2,000 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said Cardinalli is suspected of taking a 1967 BMW from BMW Auto Zentrum at 1826 Fourth Street Saturday afternoon. He is also suspected of taking a purse from a car at Bon-Tempe Lake. The purse belonged to Janet Franz of 139 Humbolt Street, San Rafael, police reported.

Police arrested him on a tip at Fourth and E streets. Two juveniles also were questioned by police in connection with the case and released to the custody of their parents, pending further proceedings.

Haerle Backed By Reinecke For GOP Post

Reinecke told California Republican Assembly directors he favors the former member of Gov. Ronald Reagan's staff because of his "past performance."

The vice chairmanship is regarded as an automatic stepping stone to the chairmanship and the CRA's political activity committee has recommended Truman F. Chambell, chairman of the Fresno County Central Committee.

Reinecke's suggestion was made Saturday at an inaugural ball.

Classic Ragtime Concert Is Set

A concert of classic ragtime and Harlem stride piano will be performed at 8 p.m. Feb. 10 at the College of Marin Fine Arts Building. The program is sponsored by the Behavior Therapy Institute of Sausalito.

These piano styles, which heavily influenced American music at the turn of the century, will be played by pianists Fae McNally and Mike Lipskin with drummer Sam Shaffer. Soprano Viola Gilliam will sing selections from Scott Joplin's folk opera "Treemonisha."

Grover Sales, music critic and television commentator, will discuss the music styles illustrated by a set of slides. Reservations may be made calling the College of Marin box office. Tickets will be available at the door.

NO JOKE

North thought he was joking, but astoundingly enough South did make his contract by ruffing a club in the dummy.

West opened the king of diamonds and continued with the ace. South ruffed, drew two rounds of trumps and then took the ace and king of hearts.

Declarer's next step was to lead a low heart. If the two missing hearts were evenly divided, South could safely ruff in dummy.

West could not gain by discarding. Dummy would ruff, and South would ruff a diamond to regain the lead. South would then draw the last trump and cash the queen and another heart. At the end, South would give up two club tricks.

DISCARDS CLUB

West saw all this and therefore ruffed the third heart with the jack of spades. South discarded the deuce of clubs from the dummy, beginning his campaign to shorten dummy's clubs.

West led a third diamond, and South ruffed with his last trump. Now South cashed the queen and six of hearts, discarding two more clubs from the dummy.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - J 8 7
♡ - 9 5
◇ - A K 6 2
♣ - A 9 7 4.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one club.

If partner bids two clubs, you will pass; and if he bids one diamond, you will raise to two diamonds. If you opened the bidding with one diamond and partner responded two clubs, you would have to bid three clubs — a decided overbid with your minimum values.

Chiang's Health Is Said Excellent

TAIPEI (UPI) — President Chiang Kai-shek's eldest son says his father's health is excellent after his recovery from pneumonia last year. Chiang, 85, is the last surviving allied leader from World War II.

"The president last year had a cold, and due to lack of proper rest, it developed into a case of pneumonia," the president's son, Premier Chiang Ching-kuo, said in an interview. "He has recovered," Chiang's son said, "but he is taking more rest as ordered by the doctor so that his recovery will be complete." Other sources said the president has resumed his custom of after-dinner walks and meets almost daily with his son, who directs government affairs.

Saturday's Answer

I-J Sports Editor

A Great Day For Mr. O.J.

After watching O.J. Simpson run over, around and through some of the best defenders in the National Football Conference yesterday I can't help but wonder how many yards he would gather each year if he were playing for a good team.

Buffalo isn't a team which can boast the best blocking in the NFL, and for O.J. to go over the 1,000-yard mark for the Bills, which he did this past season, it was like being a 20-game winning pitcher for the Texas Rangers. It was the first Pro Bowl for Simpson and all he did was set a game record by rushing for 112 yards, caught three passes for 58 yards and was named the game's outstanding performer to the surprise of nobody who saw the game on television.

My only worry yesterday was that the television set would blow a fuse. After all, 61 points in one game in this age of the defense is shocking. That final score, American Football Conference 33 and National Football Conference 28 made me think back to the early days of the American Football League when such scores were common place. Since that time professional football has improved its defense — so much that many of the games turn into bores. Fans like to watch touchdowns, not field goals.

Anyway, it was great to see the 49ers and Raiders contribute to the excitement of the game. Tight end Ted Kwalick of the 49ers scored a touchdown on a 12-yard pass from Norm Snead and Raider running back Marv Hubbard scored for the AFC on an 11-yard run, so the Bay Area supplied 12 of the 61 points. And 49er linebacker Dave Wilcox intercepted a pass and made some fine tackles.

And what about the Packer bruiser John Brockington who scored three of the NFC's touchdowns? Put him in the same backfield with Simpson and you've really got a combo.

But let's switch our attention from that football field in Irving, Tex., to the boxing ring in Kingston, Jamaica. The smart money that flows through channels everytime a heavyweight championship is held says Joe Frazier will win, with odds of 3½ to 1 posted. But Bay Area fans who would rather bet with their hearts are picking George Foreman of Hayward to win tonight's title bout.

Foreman has always had the distinction of being "the Nice Guy," since his rise to the National scene in the 1968 Olympics when he won a gold medal in the heavyweight division and then proudly danced around the ring waving a small United States flag. In an Olympics in which anti-U.S. demonstrations were gaining headlines, it was refreshing to many at home to see this boxer dancing around a ring in Mexico City waving that American flag.

Since that time Foreman has won all 37 of his professional fights, 34 by knockouts, but none of the boxers was the caliber of Smokin' Joe. Foreman will be in a different ballgame tonight.

SHORT HOPS — Honor Jackson, safety for the New England Patriots, tied a team record this season when he intercepted passes in three straight games, tieing a mark held by five other players. Jackson was a star performer at Tamalpais High and College of Marin before his football days at University of Pacific . . . Although some critics correctly said there weren't enough camping displays for the common folk and it was geared too much for the affluent, the San Francisco Sports and Boat Show set in an attendance record of 387,524 during its 10-day run which ended yesterday.

San Diego Acquires Baltimore's Unitas

BOTTOMS UP — Boston Bruins' star Bobby Orr tried to kick the puck away from the stick of a California Seals' player yesterday in a National Hockey League game in Oakland. Although sprawled on the ice, Orr managed to deflect the puck away in this first period sequence. The Bruins won, 5-2. (UPI Telephoto)

Quarterback Traded For 'Future Considerations'

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Johnny Unitas, who became football's greatest quarterback after joining the Baltimore Colts as a free agent castoff in 1956, was traded today to the San Diego Chargers for "a future consideration."

Unitas, who had a 10 year $1 million "personal services" contract with the Colts, to take effect upon his retirement, said after he was benched that he would never play another season with the Colts and that he didn't intend to retire.

At the time of his benching he was among the leading quarterbacks in the AFC. In his last play before the hometown fans Dec. 3 Unitas threw a touchdown pass in a 35-7 romp over the Buffalo Bills.

The Colts benched Unitas and some other veterans when general manager Joe Thomas, unhappy with the team's 1-4 record, decided the team needed major overhauling.

The trade had been simmering for some time but Unitas had said he wanted to be traded to a winning team. The Chargers were 4-9-1 in 1972.

"No other players or draft choices were involved in the agreement," Thomas said after the trade was announced. "The Chargers will assume only Unitas' standard player contract and the Colts will, of course, meet all future obligations accrued by Johnny Unitas during his playing career with the Colts."

Thomas refused to say when the transaction will be completed. He is still in the process of interviewing applicants for the head coaching job, vacant since interim coach John Sandusky was fired at the end of the season.

Reports from San Diego indicated last week that veteran quarterback John Hadl would be traded. Hadl led Sunday's 33-28 AFc victory in the Pro Bowl in Dallas.

If Hadl is traded then it appeared Unitas would be assured of a starting job next season under head coach Harland Svare.

"The Chargers are honored and proud to acquire John Unitas, the greatest quarterback ever to play the game," Coach Harland Svare said in San Diego.

Unitas was signed by Don Kellett for the Colts in 1956 after he was cut during the preseason by the Pittsburgh Steelers. He became the starting quarterback shortly after the season started and held it without serious competition, except when he was out with injuries, until he was benched in 1972.

He has set virtually every pro football passing record, passing for more yardage and touchdowns than any other quarterback.

He led the Colts to three World Championships and nine division titles and won the adulation of millions in the 1958 sudden death playoff with the New York Giants, which the Colts won 23-17. He was an allpro six times, he played in 10 pro bowls and was the NFL's Most Valuable Player in 1957, 1964 and 1967.

Unitas was quoted by the Baltimore Evening Sun as saying he doesn't know if he will play for San Diego.

"Just because I've been traded doesn't mean I'll be going to the West Coast," Unitas said. "For one thing, I don't know if it's legal. I'll just have to sit down and look at things and then talk with the San Diego people."

Simpson Leads AFC Win, Climaxes Top Pro Season

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — O.J. Simpson took four years to reach the plateau in pro football expected of him from the first moment he signed with the Buffalo Bills.

And on a gloomy, damp day in Texas Stadium yesterday, Simpson climaxed his most rewarding season by helping the American Football Conference achieve total domination— at least until next year—of the National Football Conference.

The AFC All-Stars whipped the NFC all-Stars in the third Pro Bowl between the two conferences 33-28 to finish off a season that also included a one-game edge in inter-conference play for the American Conference and a victory in the Super Bowl by AFC Miami over NFC Washington.

The AFC also took a 2-1 lead over the NFC in National Football League Pro Bowl competition.

"There is no doubt about it," said Kansas City flanker Otis Taylor, who caught a five-yard scoring pass from Oakland's Daryle Lamonica for one of the AFC's four touchdowns. "The rivalry still exists.

"It may not be as intense as the old days, but it's there. We wanted to win when we started workouts a week ago. Coach (Chuck) Noll told us the first day we were here to win and that was the attitude of the entire squad the whole week."

Despite that attitude, it looked for a while like the NFC was going to salvage a little pride.

The AFC fumbled twice in the first period and the NFC turned them both into touchdowns by John Brockington— one on a one-yard run and the other on a three-yard pass from Washington's Billy Kilmer. It was 14-0 and the AFC had shown little.

"We made a lot of mistakes and they were capitalizing on them," said Ted Hendricks, Baltimore's linebacker. "I thought it might turn into a rout. But we hung together, eliminated our mistakes and forced them into turnovers."

And once that first turnover came the AFC's way in the form of a Kilmer fumble, O.J. Simpson stepped in to lead the rally.

With a third down and one situation facing the AFC at the NFC 22, Simpson bolted for 15 yards and then got the call on the next play. He sprinted seven yards, dove into the end zone and the AFC was on its way.

After two field goals by Pittsburgh's Roy Gerela had closed the deficit to one point in the third quarter, Simpson ran 14 yards to set up an 11-yard scoring run by Marv Hubbard.

And early in the fourth period Simpson carried the ball four times in the drive which led to Lamonica's touchdown pass to Taylor.

Bobby Bell of Kansas City, without the slightest help from Simpson, stepped in front of a Norm Snead pass seconds later and ran 12 yards for another

UPENDED — National Football All-Star kick returner Ron Smith (48) was knocked upside down by American Football Conference defender Robert James (20) yesterday in the Pro Bowl in Irving, Tex. Smith had returned the kickoff 55 yards to open the third quarter before being halted and jumped on by James. The AFC won, 33-28. (UPI Telephoto)

The Troubled Seals Seek Winning Way

The Boston Bruins last night spoiled the opener of a three-game Seals' road trip, running up a 5-0 lead and holding on for a 5-2 National Hockey League win.

Johnston, who hopes to get back in action this week, is looking for a helmet to protect his broken jaw. He needs one that will allow him vision while on the ice.

"Everytime I looked down in the helmet I was using in practice last week I would lose the puck," he said. The bars got in the way every time I looked at my feet."

The Seals were outshot 34-23 Sunday night and suffered their third loss in as many games at Boston this season.

Marin '5' Wins, Moves Into 1st

It was worth waiting for.

College of Marin's basketball team was forced to stand around Saturday night in Cupertino while De Anza College held the ball, but the Tars eventually achieved a 43-32 victory. As a reward for their patience, they took over undisputed possession of first place in the Camino Norte Conference.

They had been tied with West Valley of Campbell, but the Vikings were upset Saturday night by Skyline of San Bruno, 80-77. Marin now leads with a 4-0 record, stands 16-2 overall, and couldn't have hurt its No. 2 ranking in the state.

"We really kept our poise," said Tar coach John Panagakis. "We began to play as patiently as they were — only we were scoring and they weren't."

De Anza led at halftime, 10-9, but Marin got a break early in the second half when the Dons' coach was called for a technical foul. Tar forward Joe Casteel had blocked a shot, and the coach thought goal-tending should have been called, Panagakis said.

Guard Joe DeMaestri made the foul shot, the Tars took the ball out of bounds and forward Wil Garner, who scored 22 points, made a field goal. Marin never trailed afterwards, and built the lead to 15 points midway through the half.

Panagakis praised the defense. "We intercepted three inbounds passes," he said. "(Guard) Len Smith held their good shooter, Rick Hoffman, to zero points before switching off to guard this guy (Mich) Plaat (who got 20). Against a stall, it's easy to get impatient, and that's when they start to hurt you. But we kept our poise.

"And we tripled them on the boards, something like 36-12."

Marin	9	34	— 43

Marin — Casteel 3-2-8, Garner 11-0-22, DeMaestri 1-3-5, Smith 2-0-4, Traub 2-0-4. Totals: 19-5-43.

De Anza — Rathbun 3-0-6, Perry 2-0-4, Plaat 9-2-20, Castillo 1-0-2. Totals: 15-2-32.

Santa Clara Man Wins Cyclo-Cross

Mike Neel of the Turrin Bicycle Club from Santa Clara County slogged over the muddy, 6.4-mile course along Paradise Drive in an hour and six minutes yesterday to win the senior A division in the first Marin Cyclo-Cross, conducted by the Marin Cyclists.

Tom Reynolds of Tiburon, a member of Marin Cyclists, won the senior B competition. A field of 15 cyclists competed for $320 in prize money, "the biggest prize list anybody in the field had ever seen for cyclo-cross," according to race director Mark Horwitz.

Heavy Security Tonight For Frazier-Foreman Title Fight

KINGSTON, Jamaica (UPI) — Police officials revealed today extraordinary precautions have been taken against any possible sabotage or bombing under the ring for tonight's World Heavyweight Title fight here between champion Joe Frazier and George Foreman.

At today's weigh-in Foreman held a three and a half pound advantage as the challenger scaled 217½ to Frazier's 214.

Douglas McFarland, assistant police commissioner, confirmed "there have been threats of sabotage."

He did not reveal the source of the threat but said 740 police officers and more than 200 armed federal troops have been assigned to national stadium, site of the fight.

The fight program will be shown on closed circuit television at four Bay Area outlets starting at 6:30 tonight. It will be shown at the Richmond Auditorium, Oakland Coliseum, and San Francisco's Winterland and Orpheum Theater.

"It is true there have been threats of sabotage," said McFarland "but we have taken certain precautions. It would be no use for anyone to try to damage the lighting system at the stadium because we have two separate generators on hand."

Forty plainclothesmen guarded the ring 24 hours prior to the fight.

"It will be no good for some idiot saying they have placed a bomb under the ring," said McFarland, because we took over the stadium 24 hours before the fight.

As an extra precautionary measure, Premier Michael Manly of Jamaica ordered the 200 federal troops in addition to the regular police officials.

Egan Youngest Coach In NBA

Combined AP & UPI

HOUSTON — John Egan, for years the smallest player in the National Basketball Association at 6-feet, today is the youngest coach in the league at 33.

Egan, a 12-year veteran from Providence College, was promoted from assistant coach to head coach of the Houston Rockets yesterday to replace Tex Winter. Winter, head coach the last year and a-half, was fired by general manager Ray Patterson an hour and a half before the Rockets ended their 10-game losing streak by beating the New York Knicks 107-103.

Winter, 50, was expected to have the Rockets in contention in the Central Division this season but they were in third place, 12½ games out of first and only a half game ahead of last place Cleveland when he was fired. The Rockets finished fourth last season and had an overall record of 51-78 during his tenure.

Egan, who played with many of his teammates, said the team needs more discipline and he intends to see that they get it.

A's Sign First Player—Tenace

News of his signing, for a modest raise, leaked out during the weekend although the A's had hoped to keep it secret for a few days and announce it with some fanfare.

The A's also announced the signing of ace right-handed pitcher Jim (Catfish) Hunter for a "substantial salary boost." Terms of the contract for the 21-game winning pitcher were not disclosed, but Hunter admitted he received a good pay raise.

"I just happened to stop by the office 10 days ago," said Tenace, a catcher last year but a first baseman this year, "and Mr. (Charlie) Finley was there. He showed me my contract, I was satisfied with it and I signed it right away."

Naturally, Tenace would not reveal how much he signed for but he indicated there was a raise attached to the agreement with Finley.

Finley tried to give Tenace a $5,000 bonus for his World Series heroics but Commissioner Bowie Kuhn ruled he couldn't because it was a violation of baseball rules. It is presumed Tenace was given that $5,000 plus another $5,000 as a raise for 1973.

"Let's just say I'm happy with what I got," he said. "Mr. Finley took care of me."

Tenace, while busy getting his family ready for the move to a new home in suburban Ramon Village, said he is anxious for spring training to get underway.

"At this time of the year, you're always anxious," he said.

Tenace told Finley after the World Series his shoulder ached and that was why he was unable to keep the Cincinnati Reds from stealing everything but his mitt in the Series. That, plus other reasons, prompted Finley to unload first baseman Mike Epstein, despite the fact he led the A's last year with 26 home runs, to the Texas Rangers for reliever Horacio Pina.

Finley said at the time he traded Epstein because he wanted Tenace to play first base where the demands wouldn't be as great on his throwing arm.

"I think I can do the job at first," said Tenace. "I've played there before so it's not a strange position. With time I should be able to hold up my end."

Swimmer Backhaus Stands Out

Robin Backhaus of the Marin Aquatic Club won three events in the boys 15-17 age bracket Saturday to help boost the North to a 292-220 victory over the South in the third annual California All-Star Age Group, swimming meet, conducted by the Pacific Association, Amateur Athletic Union.

Backhaus won the 200-meter freestyle in 1:43.3, the 200 individual medley in 1:59.0 and the 500 free in 4:40.4 at the Culver City High School natatorium.

Maura Campion, also of the Marin A.C., was a member of the first-place 400 free relay team in the girls 13-14 bracket, and captured two second places — the 200 free in 1:58.2 and the 200 I.M. in 2:16.6.

Other Marin A.C. swimmers in the top three were Jo Hislop, second in the girls 15-17 100 free in 54.3; Sue Kay, second in the girls 13-14 50 free in 25.9; and Joe Dunn, third in the boys 13-14 200 butterfly in 2:07.7.

The victory was the third straight for the Northern California team, and was achieved with more ease than the previous two, each of which went down to the final relay.

Conroy's Four Goals Lead Bantams' Win

Ken Conroy scored four goals and assisted on another yesterday as the Marin Amateur Hockey Club Bantams defeated Santa Rosa, 8-3, for the lone victory by Marin.

The Pee Wees lost to Santa Rosa, 5-1, the Midgets lost to Sun Valley, 3-0, and the Mites and Squirts were idle.

Margaret Seeks 2nd Title In Row

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Ladies Virginia Slims tennis tour moves on to Los Angeles this week and with Billie Jean King on the shelf with a wrist injury, Margaret Smith Court has a chance for her second title in as many starts this year.

Mrs. Court, with Billie Jean watching from the sidelines, had little trouble whipping Kerry Melville, 6-3, 6-3, Saturday night to wrap up the British Motors title at San Francisco's Civic Auditorium.

It was quite a performance for Mrs. Court, who gave birth to a son last year and was not expected to be in her best form this soon. But there was little question who would win the BMC once Mrs. Court got past Rosie Casals of Sausalito Friday night in the semifinals. It was Mrs. Court's ninth consecutive tournament title and brought her $6,000.

Her victory in the BMC was a smooth display of tennis. Against Miss Melville, she was content to stay back and hit ground strokes.

"I've found that I usually have to play her that way," said Mrs. Court. "If I rally with her for a while, she eventually makes an error. What I try to do is hit the ball down the middle, because she likes to hit those wide shots on the run. I don't blame her, that's her strength."

Miss Melville had nothing but praise for Mrs. Court.

"She just has no real weakness," said Miss Melville. "There just is no simple way to beat her."

AT CANDLESTICK

Giants To Begin 'Informal' Work

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Weather permitting, the San Francisco Giants will hold the first of a series of "informal" workouts at their home base in Candlestick Park today.

Among those expected to tale part in the drills, under the care of first base coach Joe Amalfitano, is Willie Mccovey, the big slugger who became the first member of the Giants to sign his 1973 contract—for $120,000—during the weekend.

The workouts, to be held today, Wednesday and Friday until batterymen report to the spring training base at Casa Grande, Ariz., on Feb. 19, are being staged on a voluntary basis with only those players living in Northern California—some 14—invited to take part.

McCovey, the acknowledged club leader, said he hopes he can lead the Giants to a division title this year. Last year, he went out after the fourth game with a broken bone in his left forearm and managed to come back and play in only 70 games—with a foot long steel rod in his arm. Despite his problems and limited play, McCovey hit 14 home runs and has a career total of 384, fourth highest ever on the Giants.

The Giants finished fifth in the six team National League West last year after winning the division the year before. McCovey attributes that to his loss plus physical problems suffered by star pitchers Juan Marichal and Sam McDowell.

"Juan had what they say is a successful operation on his back and Sam has been resting his arm all winter," said McCovey, "so both should be ready to pitch the way we know they can. If I can come back with them, then we have as good a chance as anyone to win the Division.

"A lot of youngsters got a chance to play last year and that year of experience under game conditions should help in their progress. I'm a little excited about the coming season. When you look around and see promising kids like Dave Kingman, Ed Goodson, Jim Barr, Ron Bryant, Jim Willoughby, Garry Maddox and Gary Matthews, you have to get excited."

PREP BASKETBALL

Petaluma At Home For Hogan, Vallejo

Petaluma High School battles the city of Vallejo this week, as the Trojans host first the dangerous Hogan Spartans tomorrow night at 7 o'clock, and then take on the league leading Vallejo High Apaches Friday night in two North Bay League basketball crucials.

In other area high school hoop action tomorrow night at 7 o'clock, Analy of Sebastopol visits Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park in a Sonoma County League game and Tomales host St. Helena in a non-league match.

The Trojans are currently in a five-way tie for second place in the NBL at 2-2 with Santa Rosa, Montgomery of Santa Rosa, Napa and Ukiah — two games behind Vallejo which is 4-0 in league play.

Hogan, which is tied for third place with Vintage of Napa at 1- 3, was rated one of the stronger teams in the NBL in preseason polls. Since then, the Spartans have fallen on hard times, losing to Ukiah by 24 points, Napa by nine and Vintage by eight.

The Spartans are potentially very dangerous, though, as they knocked over previously unbeaten Santa Rosa, 50-47 — the same Panther squad that beat Petaluma 63-59.

Rancho Cotate will try to get back into the win column against winless Analy. The Cougars are 2-1 after a 66-51 loss to Sonoma, and one and a-half games behind SCL leaders Cardinal Newman of Santa Rosa, which they host Friday night. Analy lost a 40-38 overtime game to the Cardinals in the last 11 seconds Friday night.

The Tigers are one of the biggest teams in the league, led by 6-foot-3 cornerman Jay Bartholmew and 6-4 Mark Gonnela. "They are bit and strong and tough on the boards," Cougar coach Mike Francis commented. "Considering their strength on the boards, we are going to pick our shots better.

Soccer Results

Three Marin youth teams were defeated Saturday in San Francisco Flame Junior Soccer League games at Lowell High School, the Mill Valley Tams losing to Olympic Club, 4-0, Mill Valley United falling to Parola, 2-0, and the Marin County Apollos succumbing to St. Gabriel's, 4-2.

Novato Visits Redwood Five

Novato High School, alone at the top of the Marin County Athletic League basketball standings after a stunning series of events Friday night, will take its three-game winning streak to Larkspur for a crucial game with Redwood High tomorrow at 4 p.m.

The Hornets lead with a 4-1 record, but the Giants are just behind at 3-2, tied with Drake and Terra Linda. In other games tomorrow, Drake visits San Rafael at 4 p.m., Terra Linda invades San Marin at 7 and Tamalpais plays at Marin Catholic at 7.

If the season's first weekend constituted a Night of Upsets, then Friday was a new, improved version. Four of the top five teams lost, Tamalpais won its first league game of the year, and Novato moved into the undisputed lead.

"All those wind sprints paid off," said Hornet coach Jim Caranica, who essentially went with five starters all the way against a Drake team with a deep bench and a fondness for running.

Novato's last four games have been decided by three points or less, and the pressure-hardened Hornets have won three. They have all been at home, however, and now Novato must play seven consecutive games on the road.

The Hornets' victory Friday was achieved because of the inside work of 6-foot-5 center Willie Barnes, who scored 22 points, and the outside shooting and defense of guard Tom Conklin. Antoher factor was the play of improving junior forward Curtis Saine, the only starter who did not also start last year. He scored 13.

Caranica received a neighborly assist from cross-town rival San Marin, which beat Redwood for the first time in its history. The Giants, with no regular player scaling more than 6-2, fell victim to the inside work of 6-5 Mustang center John Tait. Tait's 28 points tied the high-point total for the MCAL this year. Price (Skip) Starnes, a 6-5 junior, added another 13.

San Marin now meets the league's most enigmatic team, Terra Linda, which has not won at home and has not lost on the road. The game is at San Marin. so the Mustangs may be in trouble.

Terra Linda fell victim to the "good things come to he who waits" offense of Marin Catholic in a 45-34 upset which knocked the Trojans out of a share of first place. The Wildcats will try their waiting game against Tam, but in a different sense, Tam has been waiting the longest of any team.

The defending champion Indians lost their first four, and three of them weren't even close, but erupted to stun San Rafael Friday. Center Mike Dinehart scored 24, but perhaps more importantly, the Indians got 30 points from three players who weren't even with last year's title team — Hollis Ownes, Frank Jandura and Ethan Winterling.

San Rafael now has lost three in a row after two opening victories, and picked a bad team to try to reverse a streak against. Drake had won three straight prior to the loss to Novato.

St. Vincent Wins; Loss For Tomales

St. Vincent High School of Petaluma kept pace with North Central League II frontrunner Kelseyville by beating host Calistoga 61-56, and Tomales fell further behind with a 70-58 loss to host Kelseyville in basketball action Friday night.

St. Vincent is now 2-0 in NCL II play, one-half game behind the Indians at 3-0, and the Braves fell two and a-half games back as their record dropped to 0-2 in league play.

Bob Vyenielo led the Mustangs to victory with a 21-point, 29-rebound effort. He was helped by Dan Tocchini who added 14 points.

The Braves were blown out of the game by a 27-point second quarter by Kelseyville. The Indians came back in the third period to add 23-more points for a 58-40 lead. Russ Sartori scored a game high 23 points to lead Tomales in defeat.

ONE-ON-ONE — Milwaukee Bucks' center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (33) backed in towards the basket against Golden State Warriors' pivot man Nate Thurmond in Milwaukee yesterday. The host Bucks won the National Basketball Association game, 124-108.

Ailing Barry Hopes To Play Versus Lakers

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Golden State forward Rick Barry sprained his ankle against Milwaukee yesterday night, but says he hopes to be back for a weekend series with the Los Angeles Lakers.

"In the past I've been a quick healer," Barry said. "I was supposed to be out a couple of times for a few weeks but I was back in four or five days."

The All-Star Warrior forward injured the ankle and was forced to leave the game in the second quarter after scoring 15 points.

The Bucks, sparked by a third quarter 12-point explosion by Lucius Allen, downed Golden State 124-108.

A Warrior spokesman said it is "highly improbable" Barry would play in the NBA All-Star game Tuesday night at Chicago. However, he is expected to accompany the team there.

The injury occurred when Barry was driving for the basket and became sandwiched between Milwaukee's Dick Cunningham and Curtis Perry.

Barry fell to the floor, landing on the side of his left foot. He limped back into the game later and made two free throws to give the Warriors their final lead of the game 43-42 but he could not continue after that.

"It changes our offense quite a bit when Rick goes out," said interim Warrior Coach Nate Thurmond.

"Rick is an integral part of our team," Thurmond said.

"Against teams that we can defense a little better, we could better afford his loss, but the Bucks can score a lot of points on you in a hurry."

That's just what Milwaukee did. In one four-minute stretch of the third quarter, the Bucks scored 18 points to only two for Golden State.

ABA ROUNDUP

Utah Beaten By San Diego

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Utah Stars took the expansion San Diego Conquistadors too lightly Sunday night as as a result found themselves with only a 3½ game lead in the American Basketball Association's Western Division.

The expansion Conquistadors, with Ollie Taylor scoring 15 of his 23 points in the second half, rallied from a three-point deficit in the final quarter to upend the Stars 97-92.

Stew Johnson and Red Robbins hit baskets to put San Diego ahead and the Q's held on for the last 10 minutes. Johnson finished with 22 points while James Jones led Utah with 25.

In the only other ABA games Sunday, The Kentucky Colonels defeated the Denver Rockets 118-111 and the Dallas Chaps whipped the New York Nets 105-98.

Walt Simon scored 26 points as the Colonels overtook Denver in the second quarter and held off a late Rockets' rally. Dan Issel added 21 points and Artis Gilmore 20 for Kentucky while Ralph Simpson was high man for Denver with 30.

Rich Jones, an All-Star choice, scored 29 points and Joe Hamilton's three-point play ignited a nine-point burst in the last quarter that carried Dallas over the Nets. George Carter had 33 points for New York.

1972 MARQUISAT BEAUJOLAIS PRIMEUR

Every Winter there is great anticipation in the cafes of Paris—anticipation of the arrival of this "new" wine of Beaujolais. Now for the first time in the United States, a Beaujolais Primeur is available from one of the oldest and most reputable firms in France, Pasquier-Desvignes in St. Lager.

Beaujolais is perhaps the classic red wine which should be drunk and enjoyed while still young. The "BEAUJOLAIS PRIMEUR" ("New Beaujolais") is perhaps the classic example — bottled almost immediately after the vintage, it is full of life and the fruit of the grape, capturing all of the delightful qualities of Beaujolais.

By French law, Beaujolais Primeur cannot be bottled before November 15th, and within days afterward shipments are on their way all over France and now to America. This delicious young wine is ready for immediate consumption and by Spring it should all be drunk and enjoyed. The wine can be served with any foods with which one would drink a light red wine.

Heavy Security Slated For Frazier-Foreman Title Go

coolness down here toward American tourists on the part of the local Jamaicans. To forestall any possibility of trouble from the fight fans tonight at National Stadium, about 1,000 police and army personnel will be close to ringside. There are seating accommodations for 42,000 but the actual crowd may be less than 20,000 judging from the way ticket sales have been going.

Foreman, 24, has been brought along carefully, his opponents being hand picked by manager-trainer Dick Sadler. There hasn't been much reason for Foreman to think about losing. His last defeat came back in 1967 as an amateur in the Golden Gloves after which came an Olympic Gold Medal.

Foreman has never been seriously hurt in the ring as a pro. He hasn't given his opponents much time to do any damage.

Frazier has remained remarkably cool, and even made an appearance at a local night spot just three days before the fight. But mostly he kept to himself over the weekend, getting mentally prepared for what could be a tough fight, physically, for him.

Frazier, who has won all of his 29 pro fights, the last two not that convincingly, must answer some questions about his health. Some say he was permanently damaged when he decisioned Muhammad Ali almost two years ago. His fights against Terry Daniels and Ron Stander last year didn't do much to disprove that theory.

But the champion has trained hard for this fight and feels he's ready. "I didn't slack back in my training at all," he said. "I've been workin' hard, turning it on.

"I'm well now. I got my health. We all get sick. Heck, I ain't no Samson, no Superman."

COLLEGE ROUNDUP

UCLA To Visit Loyola Cagers

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

With nationally ranked University of San Francisco and Providence disposed of in ridiculously easy fashion, the UCLA Bruins take the show on the road against Loyola of Illinois Thursday and Notre Dame Saturday in a shot at the all-time college basketball winning streak record.

The Bruins playing in their home court, routed No. 11 San Francisco 92-64 Friday night and demolished No. 9 Providence 101-77 Saturday night to run their 1972-73 season mark to a perfect 14-0 and their consecutive streak to 59.

If they beat Loyola Thursday, that will tie them with the 1955-56 Bill Russell-K.C. Jones led USF team for the all-time consecutive victory mark and they can shoot for the record on Saturday against Notre Dame, the last team to beat them way back during the 1970-71 season.

Providence Coach Dave Gavitt, after watching the Bruins take his team apart, said "I don't know if anyone can beat UCLA. I'm sure no one can beat them at home. They do everything exceptionally well. We tried five different defenses against them and they had answers for every one."

With Bill Walton hobbled somewhat by an ankle injury late in the first half, Larry Farmer became UCLA's big man against Providence, scoring 21 points and pulling down 24 rebounds. Walton and guard Larry Hollyfield added 18 each in the rout.

With USF suffering its second loss of the season in 14 starts, No. 6 Long Beach State took over as the West's second best team by beating Creighton 68-51. That gave the 49ers a 14-1 record and this week they play once—in New York against Northern Illinois.

All but USC among the Pacific 8 teams played outside the conference last Saturday and all of them won. Washington routed Montana 77-59, Oregon beat Cal Poly of Pomona 73-63, Oregon State got past Idaho 77-59, California downed San Jose State 79-68 and Stanford edged Utah 80-71. USC was idle.

In the West Coast Athletic Conference, Nevada-Las Vegas defeated Nevada Reno 101-90 in the only league game to move into third place in the standings while Seattle shaded Portland 60-59, St. Mary's lost to San Francisco State 80-78 and Loyola bowed to New Mexico 75-69.

In the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, Fresno State defeated Weber State 79-75, UC Santa Barbara downed Northridge State 73-65, Pacific lost to Illinois State 95-56 and San Diego State bowed to Arizona State 95-70.

Games of note on tonight's schedule find California hosting Nevada-Reno and Pacific at Montana State. Las Vegas plays at St. Mary's and Reno at UC Davis tomorrow, while on Wednesday, Santa Clara is at Pacific before the big weekend schedule.

Sonoma State, second in the Far Western Conference standings at 3-1, is at Bakersfield tonight, at Fresno Pacific on tomorrow and then takes the rest of the week off. League leader Chico State is 4-1.

Sleep Helps WHA Sharks Coach Slater

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Some coaches spend the night at the drawing board and others just dream away.

"I had a dream to put Odrowski at center," Slater explained Sunday night after Los Angeles had edged the Cleveland Crusaders, 3-2.

And so it was that Jerry Odrowski, normally a defenseman, started at center and with the game just 25 seconds old he converted a pass from Gary Veneruzzo to score his fifth goal of the season and put the Sharks ahead to stay. Veneruzzo followed with his 29th goal five minutes later and Mike Byers added what proved to be the decisive goal early in the third period.

In the only other World Hockey Association games Sunday, the New England Whalers snapped Winnipeg's six-game winning streak by beating the Jets 7-2, and the Houston Aeros moved into second place in the Western Division with a 5-1 victory over the Ottawa Nationals.

NBA ROUNDUP

Hayes Makes Points In Clubhouse, Court

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Elvin Hayes made his big point during the game, then added another telling one when it was over.

With just 4:34 left in Sunday afternoon's game against Philadelphia, Hayes hit on a 15-foot jump shot from the left side of the key for his final two points of the contest. They also were points No. 10,000 and 10,001 for his National Basketball Association career, making Hayes only the third player in league history to reach that lofty plateau within a five-year period.

But in time-honored tradition, Hayes downplayed his own performance in relation to that of his team, the Baltimore Bullets.

"It wouldn't have meant anything to me if I was playing on a losing club," he said following Baltimore's 108-97 victory over the 76ers. "But playing on this team has been the best thing that's ever happened to me and coming the way it did, playing on a winner, is why it meant so much.

"We've won seven straight games and we're in first place and that's why it meant a lot."

By winning, the Bullets increased their first-place lead in the Central Division to five games over runnerup Atlanta, which was idle.

In other games Sunday, the Milwaukee Bucks beat the Golden State Warriors 124-108, the Boston Celtics beat the Buffalo Braves 104-97, the Houston Rockets edged the New York Knicks 107-103 and the Los Angeles Lakers beat the Kansas City-Omaha Kings 123-102.

Boston stretched its hex over Buffalo to 15 consecutive games while lengthening its Atlantic Division lead over the Knicks to 2 1-2 games. John Havlicek scored 26 points for the Celtics while game honors went to Elmore Smith, who had 32 points for the Braves.

Mike Newlin hit a six-foot jump shot with six seconds to play to snap a 103-103 deadlock against New York and Don Smith added an insurance basket at the buzzer as Houston made a winner of John Egan in his coaching debut.

Wilt Chamberlain scored a season high of 29 points and pulled down 21 rebounds to lead the Lakers to their sixth victory in the last seven games.

AFC touchdown.

Simpson wound up gaining 112 yards, by far the best rushing performance in the three years of the AFC-NFC Pro Bowl, caught three passes for 58 yards and was the unanimous selection as player of the game, thus winning the $2,500 trophy created by Delmas and Delmas Jewelers of San Rafael.

"This was just unreal," Simpson said. "It was a tremendous honor just to be selected to play. This was what I call a fun game, and I haven't had too many of those in pro football."

After Brockington's two first period scores the NFC could not get on the board until it was too late. But even then the NFC made the score look a little better by pushing across two touchdowns in the final minutes, on a one-yard plunge by Brockington and a 12-yard pass from Snead to San Francisco's Ted Kwalick.

CRONIN'S GUIDELINES

Designated Hitter Rule Clarified

BOSTON (UPI) — American League President Joe Cronin has shed light on the confusing designated hitter rule—the most important change in baseball playing guidelines since teams were limited to nine men on the field nearly 100 years ago.

The rule, approved recently in Chicago by American League owners on an 8-4 vote and ratified unanimously by the Rules Committee governing professional baseball, allows each club to designate a batter to step to the plate in place of the pitcher throughout the game. The hitting specialist would not have to take the field.

Cronin, whose league will try the new rule for the next three seasons, Friday detailed the change.

He said the designated hitter:

—May be inserted in the lineup prior to the game and only for a pitcher. The designated hitter remains in the game regardless of pitching changes.

—Must always bat in the position assigned him on the lineup card presented to the umpire-in-chief prior to the game.

—May play in the field once the game is underway, continuing to bat in the same spot in the lineup. But the pitcher, in this situation, must bat in place of the substituted defensive player and no more designated players may be used.

—May be lifted in favor of a pinch hitter, who then becomes the designated hitter until the game ends or he is lifted for another pinch hitter.

—Need not be used every game.

—May not re-enter the game once removed and may not be replaced by another designated hitter if taken out while on base.

Cronin, who said he favored the rule, admitted he will have difficulties administrating it at first. "But everything will be straightened out before the season starts."

The league president said he planned to meet next week in New York with American League umpires to discuss the rule change.

Cronin said he expected managers, players and fans "are staying up nights going all around the mulberry bush" thinking of ways to maximize use of the rule.

The hypothetical question goes this way:

After pitching to the first batter, the second baseman-pitcher returns to his infield spot and the pitcher comes onto the mound.

The complex maneuver would allow the designated hitter, under the rules, to bat for the starting pitcher, who would be the second baseman. What now Joe?

"Well, we probably will have to have each club submit a list of pitchers, catchers, infielders and outfielders before the season starts and limit the number of players at each position to avoid such moves."

And in the World Series, the traditional rules will take precedence over the revised guidelines.

Bronko's Day

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bronko Nagurski, the famous fullback, threw two touchdown passes when the Chicago Bears defeated the New York Giants, 23-21, in the first National Football League playoff game.

The Seals spoiled Eddie Johnston's bid for a shutout in the final period when Stan Gilbertson tucked away a tip-in of a Walt McKechnie's slap shot at 13:23 and Hillard Graves scored at 14:09.

The Seals take on the New York Islanders Tuesday night and Atlanta Wednesday. They return to the Bay Area for a game with the St. Louis Blues Friday.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Dependency Exemption Doesn't Require 50 Per Cent Support

You can claim the dependency exemption for someone where you have contributed as little as 10 per cent of the cost of support, if you can qualify as follows:

Over half the support of the dependent will be treated as received from you if (1) no one person contributed over half of the support; (2) over half of the support was received from persons who, but for the fact they did not contribute over half of such support, would have been entitled to claim the dependent for last year; (3) you contributed over 10 per cent of such support; and (4) each person besides yourself who contributed over 10 per cent of the support files a written declaration that they will not claim the dependent for last year.

You file such declarations by having each party who contributed to the support, except the one who is going to claim the credit, sign Form 2120, Multiple Support Agreement, and the one who is claiming the exemption then attaches these Forms 2120 to his tax return when he files it.

Form 2120 is available at your Internal Revenue Service office.

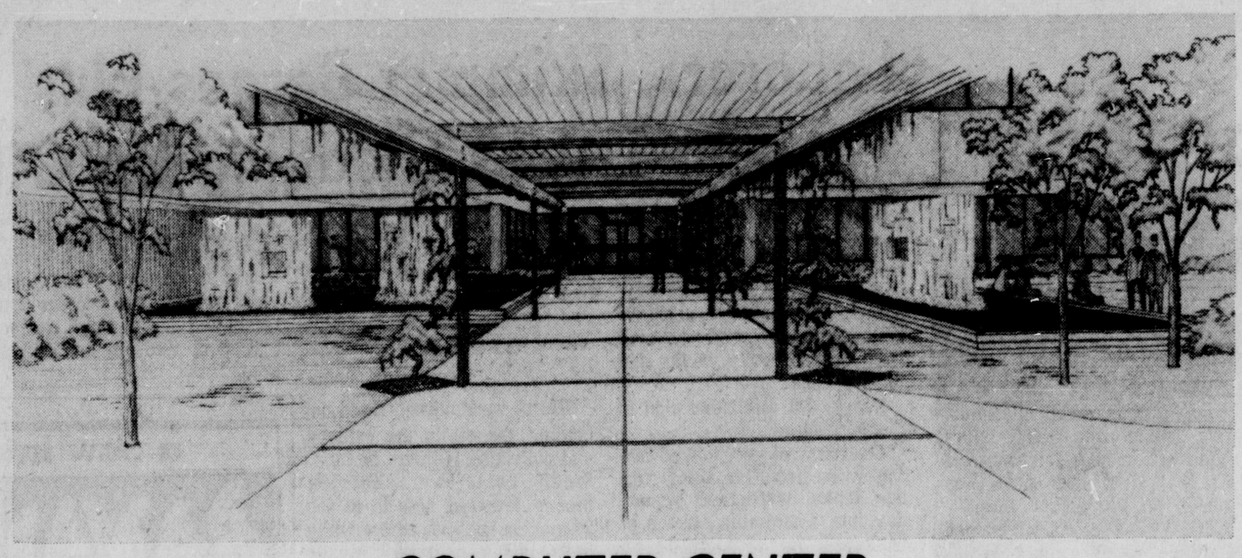
What constitutes support? Food, lodging, utilities, clothing, education, medical and dental expenses count towards support.

Items that do not count as support are: purchase of an automobile, life insurance premiums, taxes, funeral expenses, etc.

If there is any doubt in your mind as to whether you furnished over 50 per cent or not, you should make a list of all monies available for the dependent's support and another list of all the expenses of supporting the dependent.

These lists should tell you if you furnished over one-half.

It is a good idea to keep these lists with your copy of the tax return as you may need them to substantiate your deduction.



COMPUTER CENTER

Earthen colors and extensive landscaping will be used in Fireman's Fund American's new computer center at the corner of Lucas Valley Road and Highway 101, San Rafael. This is the main entrance as designed by architects Page, Clowdsley and Baleix. Building materials include precast texturized concrete in an earthen hue. Brown, non-reflective windows will be set in bronze frames. The $10 million center will open in July of 1974 with a work force of 875 and eventually employ almost 1,000. Between 250 and 300 new jobs will be filled by Marin residents.

Sonoma Urbanization Eyed

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Sonoma County, most agricultural of the nine Bay Area counties, will reap the benefits and problems of continuing urbanization during the remainder of the 1970's — and come out well ahead.

This is the conclusion drawn in an economic survey released by the Bank of America — the first Comprehensive study ever made of the county's economy.

Entitled "Focus on Sonoma County," the report says the county between 1970 and 1980 will enjoy a 32 per cent increase in population, a 30 per cent increase in employment, an 85 per cent increase in personal income, and a 40 per cent increase in per capita income.

The population of the county is expected to increase from 205,000 in 1970 to 270,000 by the end of the decade. Leading the trend toward further urbanization will be Santa Rosa, whose present population of 57,000 is projected by the bank to increase to 75,000 by 1980.

Total employment in the county is expected to increase from 66,500 to 86,400 during the decade.

While employment and personal income will increase, the county will continue to experience acute unemployment, and will have below-average per capita income when compared with California as a whole.

The county population has a median age of 29.7 years, slightly higher than the Bay Area median of 28.4, the survey notes. Nearly 13 per cent of the population is 65 years of age and over, compared to the California average of 9 per cent.

"Although the county has a large population of retired people, centers of younger people are emerging in the cities of Petaluma, Rohnert Park and Cotati," the survey states, continuing:

"Petaluma has attracted more than 15,000 new residents in the past 12 years. Many are young commuters who work in Marin County or San Francisco. Rohnert Park, where California State College, Sonoma, is located, has a population with a median age of only 20.4."

Island's Economy Makes Comeback

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI) — After absorbing the impact of the 1970-71 U.S. recession, Puerto Rico's economy bounced back to record-breaking new levels with the island's gross product jumping 12.8 per cent in fiscal 1972 to a record high of $5.8 million.

Net income on the island rose from $4.2 billion to a record $4.8 billion, a boost of 12.3 per cent.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Kroger Not Strongest Holding In A Portfolio

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Can you advise me whether to hold or sell the following: Kroger Co. (NYSE), Pay Less Drug Stores (NYSE), Alza Corp. and warrants (OTC) and W. E. Heller (NYSE)? I am interested in growth stocks. — L.D.

A. With the exception of Kroger Co. your portfolio is in good shape. Intense competition, particularly in the East and Midwest, pushed Kroger's operating results into the red in the fiscal 1972 third quarter. Although earnings will probably afford only narrow dividend coverage, cash flow should be sufficient to warrant continuation of the present dividend rate for the next few quarters. Because competitive conditions remain unchanged, it is difficult to foresee any significant upward revision in Kroger's price-earnings multiple. Shares should be sold.

Heller, an international financial intermediary, has achieved an outstanding growth record. Since 1965, earnings and loan volume have increased 125 per cent, in spite of wide variations in money conditions over the six-year period. Shares, trading at a reasonable 15 times projected 1973 earnings, are recommended as a replacement for your Kroger holdings.

The Alza common and warrants, although high in risk, may be held for their long-term speculative potential. The company has not as yet marketed a product, although research on drug delivery systems for eye disease, birth control and intravenous use is in various stages of development. The product nearest to introduction is the Ocusert, designed to be placed under the eyelid to release glaucoma medication for four days. It is hoped that this product will be ready for marketing late this year.

Pay Less Drug Stores (California) and Pay Less Drug Stores Northwest have recently announced merger plans. The exchange will be share-for-share and the latter company, which is listed on the Big Board, the surviving entity. Thus, the fact that you do not specify which shares you hold is unimportant. The combined companies will operate a chain of 93 retail drug outlets, with sales volume exceeding $250 million. Growth should be strengthened by the merger.

Stocks Post Moderate Gains In Early Hours

Gains were attributed partly to administration reassurances that Phase III guidelines will be enforced, together with a report the Cost of Living Council is likely to disapprove a 30-cent-an-hour wage increase won last week by West Coast Longshoremen.

Prices were slightly higher in moderately active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

OIL SPILL — Cleanup crews skim remnants of a 200,000 gallon vandal-caused oil spill in the Oakland Estuary. The mass of goo, released from five storage tanks late Thursday, was herded yesterday into a stretch of backwater in the estuary. (UPI Telephoto)

Laborers, Skimmer Barges Plus Vacuum Trucks Cleaning Up Oil

OAKLAND, (UPI) — An armada of yellow rowboats spread through marinas on the east side of San Francisco Bay, scooping remnants of a 200,000 gallon vandal-caused oil spill from around white yachts and the shoreline.

Nearly 300 waterfowl died in the salty slime.

The mass of goo, leaked into the water from five aging storage tanks, washerded yesterday into a two-mile stretch of backwater in the Alameda estuary.

Unlocked spigots on the tanks were opened, apparently by vandals, Thursday night. The refined oil seeped undetected down storm drains and emptied into the harbor, the Coast Guard said.

Clean Bay Inc., an industry sponsored oil spill cooperative, was contracted by the Coast Guard during the weekend and massive efforts, estimated to cost $500,000 over a week-long operation, were brought into play.

More than 160 laborers, six skimmer barges, 13 vacuum trucks and an estimated 30, 14-foot rowboats were blocking and removing the oil, said Jim Mann, spokesman for the Clean Bay group.

Efforts were concentrated on holding the oil in the estuary and collecting it there, he said. Small boats were moving among tethered vessels in the 25 marina harbors, where white hulls glistened darkly in the oily water.

Fish and Game Department officials said 432 birds, their feathers gummed with the oil, were captured and subjected to cleaning operations. Of these, at least 280 died from the effects of the pretroleum. Another 45 were cleaned and released by Sunday and the remainder were expected to get their freedom in "the next couple of days."

"The peak period for waterfowl appears to be past," a spokesman said. "An aerial survey reveals few areas where birds are likely to become contaminated and no large concentration of birds in the critical areas."

Two Injured In Auto Crash

One person was hospitalized and another injured at 2:20 a.m. yesterday when their car blew a tire and hit the Novato Creek bridge on Highway 37, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Michael James Drady, 27, also of Boyes Hot Springs, was treated for facial and head cuts.

Drady was driving eastbound on Highway 37 when the accident occurred, patrolmen reported.

Snow Closes Roads In Nation's Midsection; Oklahoma Hard Hit

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Snow piled up through northern sections of the Midwest today, highways were clogged with the white stuff in portions of Oklahoma, schools closed in rural sections of Nebraska, and travelers' warnings were issued for many sections of the northern states.

From 150 to 200 motorists sought shelter in motels and schools around Woodward, Okla., because up to 15 inches of snow snarled highways in the northwestern part of the state. The state highway patrol reported a foot of snow on level ground and waist-deep drifts. Skies were clearing today.

There was scattered flooding along rivers in Illinois, some clogged by ice and others brimming their banks in the wake of heavy rainfall on frozen or saturated ground.

The National Weather Service reported snowfall ranging from 8 inches in a band through central Kansas to central Wisconsin, and posted heavy snow warnings from southeastern Minnesota to upper Michigan.

Travelers' advisories were issued in Upper Michigan, and from eastern South Dakota and north central Kansas to northern Missouri and southeastern Minnesota because of snow or blowing snow. A belt of rainfall washed the area from northern Arkansas through the Ohio Valley to the south and central Atlantic coastal states.

More advisories were issued for motorists in the western Pennsylvania mountains, parts of Massachusetts and Vermont because of fears of a combination of snow, sleet and freezing rain.

Two waves of snowfall hit Iowa, the first leaving nine inches of snow in Des Moines, the second going through Sunday night and early today. Many Iowa highways were glazed, although interstate routes were open to traffic.

In neighboring Nebraska, slight snow and blowing snow forced school closings in the eastern part of the state. Four persons died when a light plane crashed in freezing drizzle at Omaha, although it was too early to determine whether weather was a factor in the crash.

Flash flood watches remained in effect for Illinois, portions of Indiana and Kentucky, where heavy rains were expected to flood low lying areas.

Rain covered most of the eastern third of the nation today, spreading from northern Florida across the central Appalachians to the Ohio Valley.

Twenty-five families were evacuated from the Hancock County community of Poontoosic, Ill., Sunday night when ice jams on the Mississippi River forced water inland, covering about half the town's streets. No injuries were reported. Civil Defense units from surrounding areas were on alert as more rain or snow was forecast for today.

Cloudy skies shrouded most of the nation today with only the lower Mississippi Valley, portions of the southern Plains, New England and the western third of the country experiencing fair skies.

Light snow whitened the central Rockies.

Peace Agreement Signing Possible Before Thursday

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Vietnam peace talks officials converged on Paris today for crucial and possibly final talks on settling the 12-year-old war. Saigon reports said the agreement could be initialed by Wednesday or Thursday and formally signed a few days later.

President Nixon gave Henry A. Kissinger final instructions today and dispatched him to Paris to complete the Vietnam cease-fire agreement. Washington dispatches said Nixon and Kissinger met in the old State Department Building at 8 a.m. EST.

White House sources said Kissinger would be prepared to initial a Vietnam agreement by Thursday if no unexpected snags arise in his talks Tuesday with Le Duc Tho, a member of the Hanoi Politburo, and Xuan Thuy, the chief North Vietnamese negotiator in Paris.

Today's arrivals in Paris included two foreign ministers — Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh of the Viet Cong, and Tran Van Lam of South Vietnam —and both issued optimistic statements. The final agreement is to be signed at foreign minister level.

American officials in Saigon said Vice President Spiro agnew is tentatively scheduled to fly to Saigon Sunday Jan. 28. They said present plans call for President Nguyen Van Thieu to sign the treaty after Agnew's arrival, but added those plans were subject to change, depending on the outcome of final talks in Paris.

BACK TO PARIS — An aide held an umbrella over Henry Kissinger to shield him from a driving rain as he waved to newsmen before boarding a presidential jet in Washington this morning to fly back to Paris for the 24th and perhaps final round of private Vietnam peace talks.

Tho stayed behind in Paris when the 23rd round of talks with Kisssinger ended Jan.13. The two will meet for their climactic sessions starting Tuesday.

Technical experts from Washington and Hanoi met again today in a stepped-up effort to clear their work of drafting protocols guiding the agreement. In an unprecedented move the experts held a four-hour-long session Sunday. They have been meeting continually since Jan.2.

Both sides have maintained secrecy on the exact details of the agreement but a number of sources have said it calls for a cease-fire in place, the with-

Tribunal Rules On Abortions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled today that a woman's doctor shall be the sole judge of whether to perform an abortion during the first three months of pregnancy.

The decision could force almost every state to liberalize its laws on abortions.

The Court in striking down Texas and Georgia laws as unconstitutional did not completely prohibit state abortion statutes. Instead, the majority opinion by Justice Harry A. Blackmun set up a three-stage guideline which would:

—Make the doctor the sole decision maker during the first trimester (roughly three months) of pregnancy.

—Permit a state after that to establish regulatory procedures "that are reasonably related to maternal health."

—After the "viability" stage of an unborn baby's existence (between six and seven months), allow a state actually to prohibit abortion "except where it is necessary in appropriate medical judgment for the preservation of the life or health of the mother."

Blackmun noted that most medical authorities define viability as when a fetus begins to move, kick or show other major signs of activity, usually occurring in the 28th week of pregnancy but possibly as early as the 24th.

The Texas statute was more restrictive than that of Georgia. It made it a crime for a doctor to perform an abortion unless the woman's life was at stake.

Twenty-nine other states have such laws on their books.

Georgia specified that abortions could be obtained for three limited reasons: danger to the life or serious impairment of the health of the woman, the possibility of mental or major physical defect in the infant and for pregnancies as the result of rape.

The state also set forth a series of procedures needed tc conduct an abortion.

Fifteen other states have similar restrictions in varying degree. Whether they are constitutional depends on their exact wording. There was no immediate indication here of the full scope of the ruling.

Justices Byron R. White and William H. Rehnquist dissented from the majority opinion.

The Court took these other major actions before taking a two-week recess:

—Agreed to examine a 1972 New York state law aimed at assisting financially pressed parochial schools by the use of special tax credits, tuition grants and maintenance payments. A similar case from Pennsylvania also was accepted for arguments and a ruling either this spring or next fall.

—Refused, however, to stay a lower court decision which barred parents of children in Ohio nonpublic schools from receiving income tax credits.

180 Persons Die In Nigeria Crash

Toll Said Highest In History

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI) — A Jordanian airliner carrying Nigerian Moslem pilgrims home from a pilgrimage to Mecca crashed in northern Nigeria today, killing 180 of those aboard, airport officials said, in the worst air crash in history.

The officials said 22 persons, including the pilot and five other crew members, survived the crash at Kano, 520 miles northwest of Lagos when they fled through an emergency escape hatch near the tail of the plane.

Officials said the control tower warned the pilot of the Alia Airlines Boeing 707, which had been charted by Nigerian Airways, of fog and poor visibility just before he landed.

The plane touched down on gravel 40 feet off the runway, airport officials said. It veered left into a ditch which snapped off the left wheel, then skidded along the edge of the runway and burst into flames.

Many of the dead passengers were thrown from the plane and their bodies scattered along the runway.

Some of those who survived got out through an emergency hatch in the tail, the only part of the aircraft not consumed by flames. An airport official said, "the plane was completely gutted by fire except for the tail section. It literally melted."

The worst previous air disaster was the crash at Moscow's Sheremetyeve Airport on Oct. 13, 1972, of an Aeroflot Russina-built Ilyushin-62 jet, in which 176 persons died. A Japan Airlines plane crashed at a Moscow airport on Nov. 28, 1972, killing 162 persons.

The survivors were taken to hospital in Kano, while the bodies of the dead were laid in grim rows of blanketed bundles on the airport tarmac. Officials said many of the bodies had been burned to skeletons.

They were to be given a mass burial later tonight or Tuesday, officials said.

The flight, from Jeddah in Saudi Arabia, carried 196 Nigerian Moslem pilgrims back from a visit to their holy city of Mecca. Other pilgrim flights had to be diverted to Lagos after the airport at Kano was closed.

Federal Commissioner of Transport Russell Dikko left Lagos for Kano to conduct an investigation into the crash.

Post Offers Solution To Tax Surplus

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post today suggested canceling the sale of $860 million worth of construction bonds as one "equitable way of rebating the state's tax surplus to Californians.

Paying cash for such projects as school construction, clean water works and other programs would save the taxpayers $446.7 million in interest payments, he said.

Post, the legislature's nonpartisan veteran fiscal adviser, offered the proposal at the first hearing of the Senate Finance Committee on Gov. Ronald Reagan's nearly $9.3 billion proposed state budget. Also on hand was state Finance Director Verne Orr.

The governor's spending blueprint for the fiscal year starting next July 1 projects $1.1 billion budget surplus, of which $852 million was collected during the current year.

He discussed canceling the bond sales and using cash instead as an alternative to granting an across-the-board one-time income tax rebate or to delaying levying of the statewide sales tax increase next June.

"The return of the surplus to the taxpayer would be in birect proportion to the burden of taxes which he would have had to pay for the bonds," Post said, "and, therefore, identical in equity to the equity of the tax system."

"It would save interest costs of about $446 million and gain interest earnings on the investment," he said.

He listed the unsold bonds which the state now is authorized to sell as these: community college construction, $160 million; school building aid, $350 million; recreation, fish and wildlife, $35 million; clean water, $150 million, and University of California health science

County Lowers Flood Estimate

A Marin County disaster official today reduced estimates of damage to public facilities from last week's rainstorms, mudslides and flooding — but damage to private property still was being tallied.

Frank E. Kirby, county emergency services coordinator, said the latest estimate of damage to public roads and facilities was $467,000.

Bolinas Public Utility District officials earlier predicted that their community's water system alone would cost $450,000 to repair, but Kirby reported the latest estimate was $116,000 to put the system back in full operation. He said the damage total included $38,000 for emergency repairs to the Bolinas system in the past week.

Meanwhile, Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer, warned that Bolinas residents should continue to boil their water five minutes before using it for cooking or drinking. Dr. Albrecht said the Independent-Journal erred Saturday in reporting that the contaminated water warning had been lifted for the West Marin community. She said that the warning had been lifted only for Stinson Beach.

Kirby said that $300,600 of the storm damage total reflected cost of road repairs and debris removal in Belvedere, Corte Madera, San Anselmo, Tiburon, Sausalito, Mill Valley and unincorporated areas.

Reports must be received from the federal Small Business Administration and the Marin Chapter of the American Red Cross before county officials know the total damage to private property in Marin.

Red Cross spokesmen added that the emergency evacuation center in Novato has been closed, and all continuing relief cases are being handled from the San Rafael office.

The evacuation center served 125 residents during the height of the flooding, then provided canteen services to 75 persons during weekend clean-up operations. A total of 30 families from Novato and Southern Marin met with Red Cross workers about the need for clothing, food and shelter. Fifteen families received help and minor repairs to their homes, Red Cross said today.

Youth In Auto Death Is In Trouble Again

A 20-year-old San Anselmo youth, who was released from jail last month after serving time for the auto death of a Sleepy Hollow girl, has been arrested for being drunk in a car.

Robert Brian England of 13 Angela Avenue was arrested at 12:10 a.m. Saturday by the California Highway Patrol only 12 days after a Marin Superior Court judge lifted an order barring him from the county for five years.

England had been given a year in jail, as well as being ordered from Marin, after pleading guilty in June to the negligent homicide in the death of 13-year-old Alene Toneff, daughter of former San Francisco 49er Robert A. Toneff of Sleepy Hollow.

Former Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner, who sentenced England, later said he barred him from the county "to prevent unfortunate contacts and relationships with his very bitter neighbors and, also, to prevent him from renewing the very bad crony relationships which he had with some other young men in his community."

Judge David Menary Jr. narrowed the restricted area to Sleepy Hollow Jan. 8 after England's attorney, William O. Weissich, argued the broader ban was illegal.

England's car killed Miss Toneff on the shoulder of Butterfield Road as she walked home from a movie March 11. He was under court order not to drive at the time.

The incident stirred up Sleepy Hollow residents. About 400 signed a protest petition when his bail was set at $1,000 in that case.

England served 81 days in jail awaiting sentence and was given credit for good behavior in jail, thus enabling his release last month, according to his probation officer, Dennis Elsasser.

The highway patrol said England was arrested Saturday while a passenger in a car stopped on Highway 101 in Sausalito because he became abusive and appeared unable to control himself.

England, booked at Marin County Jail, was released without bail on the authority of the county probation office, promising to appear in Marin Municipal Court Wednesday.

Peronist Slain Outside Home In Buenos Aires

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Julian Moreno, a Peronist labor leader and candidate for political office in the March elections, was assassinated today outside his home.

A police spokesman said the assassins fled after shooting Moreno and his chauffeur as they entered Moreno's car.

Moreno was the secretary of the suburban Lanus local of the Metal Workers Union, one of Argentina's biggest labor organizations. He also was a candidate for Congress under the banner of the Justicialista Liberation Front, the political coalition formed last November by former President Juan D. Peron to support candidates in the country's elections March 11.

Marinwood Bond Vote Tomorrow

Marinwood residents in a special election tomorrow will vote on a $600,000 bond issue aimed at preserving 350 acres of undeveloped land as open space.

Polls at the community center, Miller Creek School and Mary Silveira School open at 7 a.m. and will close at 8 p.m.

A two-thirds majority of the votes cast is needed to pass the bond issue. A total of 2,334 registered voters is eligible to cast ballots.

There has been no organized opposition to the measure and directors of the Marinwood Community Services District have predicted it will pass with a 75 per cent favorable vote.

The measure would cost taxpayers 36 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, hiking the current district tax levy of $1.23 per $100 of assessed valuation to $1.59.

The cost to the owner of a home assessed at $40,000 — including exemption allowances provided by the state's new tax shift law — would be $30 annually over a 25-year priod, according to Ellis D. Jaquette, a member of the services district board.

Most of the land to be purchased is in a 328-acre package filling the community's undeveloped northwestern corner, though two other parcels are located near the community center and one is at the end of Limestone Grade adjoining Highway 101.

France Is Asked To Halt Testing

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (UPI) — The prime ministers of Australia and New Zealand issued a joint communique today asking France to abandon all further nuclear testing in the Pacific.

Following two days of talks, Australian Prime Minster Gough Whitlam and host Prime Minister Norman Kirk agreed to work together and to use all appropriate means to end the French tests.

The communique appealed to France to take account of the spcial concern the tests caused to countries in the South Pacific.

Mill Valley Man Is Slain In Oakland

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — A Mill Valley man was slain here early today, and police arrested a 23-year-old Oakland resident on suspicion of murder.

The body of Jeffrey Simon, 26, address unknown was found by officers at about 2 a.m. in front of a residence after neighbors reported hearing several shots, according to police.

Police said Robert Prudhomme, a law student who lives nearby, was arrested and booked on suspicion of murder.

Simon had visited Prudhomme earlier in the day, according to police. Motive of the killing is under investiagaion, police said.

Heavy Water Runoff Causes Taste Problem

Heavy water runoff into lakes of the Marin Municipal Water District has resulted in taste and odor problems for consumers districtwide, a spokesman for the agency reported today.

District water supplies have been laced with a medicinal odor and taste in the wake of recent rains due to chemical reaction with debris washed into the lakes, according to B. G. Grant, district publicist.

The metallic flavor and aroma does not present a health hazard, he said, adding district water will be back to normal within several days.

"The water is safe to drink... it just doesn't taste good," he said.

Though most complaints about the bad water have come from Southern Marin, the problem also exists in Fairfax, San Anselmo and parts of San Rafael, he said.

Plea For Unity

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI urged Roman Catholics and other Christians to go on seeking unity among themselves yesterday, but not at the cost of giving up any part of their faith.

This would result only in "pseudo unity," the Pope said before giving his traditional blessing to pilgrims and tourists in St. Peter's Square.

His speech marked Christian Unity Week, which is celebrated by most major Christian groups.

The Pope said the greatest error that Christians could commit in this respect "is that of being content with a pseudo unity... which considers only practical and temporal aspects but leaves out matters of faith."

Visit Studied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — State Department officials report there are tentative plans for Australia's new prime minister, Gough Whitlam, to visit the United States, a move that would help repair relations between the two countries.

Whitlam, whose Labor government came to power in Australia in December pointedly criticized the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, pointing up serious friction between his government and that of President Nixon.

State Department officials, however, say Whitlam may meet with Nixon when he attends an August meeting of parties to the U.S. Australian-New Zealand defense treaty or the opening of the General Assembly of the United Nations.

'Time Is Right'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — King Hussein of Jordan believes another Middle East war would be "disastrous" and that the time is right to seek a peace settlement.

"I believe the world is in a mood for peace and fruitful cooperation," Hussein said yesterday. "I believe the time will come when all interested parties will look more closely at this Middle East situation.

"If another war comes, it would be disastrous."

Hussein made his comments during an hour long television interview, "Speaking Freely," which was broadcast by NBC.

Doctor Denied

LONDON (UPI) — An American heart specialist has flown to London to treat Howard Hughes for a suspected heart attack, the London Daily Mirror said today. An aide for the billionaire recluse denied the report.

The newspaper said Hughes, 67, has been confined to bed in his penthouse suits in the Inn on the Park since the unidentified specialist examined him last week.

Jan Eckersley, one of the aides with the Hughes party at the hotel, said: "No specialist has visited Mr. Hughes and he is not in bed."

The Daily Mirror said Hughes is still confined to bed and an electric wheelchair has been delivered to his 9th floor suite for him when he is able to use it.

Hughes has been in seclusion in his suite since he arrived three weeks ago from earthquake-devastated Managua.

Back To Rails

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thousands of Long Island Rail Road commuters, who scrambled to work by foot, bus, subway, car pool and helicopter during a 50-day strike, rode the rails for the line's first weekday service today at the start of an interim labor-management truce.

Despite rust-covered rails, some cracked engine blocks and several malfunctioning crossing gates — all caused by the long idleness — railroad officials expected most service to be on time.

The line resumed partial operations at 12:01 a.m. Saturday as a 90-day cooling-off period engineered by Labor Secretary-designate Peter Brennan went into effect.

Under the terms of the truce, the 5,000 non-operating employes who were on strike will receive an interim 6 per cent pay hike for 1972.

18-Year-Old Girl Latest Ulster Death

BELFAST (UPI) — An 18-year-old Protestant girl shot by a sniper three days ago died today, increasing the toll in Northern Ireland violence to 689, and a policeman killed another police officer in what authorities called an accident.

Police identified the victim of the sniper shooting in the town of Portodown as Ann Rowland.

Police did not identify the dead policeman but said he died in an accident in Armagh when another officer accidentally fired a gun he was carrying.

British troops searching a garage in a Protestant area of Belfast early today uncovered 450 pounds of ammonium nitrate and bomb making equipment, an army spokesman said.

The death of Miss Rowland was the latest in 3-½ years of bombing and shooting involving Protestant and Roman Catholic extremists, the Irish Republican army and British security forces.

A gunman firing on troops Sunday in a town near Londonderry wounded a child in the foot in one of several scattered incidents reported by authorities.

Gun Store Siege Is Ended

NEW YORK (UPI) — Four gunmen who held nine hostages for nearly two days in a sporting goods store stocked with ammunition surrendered quietly Sunday when police talked them out of dying in "a hail of bullets." The hostages had escaped in a daring break up a secret stairway.

The gunmen who identified themselves with black Muslims and said they wanted to unite the world against "oppressive infidels" were booked today on murder and robbery charges.

One policeman was killed and two wounded in the 47-hour ordeal which began Friday night, apparently as an attempt to rob John and Al's Sporting Goods Store of guns and ammunition, as well as money. One of the gunmen was wounded in the exchange of gunfire with police.

The weary hostages escaped unharmed through the actions of Jerry Riccio, a co-owner of the Brooklyn store who knew of a stairway from the second floor to the roof. Riccio's problem was that the opening to the stairs was covered with plasterboard.

After convincing the gunmen to let the hostages stay on the second floor, Riccio broke open the plasterboard when the gunmen rushed to another part of the floor believing police were trying to tunnel into the building.

"Come on, we've got you covered," police on the roof yelled as the hostages scrambled up the stairs to safety. Then as the hours dragged by, the gunmen were convinced to give up by talking over a specially installed telephone with Deputy Police Commissioner Benjamin Ward.

Dr. Thomas Matthew, a physician who had treated the wounded gunman during the long weekend, released a statement quoting the gunmen as saying earlier: "This is the end. This is glory. We'll go out in a hail of bullets."

"We used all our resources to reach their philosophy—die for paradise," said Ward, who is head of the civilian review board. He said he explained to them that if they had a story to tell "they had to come out alive."

Police had cordoned off the area since Friday night, at times using up to 500 men. They denied trying to tunnel into the building, saying their policy all along had been to "buy time."

Three of the alleged gunmen, Shulab Abdul Raheem, 23, Dawd Abdullah Ar-rahm, 22, and Salih Ali Abdullah, 25, were booked on murder and robbery charges early today. A fourth suspect, Yusuef Abdullah Almussiq, 22, wounded in the shootout with police, was booked at his hospital bed.

As each man was brought before him, the precinct desk officer tersely said: "The charge is murder and robbery one. He has been advised of his rights?" In quick succession, the three were placed in cells pending arraignment and possible grand jury action later today.

In a statement released to a physician who treated the wounded gunman the four assumed the stance of holy crusaders.

In a two-page handwritten letter released through the physician, the gunmen said: "We are expressing solidarity with all Muslims and oppressed peoples of the world. Oh Muslims! Unite against the oppressive infidels whose aim is the destruction of Islam. We are taking firm steps in the establishment and defense of the one true religion (Islam).

"The patrolman that was killed was killed as a result of his trigger happy comrades who sporadically fired shots at the hostages in the store wounding one of our number critically."

An owner sounded a burglar alarm as soon as he saw the gunmen in the store Friday afternoon—even before they had a chance to announce their demands. A police patrol car arrived within minutes, and the gunmen rounded up 12 hostages —customers and employes of the store.

Almost immediately, a gunbattle broke out. Each side claimed the other fired the first shot. Patrolman Steve Gilroy was shot to death.

As more and more police poured into the area—at one point there were more than 200 officers there—the gunmen and police swapped sporadic gunfire. Patrolman Joe Adorno was wounded in the arm and Patrolman Frank Carpenter was critically wounded in the leg.

During the weekend, the gunmen released three of the hostages—one of them in exchange for medical help for the wounded gunman. The others were lined up in a display window facing the street —Brooklyn's Broadway— on the ground floor of the three-story brick building.

Much of the tension dissipated Sunday when the nine remaining hostages—six men, two women and a 15-year-old girl—slipped up a hidden stairway and escaped through a hatch onto the rooftop.

Four hours later, one gunman walked out of the shop, placed his hands high on a wall in meek surrender. He was followed by two other gunmen carrying the fourth between them on a stretcher.

"One school of thought was to hit early," Murphy said. "There is a feeling of let's get it over with."

But the prevailing attitude among police officials, commanding the small army of police, was for "buying time. The majority was for waiting patiently" —a tactic that eventually paid off.

'Protest Masses' In Manila Are Broken Up By Army Troops

MANILA (UPI) — Army troops broke up two separate "protest masses" near Roman Catholic churches yesterday in downtown Manila and arrested at least 46 persons, some of them reportedly armed with homemade bombs. It was the first major reported roundup since President Ferdinand E. Marcos assumed full personal control of the country last week.

It also was the first reported public disapproval of Marcos' action.

Information Secretary Francisco S. Tatad said the soldiers moved in after receiving reports the gatherings were meant to trigger off violent incidents against Marcos' martial law regime.

Tatad said a search turned up one fragmentation grenade inside the Santa Cruz church in the heart of the capital where outside the Binondo Church one mile away, he said, troops arrested 17 persons and seized 15 "pillboxes" — homemade bombs made up of gunpowder and nails packed inside small bottles.

Altogether, he said, troops picked up 46 persons and also seized "subversive" pamphlets in their possession.

A spokesman for the Catholic Bishops Conference, the ruling church body in this Catholic country, said the demonstrations were not held inside churches and that they took place without the knowledge of the parish priests.

Four newsmen, two of them Australian, were detained, questioned and freed. The arrests came four months to the day after Marcos proclaimed a national state of martial law which included a ban on political rallies, demonstrations and similar gatherings.

One of the Australian newsmen, Peter Couchman, said between 60 and 70 persons were arrested at the Santa Cruz church. He said leaflets distributed inside the church were critical of the government and said they apparently were "Communist propaganda."

Troops also rounded up about 16 persons attending a "liberation Mass" at the Binondo church about one mile away.

"It was a regular mass, a Requiem Mass. Communion was offered," Couchman said. "But actually, it was a silent protest rally. The Philippine national anthem was sung at the beginning of the Mass and toward the end of the Mass, another national song was sung."

Couchman said it was at this point when the troopers appeared and arrested at least 16 of the 500 people inside.

Two Filipino newsmen covering the event for American and French news agencies, also were questioned and released.

Guidelines for the mass media issued by the martial law government cover both Filipino and foreign newsmen and ban, among other things, photographs or films of "military operations."

Guerrilla Leader In Africa Slain

President Sekou Toure of Guinea announced the news Sunday over Conakry Radio and said the two assassins were captured. He did not name them, but said they were agents of "imperialism and colonialism."

Cabral, 51, was the founder, president and commander-in-chief of the African Party for the Independence of Guinea and Cape Verde (PAIGC). He was one of the chief men in the black fight against Portuguese rule in Africa and addressed the United Nations last autumn as spokesmen for all nationalist movements on the continent.

He also was received in audience in 1970 by Pope Paul VI in an unusual meeting that led to strained relations between the Holy See and Lisbon.

Conakry radio, monitored in this Portuguese-ruled territory, said Cabral was assassinated "in a horrible and cowardly" manner and Toure blamed imperialist and Portuguese colonial agents for the murder. Cabral lived in a house made available to him by Toure.

Portuguese government officials in Bissau said they did not know who killed Cabral, but said he was under fire from other nationalists in his movement.

The officials said the Fula tribesmen who live along the border dividing the Portuguese territory of Guinea and the independent state of Guinea were upset by their position in the movement. Cape Verde natives held most top positions in the movement Cabral led.

Cabral, himself from Cape Verde, was educated in Lisbon and worked for the Portuguese government in its Guinea and Angola territories before founding movements seeking their independence.

Although he led some military actions against Portuguese troops, officials in Bissau said Cabral did not agree with the "holy war" strategy adopted by the Fula tribesmen, who are mostly Moslem.

Portugal has ruled the Guinea territory, a land of 13,948 square miles and 487,500 persons, and the Cape Verde island group since the 15th century. Both are under the control of military governors.

Cabral's murder was the second of high-ranking black opponents of Portuguese rule in Africa.

Butz Sees Some Lower Food Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz foresees lower chicken prices by spring and reduced pork prices next fall but is not certain about a drop in beef prices.

Butz also said in a UPI Washington Window interview yesterday that Americans still are "getting a bargain on the whole" for food and this year will spend less than 16 per cent of their take-home pay for food.

He said government price controls on farm products would produce black markets and shortages rather than bumper crops.

Butz said he believed several steps taken recently to increase food supplies would result in some lower prices in coming months.

"I think we're going to see some changes next fall and winter in hog prices for example, and in the price of pork, he said. "We expect there to be a very substantial increase in the production of hogs in the latter part of 1973. Cattle prices we're not quite so sure about."

Butz said he expected a drop in chicken prices in eight to 12 weeks.

Jane Fonda Weds Antiwar Activist

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Antiwar leader Tom Hayden has married fellow activist Jane Fonda in a cermony that included poetry, Vietnamese music and a promise by bride and groom to "keep their sense of humor," it was announced Sunday.

Hayden, 32, said the wedding was performed by a minister from Berkeley, Calif. He did not say where it was held, but said a large number of friends attended. Miss Fonda, 35, recently divorced French film director Roger Vadim.

Hospital Construction Programs Will Be Cut By Administration

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration will end the regional medical and Hill-Burton hospital construction programs and spend more money on research in health areas to which President Nixon has given priority, according to a congressman.

The congressman, who did not wish to be identified, released a document today that he said gave a breakdown on the administration's health budget for next fiscal year, starting July 1.

The budget for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) Health Services and Mental Health Administration will drop from $1.919 million this year to $1.887 million next year, according to the document.

John D. Ehrlichman, President Nixon's top domestic adviser, today cited Hill-Burton as an example of what he categorized as a wasteful domestic program.

In an interview on the NBCTV Today Show, Ehrlichman said the program "has built lots of hospitals" but contended the nation now has 25 per cent more hospital beds than it needs.

Ehrlichman said hospitals are needed in some areas but said the Hill-Burton program does not permit selective spending of funds. He referred to it as a "sorcerer's apprentice" approach to building hospitals.

The Hill-Burton program will begin the first of a two-year phaseout. The 56 regional medical programs, established during the Johnson administration to provide grants and contracts focusing on heart disease, cancer, strokes, kidney and related diseases, also will be phased out.

The administration already had begun trimming the regional programs, which got $121 million in fiscal 1971 but only an estimated $99 million last fiscal year.

The document showed that programs for rat control will be cut in half this year, lead poisoning control will be eliminated, while injury control will be reduced.

The administration is increasing the budget of the National Institutes of Health (NIH) from $2.003 million this fiscal year to $2.090 million next year. About half of the budget goes for research.

"Presidential research priorities will be maintained, including heart and lung population, environmental health and venereal disease research," the document said.

The National Cancer Institute, also a Nixon priority, will be increased from $354 million this year to $445 million next year.

The administration will set up a health services formula grant program, funded at $509 million, to replace several smaller programs that HEW had operated itself. These included comprehensive health services, $199 million; maternal and child health, $226 million; and family planning services, $82 million.

The administration is trimming the budget for preventative health services from $114 million this year to $111 million next year.

"Project grants for immunizations are reduced in 1973 and 1974 while V.D. support is increased," the document said.

"Nutrition and chronic disease programs are reduced in 1973 and eliminated in 1974. Malaria research is eliminated in 1974, and direct operations are reduced in both 1973 and 1974 to eliminate duplicative efforts, such as family planning evaluations."

Peace Won't Bring Flood Of Money

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Even if the Vietnam War ends soon, it will not free significant sums of money for domestic government programs, President Nixon's top domestic affairs adviser said today.

"We are already spending the peace dividend," John D. Ehrlichman, assistant to the President, said.

Ehrlichman said the Pentagon budget as a percentage of the overall federal budget had been declining throughout Nixon's first term. He said it would come to about 35 per cent — compared to 45 per cent a few years ago —in the new budget to be submitted to Congress next week.

Asked if the end of the Vietnam conflict would free additional money for spending at home, Ehrlichman said: "That process has been going on for the entire four-year period."

Asked about Nixon's efforts to hear others' viewpoints, Ehrlichman insisted that the President invites adverse comments from his advisers during behind-the-scenes discussions leading to major decisions.

He said one of Nixon's favorite phrases in staff meetings is: "Do you disagree with me?"

"He invites disagreement, then he'll draw you out," Ehrlichman said.

Soviets Offer Revised Security Talk Agenda

HELSINKI (UPI) — The Soviet Union today introduced a revised four-point agenda for a European security conference.

Western sources described the Soviet proposal as "moderate" but reserved detailed comment pending further study of the proposals.

The revised Soviet agenda included these proposals:

—Ensuring European security and principles governing relations between the states.

—Expansion of East-West trade and economic relations and cooperation in protection of environment.

—Expansion of cultural relations and contacts among organizations and people including confidence building measures.

—Establishment of a consultative committee to deal with European security.

In an apparent nod to the detailed Western proposal on "freer flow of ideas and information" the Soviets included for the first time "confidence building measures" in their proposal.

But Maltsev said "the agenda should not be stuffed with too many details."

Russia rejected the demand of European neutrals, presented last week, that military questions also be taken up at the Helsinki consultations.

Maltsev said these issues "should not be discussed here because they will be dealt with by the East-West troop reduction talks."

The so-called mutual and balanced force reduction talks (MBFR) are scheduled to start Jan. 31 and according to new Soviet proposal they should include all "interested" parties.

The Western proposal, presented a week ago at the first Helsinki session after a one-month holiday recess, suggested freer exchanges between East and West in trade, travel, tourism, marriage, radio broadcasts, films, newspapers and even some exchange of military information.

In its response, the sources said, the East was expected to limit itself to broad outlines, including establishing better contacts in East-West trade and cultural and human relations. This, they said, expands the East's earlier position.

Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev said Dec. 21 that Moscow, like the West, also favors an exchange of ideas, with broader information and contacts between nations, but on condition that such a cooperation "respects the sovereignity, laws and customs of each country."

Diplomatic sources said the principal author of the Eastern bloc response was Lev I. Mendelevich, the No. 2 man in the Soviet delegation. He returned to Moscow early last week to brief Warsaw Pact foreign ministers on the Western proposal and met the Pact's ambassadors Thursday night.

The western proposal was presented by Belgium, Italy and Denmark and was drawn up by the 10-member European Common Market and the 15-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

The states which follow the Texas law in barring any abortion except to save the life of a mother seem clearly unconstitutional under Blackmun's ruling.

Four states —New York, Alaska, Hawaii and Washington —earlier removed all criminal penalties for abortion. Efforts are under way, particularly in New York, to get them reinstated.

The 30 states which, like Texas, permit abortion only where necessary to preserve the life of the woman are:

Arizona, Connecticut, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Fifteen states where abortion is permitted on limited additional grounds in addition to Georgia are Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Delaware, Kansas, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina and Virginia.

Other Shot Theory In Magee Case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) The defense in the Ruchell Magee murder trial said today it is not ruling out the possibility that someone else fired the shot that killed Judge Harold J. Haley of Marin Superior Court.

Magee, the "other defendant" in the Angela Davis case, is accused of murdering Haley during a shootout outside the Marin County courthouse in 1970 in which the judge and three others were killed.

"We are not foreclosing the possibility that law enforcement personnel killed the judge," said associate defense counsel Rommel Bondoc during arguments on motions prior to the beginning of testimony. He said it is the defense's contention that guards fired first in the exchange of gunfire.

Magee, whose repeated outbursts in the courtroom have marked proceedings throughout the trial, sat quietly while the technical motions were argued. The jury was not present.

The incident took place when young Jonathan Jackson entered Haley's courtroom and gave guns to Magee and two other San Quentin Prison inmates present to testify. They allegedly took Haley, an assistant prosecutor and others hostage and tried to escape. Jackson and the other two inmates were killed along with Haley in a parking lot outside.

Miss Davis, a former UCLA philosophy instructor, was found innocent of any part in the incident after a lengthy trial last year. Her name came into the case when it was learned she purchased guns used in the gunbattle.

Claims Planned On Overcharges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., says the Navy is preparing $16 million worth of counter claims against Litton Industries Inc., for overcharges.

Aspin said Sunday officials of the Armed Services Contract Control and Appeals Board had told him that the Navy already has submitted $11 million in counter claims and will probably submit at least another $5 million.

"If the Navy's allegations are true, then Litton Industries has consciously cheated the government out of at least $16 million," Aspin said.

Teachers In St. Louis Stage Strike

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

St. Louis teachers, defying a court order for their first strike, succeeded today in closing many public schools. Strikes continued in Philadelphia, Chicago and Superior, Wis., affecting about 950,000 students.

In St. Louis, scattered violence was reported as students broke windows at some public schools. Teachers had set up picket lines at 1 a.m. in darkness at St. Louis high schools after a vote Sunday to go on strike for more pay.

After the St. Louis Teachers Association and the St. Louis Teachers Union, which represent three-fourths of the city's 4,000 teachers, voted to strike, three leaders of the strike were ordered to appear in court Thursday to show cause why they should not be held in civil and criminal contempt for violating a temporary restraining order against such strikes.

The strike began and supervisory personnel tempted to keep schools open for 103,000 St. Louis public school students. But by midmorning the school board reported 35 of 166 schools unable to continue, and all high schools were closed.

The Philadelphia strike by 13,000 teachers ground into its third week today, the day 24 officials of the Philadelphia Federation of Teachers were to go on trial for violating a court order directing teachers to return to work.

In Chicago, which could lose millions in school aid if the strike by 25,000 teachers continued until Tuesday—which would be its 11th day—Illinois Suerintendent of Public Instruction Michael Bakalis offered the services of his office to help settle the strike.

Most of Chicago's 650,000 public school students were out of classes and Chicago Teachers Union officials reported 95 per cent compliance with the longest teachers strike in Chicago history.

In St. Louis, 60 per cent of the association's members voted to strike and the union vote was nearly unanimous.

Four Barricaded In Building After Robbery

District of Columbia police said the four took an undetermined amount of money from a branch of the First National Bank of Washington at about 12:15 EST, and were pursued by a police cruiser when they left the bank.

The police chased the men to the eight-story, abandoned apartment building in the 2000 block of M Street — a few blocks from DuPont Circle.

Health Centers For Indians Eyed

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (UPI) — Dr. Carl Hoffman, president of the American Medical Association, says he hopes to develop a nationwide system of voluntary health care centers to aid health-poor Indians.

Hoffman will tour the Blackfeet reservation 100 miles north of here today to get a first-hand look at Indian health care problems. "It is tragic that the average life expectancy among the nation's nearly one million native Americans is a mere 44 years ... less than two-thirds what it is for the average American," Hoffman said. "The health of our Indian population lags 20 to 25 years behind that of the general population."

Voters Are Told Peron Will Rule

SAN ANDRES DE GILES, Argentina (UPI) — The official presidential candidate for the party led from exile by onetime president Juan D. Peron says if he wins he will allow Peron to make all decisions and policy.

Hector Campora, the Justicialista front candidate in the elections scheduled in March, told thousands of supporters in his opening speech Sunday that Peron is the party's leader despite the fact he is in exile in Madrid. "If I get into government," Campora said, "don't doubt that the power will come from Peron. He is my leader, the leader of all of us, and we owe him loyalty."

PEACE

drawal of U.S. troops and the return of prisoners of war within 60 days after its signing and recognition of the 17th Parallel as a temporary political border.

These sources said an international supervisory body would be formed to police the truce, the South Vietnamese and Communist forces would discuss the political future of Vietnam in meetings to be held later and an international conference would be called to discuss a permanent peace in the area.

The law and language experts meeting in Paris were believed working out the precise wording of military and other protocols which would accompany a formal cease-fire agreement and which would detail the actual workings of the cease-fire.

The South Vietnamese foreign minister said upon arrival today he hoped for a successful conclusion of the talks.

"I came to bring the goodwill of our government to see once again the re-establishment of peace in Vietnam and if it is possible, to bring our direct collaboration on the spot and to take the negotiations to their end," Lam said."

Madame Binh, who flew to Paris late Sunday after a month of consultations in Vietnam with the Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG), expressed similar hopes.

"I come back to Paris with the instructions of our government to deploy all our efforts with the aim of signing the agreement..," she said.

Optimism that the negotiations could be coming to an end after more than four years was underlined by Thuy when he talked to newsmen while awaiting Mme. Binh's return.

"The two sides found they made progress every time they met," Thuy said.

The Viet Cong said Mme. Binh met with Tho and Thuy today and the two sides "exchanged views on the general situation and the problems concerning completion of a text of the agreement on the cessation of war and reestablishment of peace in Vietnam."

With peace apparently near, Saigon newspapers said President Thieu would issue a series of stringent controls throughout South Vietnam as soon as a cease-fire is announced. They said it would include shoot-to-kill orders for "anyone stirring trouble among the population or inciting to rebellion and support of the Communists."

Like some Democratic legislators, Post suggested as another alternative delaying the sales tax increase from five to six cents on the dollar until next January or until July 1974, resulting in a loss of revenue totaling $368 million and $593 millon, respectively.

Delaying the scheduled 1.4 per cent increase in the corporate franchise tax rate from next July until January 1974 would cost the state $50 to $55 million, he said.

Both the sales tax and the bank and corporations tax are to be increased to help finance the state's new $1.1 billion property tax relief and school aid law.

Reagan has said he was "committed" to an income tax reduction but lately indicated he is also looking at other ways to spend the $852 million current surplus.

Post said a married couple with two cildren earning $5,000 a year would save $25 if the sales tax increase were delayed but would receive no savings if a one-time 30 per cent income tax credit was enacted.

Woman Quits Chairman's Race

Mrs. Nisbit said that remaining in the campaign "might produce further misunderstanding and divisiveness" in the party.

The two remaining contenders are John Burton, a San Francisco liberal Assemblyman, and John Merlo, a Chico moderate.

Mrs. Nisbit said she plans to run for reelection to her current post.

ABERDEEN, S.D. (UPI) — Terry Bagus, an announcer at radio station KABR, decided to celebrate his last day on the job Sunday by offering a free record album to any girl who showed up at the KABR studios wearing a bathing suit. The temperature was a brisk 27 degrees, and three inches of new snow blanketed the ground.

Forty-eight females ranging in age from 3 to 35 from this college community of 25,000 residents showed up. One shape-ly lass was barefooted. Three young men, wearing girl's bathing suits, also reported in.

Bay Area Teamsters Will Seek Separate Bargaining Powers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Leaders of San Francisco Bay Area Teamsters locals, including one representing Marin and Sonoma counties, have announced plans to seek separate bargaining when the national truckers' contract comes up for renewal this spring.

The local units of the powerful International Brothershood of Teamsters hope to handle "special problems" of area union members by bargaining with employers in the area, it was disclosed today.

A union spokeman said the efforts failed because of a federal court ruling that the attempt to break away from the national pattern occurred after the contract was nearly worked out.

"We've given six months notice this time," said Chuck Mack, secretary of Local 70 which has 8,500 members in the Oakland area.

When the current national contract was negotiated in 1970, several Bay Area locals staged wildcat picketing in an effort to get special contract considera-

Five other Bay Area locals were backing the move for area bargaining. They include Local 85 of San Francisco; Local 315 of Contra Costa County; Local 490 of Napa and Solano counties; Local 624 of Marin and Sonoma counties, and Local 980 of Mendocino and Lake counties. In all they represent about 20,000 truckers.

In a letter to Teamster President Frank Fitzsimmons, leaders of the Bay Area units asked his approval of the separate bargaining.

"Our membership is convinced that national bargaining has had the effect of restricting our ability to solve the special problems which we have in the Bay Area," Mack said.

The union's by-laws prohibit local bargaining without approval of the president, who also has veto power on any Teamster strike.

Board May Terminate School Head

The Tamalpais High School District board, which has been reported to be considering firing Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins, will meet in closed session tonight to consider his contract.

The session will follow the board's regular meeting, set for 8 o'clock in Sir Francis Drake High School's student center, San Anselmo.

In the regular meeting, a new daily class schedule, to go into operation at Drake in the fall, will be explained by Drake's educational leader, Thomas M. Lorch.

The schedule adds a seventh period, moves the school day forward to start at 8 a.m., and provides for 95-minute "long block" classes.

Also on a lengthy agenda are salary proposals by the Tamalpais District Teachers Association for the 1973-74 school years. The teachers are asking for a 5.5-per-cent salary raise, bonuses for advanced degrees, income protection insurance, addition of orthodontic coverage to the present dental insurance, plus more credit for previous teaching experience.

Total cost of the proposals would be $393,980, of which $292,000 represents the 5.5-percent salary boost.

Night Meeting Set

The Novato City Council and North Marin County Water District board will meet at 6:30 a.m. tomorrow at Sambo's restaurant, Novato, to discuss coordination between the district and the city. The meeting originally was scheduled at 7:30 a.m.

Prosecution Seeking To Hear Bugged Calls

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The prosecution in the Watergate case today renewed its attempt to make public the bugged conversations of Democratic party officials.

The prosecution asked for a re-hearing by the U.S. Court of Appeals on its order last week that the tape-recorded conversations could not be introduced in evidence.

Witness Alfred C. Baldwin III had testified he had made the tapes in a motel across the street from the Democratic National Headquarters in the Watergate building where at least one telephone was said to have been bugged.

Baldwin had been scheduled for cross-examination by defense attorneys today but was delayed getting to Washington by bad weather at his Hamden, Conn., home.

Baldwin had testified he was hired by the security chief of President Nixon's Re-election Committee, James W. McCord Jr., to monitor conversations with sophisticated wire tapping equipment supplied by McCord.

Gerald Arch, a defense attorney, said he intended to challenge the testimony Baldwin gave last week that he monitored about 200 telephone calls originating from the offices of the Democratic National Committee in Washington's Watergate building last year.

McCord is one of two men still on trial on charges of conspiracy, burglary and illegal wire tapping. The other is G. Gordon Liddy, a former White House aide and finance counsel for the committee to re-elect Nixon.

Five of the original seven defendants have entered guilty pleas. They are Edward Hunt, a former $100-a-day White House consultant, and four Miami men.

Police testified they arrested McCord and the four Miami men in the Democratic offices in the pre-dawn hours of last June 17.

Last week a U.S. Court of Appeals panel ruled 2 to 1 that the actual contents of the conversations which Baldwin monitored could not be admitted as evidence in the trial.

The conversations allegedly were overheard on the telephone of R. Spencer Oliver, a Democratic party official.

Earl L. Silbert, the chief prosecutor, said he might appeal that decision to the U.S. Supreme Court. Silbert argued that some information in the phone conversations was vital to the prosecution's case.

The Jobless Vet Count Shows Drop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The unemployment among service veterans of the Vietnam war era fell substantially in 1972, the Labor Department said today. The rate dropped from 8.1 per cent down to 5.5 per cent, lower than the rate for male non-veterans of the same age.

The Labor Department credited lower unemployment among veterans to improvements in the nation's economy, special efforts by government, business and labor to find jobs for returning GIs, and to lower numbers of servicemen being released from the armed forces.

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson told the President a week ago that unemployment among Vietnam war era veterans "in effect no longer constitutes a national problem."

Over 30 Years Experience In Nutrition

HERE'S HEALTH!

by JUNE EMBURY

There's much renewed interest, we note, in bone meal supplements, particularly in that progressive, health-minded nation, Sweden. The bone-meal swing began there after fluoridation was banned by the government. Now health authorities, the people and the press are turning to what an internationally recognized scientist has long been urging. Dr. Aslander, Swedish agronomist, exhibits his children and grandchildren's perfect teeth as examples that bone meal, along with whole grains and good nutrition can prevent tooth decay completely.

According to various sources, including Robert Choate's recent column in the S.F. Chronicle (1/5/73) bone meal has become so popular in Sweden that for a time, there wasn't any left on shop shelves. Our shelves, though, have an ample and varied supply at all times.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, TEXAS — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss ... and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss ... but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment and see for yourself!

Naturally they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss. Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair ... now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Couple Of Places To Spend City Money

We have been known to turn a jaundiced eye toward some of the expenditures proposed in federal, state, county, city and district budgets. But we would like to recommend a couple of expenditures for the City of San Rafael.

Both, we feel, are badly needed.

FIRST OF THESE is reroofing and repair of the old house in the corner of Boyd Park which is headquarters of the Marin County Historical Society.

When Boyd Park was given to the city, a proviso in the gift was that the house be maintained for the historical headquarters. The maintenance, however, has been something less than adequate.

The Marin County Historical Society performs a public service, the value of which is being realized more as the people of Marin awaken to the loss of ties with their county's own history through destruction of landmarks, failure to keep old records and manuscripts, deaths of the pioneers who can "remember when," etc.

The City of San Rafael, as county seat ever since the county was formed, has a responsibility to help preserve this heritage. The small outlay necessary to keep the historical society's headquarters in repair is little enough for the city to contribute. Besides, the city is obligated by the terms of the park gift.

The historical society itself seems very reticent about pressuring the city council to spend some money to put the building into livable condition. Maybe the historical society officers feel it shouldn't be necessary. But apparently it is necessary.

The city has a "windfall" of federal revenue sharing money from which the needed repairs perhaps could be financed. This is the kind of "one time only" project for which the use of such funds would be appropriate. But if the federal government's strings on the money preclude its use for such purpose, we suggest funds be included in the city budget for next fiscal year.

THE SECOND project is painting of the city's two-story parking structure at Fifth Avenue and C Street.

When this structure was built, it was proposed to paint it immediately. The late City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen recommended that it first be allowed to "weather" through one winter, as a paint job on new concrete often has to be done over.

Eight winters have passed since then. The structure is still unpainted.

We think the city should make its parking lots as attractive as possible. A parking lot can scarcely be a thing of beauty; but it need not be an eyesore.

We assume that money from the parking district fund, derived from the meter fees, is available for this purpose.

Imagination And Reality

The popularity of the old radio dramas on some Bay Area radio stations proves imagination can transcend reality any day of the week. The actors provided the words and we listeners imagined the setting, the costumes, the actors' appearances and the action. Every listener brought his own idea of these things. Small wonder those of us who grew up before the age of television sometimes find it disappointing! No use for our imaginations now.

Raccoon Tracks

Everywhere we look these days, we find raccoon trakcs. Their hand and nose prints appear on our back porch window, indicating the raccoons stood on our garbage can and peered longingly in at a row of ripening persimmons. We find their muddy "baby-feet' hind footprints on the front steps where they have come to ask us to put out more food or perhaps just to observe human life in its natural habitat. Marin's raccoons are keen people-watchers.

TIMING IS EVERYTHING

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Timing is everything in politics, and like everything in politics, unpredictable.

An example was the flyer put out last week by Paul R. Haerle of Strawberry in his campaign for vice chairman of the Republican State Central Committee of California. It presumably was printed some weeks ago — before the furore erupted over the governor's nomination of his former top aide, William P. Clark Jr., to the state Supreme Court.

The previously undisclosed fact that Clark had to drop out of law school, and never graduated has raised a storm of protest from prestigious legal bodies that Clark is unfit for such a high judicial position.. . .

Haerle stressed in his flyer that, as Reagan's former appointments secretary he "helped implement the governor's highly regarded merit plan of judicial selection."

AN ORDER that could "Sanforize" Marin's shrinking railways has been issued by a federal judge in Pennsylvania.

The order suspended new Interstate Commerce Commission rules that would have made it easier for railroads to abandon unwanted tracks. Under the proposed rules, a railroad could file for abandonment if it could show the tracks carried fewer than 34 carloads of freight per mile during the preceding 12 months.

The old rules, which required a railroad to prove its case for abandonment, will continue in effect until the case is heard sometime this year.

Anything that delays further railroad abandonments in Marin would give the county and Golden Gate Bridge District needed time to come up with a financial plan to get abandoned railroad rights-of-way for future transit use.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

All sorts of allowances are made for the illusions of youth; and none, or almost none, for the disenchantments of age. — Robert Louis Stevenson.

Old age isn't so bad when you consider the alternative. — Maurice Chevalier.

You take all the experience and judgment of men over 50 out of this world and there wouldn't be enough left to run it. — Henry Ford.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Letters for "What Our Readers Say" are welcomed. To be published, they must bear the writer's signature and address (only the city will be printed, but street or post office box address must be included.) Try to limit letters to 200 words. The editors reserve the right to cut long letters, or to reject any that may be libelous or in bad taste.

This Reader Objects To Getting The News

I continue to be appalled by the irresponsible journalistic techniques your paper has used in stories related to the Tamalpais High School District, the latest example of which appeared in tonight's issue (Jan. 16).

The picture of a reporter for the county's largest newspaper listening at a keyhole to a private session is not one that brings credit to that individual, her paper or her profession. Your lack of regard for the sensitivities of the people involved is surpassed only by your disregard for a law which authorizes public bodies to hold personnel hearings in closed session.

Survival Inc. Not On Brink Of Collapse

We're writing to inform you that your Jan. 13 article entitled "Near Collapse — Recycling Firm Plans Survival," distorted our financial situation and misrepresented our organization. Survival Inc. is not on the brink of financial collapse. Although we operate on a very tight budget, we are quite able to meet all our commitments within the community and fulfill all of our contractual responsibilities with the County of Marin.

What we attempted to communicate about our financial situation was the following: (1) that we were successfully satisfying the requirements of our county contract; (2) that our present level of funding does not allow us to expand our operations to meet the needs and demands of the residents of Marin County who are not serviced by us yet who would recycle if there were a depot in their area.

. . .The only problem we are experiencing financially is due to our inadequate truck. . .We are receiving more recyclables than our truck is capable of dealing with. Therefore we have needs for a more efficient trucking system than our present level of funding allows. . .

. . .Our efforts are directed to demonstrate to the county committee studying solid waste management that recycling is a viable alternative because recycling conserves natural resources and promotes conscientious consumer habits. These habits avoid one-way containers and overpackaging and thereby help to reduce the high volume of solid waste that consumerism generates. . .

Machines Cannot Sort Much Of Your Mail

I am a retired postal clerk. I spent 30 years in the service . . .

In reply to yesterday's (Jan. 10) Journal in both the feature editorial and the latter from Mr. Shand of Mill Valley . . .

I agree that trucking all mail picked up in the various mail boxes all around Marin all the way to San Francisco to be cancelled and worked seems a little ridiculous, costly, and it entails a certain amount of delay in returning mail destined for towns in this immediate area. To make matters even worse, the belief that this mail is sorted in the gigantic mail sorting machines which have been installed in all the major post offices throughout the country is a false one . . .

There are two types of sorting machines besides the conventional way of clerks casing mail by hand. The first is the multi-million dollar new OCR (optical character reader). The second is the letter sorting machines. This requires clerks to do the reading while they are sitting at consoles . . . After reading the address on each, they press certain buttons on their console that directs the letters to certain bins . . .

The OCR is a marvelous machine. The mail fed into it to be sorted enters with the rapidity of a machine gun firing. When the mail falls into the various bins in the rear all sorted, the clerks assigned to removing the mail to keep the bins cleared resemble Jackie Gleason's skit on working at the Automat. In spite of the efficiency and speed of this wonderful machine, it has its limitations. It can only read certain mail . . . The type must be of a kind acceptable for the machine to read. It must be type or print. The machine cannot read hand-written addresses, even if they are printed.

From this you will see that whatever reason the Post Office Department may have for sending the mail to San Francisco rather than to have primary distribution performed in the San Rafael Post Office, it is certainly not to have it sent through the mail sorting machines. My guess would be that San Francisco needs the work to justify the necessarily large amount of clerks they must have available for the large volumes of mail that may arrive at any time . . .

I resent this work being taken from our own post office, which is probably faced with the same problem occasionally, possibly causing a reduction in the working force, and also possibly lessening the amount of new appointments to the San Rafael Post Office.

I also resent the fact that if I want to mail a letter or greeting card to my next-door neighbor, it first must make a 50-mile trip to San Francisco in order to effect delivery . . .

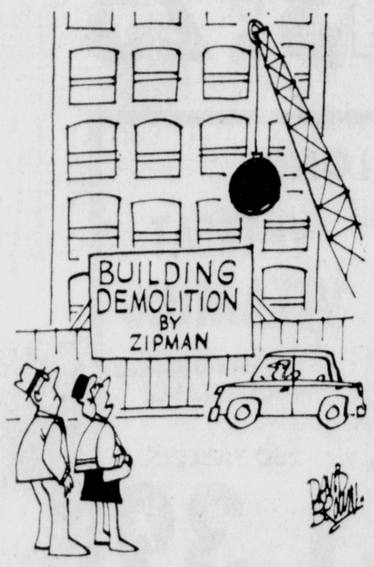
TODAY'S WORLD



"Doesn't it give you a feeling of security and well-being to know that our marriage is four years older than that building?"

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

Citizens who complain about Phase III of the President's economic plan now are sorry they ever objected to Phases I and II.

The Roman numerals are a reminder that prosperity is like Rome. It wasn't built in a day.

Phase III is voluntary. This means you have to blame yourself and not Dick if it doesn't work.

It's proving easier to phase-in higher prices and better wages than it is to phase-out inflation.

Once again our nation is faced with the difficult task of complying with the law of supply and demand.

Behind The Bunting Lurk Dark Shadows On Inauguration

WASHINGTON — However the peace progresses and despite the die-hard anti-war demonstrators, the inauguration got a lift from the expectation that at last the killing is to end. To a lot of Americans, this time "Hail to the Chief" was particularly appropriate.

A hard-to-estimate number of millions who supported the President but abandoned him during the December bombing offensive should be back aboard by now. To Nixon loyalists who stuck with him through the promise of the '50s and the darkness of the early '60s, this Jan. 20 was the day that made it all worthwhile.

YOU DO NOT HAVE to be one of those loyalists to rejoice at the prospect of peace. Only the most dedicated peace marchers will be disappointed suddenly to be marching in protest against something that used to be. Most Americans are large of spirit, and want to wish good things to a man who has worked so hard to succeed in politics and diplomacy. Our reflex, almost, is to cheer when the bands parade past and the President waves from his platform atop a 49-state, 61 per cent landslide.

And yet. Yet when the stands are dismantled and the big contributors fly home and the pigeons scared away by chemical Roost-No-More come back to bivouac along Pennsylvania Avenue, the cheering will stop.

For there behind the red-white-and-blue bunting and the inaugural gowns, some hard facts become harder now that peace is, as the man says, at hand. With the war ending, assorted outrages that seemed tolerable while the greater outrage of war went on are going to move into truer perspective.

All of them, the ones I spoeak of, are products of the arrogance of the Nixon administration. The most obnoxious is the Watergate conspiracy.

IT WAS ALARMING enough that any group of men under auspices of either political party thought it advisable to enter into espionage and sabotage against its opponents. It was doubly so, though not surprising, when the threads that controlled these men were found to run directly into the White House.

Now it is clear that the embarrassment potential for those closest to the Oval Office is to be limited by the neat expedient of having key defendants plead guilty, thus bypassing the taking of evidence from them.

The remaining defendants are maintaining they did what they did as a purely defensive measure, out of fear that violence and harm to the President himself might thus be forestalled. Afraid that the Secret Service, the FBI and other agencies could not protect the President, they got up their own private police force, and would like the law outside of which they operated to forgive them because of their motives.

As alarming as the crimes themselves were, for those guilty to get away with this excuse, and without being required to trace the conspiracy to its original organizers, will be a dangerous precedent for the country. It will inspire those who think that to be assured that every time "Hail to the Chief" is played in the future, it is for the man with the best ties with the phone-tapping underworld.

THE WATERGATE AFFAIR reeks strongest, but mercifully it is one of its kind — as far as we know now. Administration actions of more marginal illegality, debatably within the rules of the contest between executive and legislative branches, are so numerous they defy listing.

Congress passes a massive program to clean up the nation's water, but the President vetoes it. Congress, under broad pressure from the people, overrides the veto. The President simply refuses to carry out the program once Congress has acted.

Comparable flouting of the popular will already has been ordered by effective impoundment of agricultural and housing funds, and is threatened in education. The Congress hesitates to approve a presidential plan for cabinet reorganization, so the President orders reorganization himself, funneling more power throigh fewer men who do not have to worry about either confirmation or oversight by Congress.

The phrase that any administration loyalist would pick up is "popular will." Their position is that the utmost expression of the popular will came in the landslide vote for the President —and that rather than voting against George McGovern, all those millions were voting for impoundment of water-pollution funds and whatever other ungranted powers the White House wants to arrogate to itself.

So while the band music is echoing and the cheering dies away, to all the good wishes of the day you can add a wistful wish that got away:that for the good of the country, he had won by an eyelash instead of a landslide.

Details Of Cease-Fire Pact Will Need Careful Scrutiny

Question marks over Vietnam settlement: When the text of a cease-fire agreement is published, it will be scrutinized with a watchmaker's eyeglass to see whether it achieves the goal of an "honorable peace" which President Nixon said is the only peace he would accept.

The President's goals were these:

3—Assured return of American POWs.

WHAT ARE the ingredients in such a settlement? When the terms are finally known, the essential questions are these:

Does the agreement provide reasonably adequate means to monitor and enforce a cease-fire? An unenforceable cease-fire is no cease-fire.

Does the agreement hide within it a coalition government which would mean putting unelected Communists into high office? If it does, it suggests that South Vietnam could suffer the same fate as Czechoslovakia when Moscow imposed a coalition government after World War II.

Do the terms affirm that the Saigon government has political authority over South Vietnam as Hanoi has political authority over North Vietnam until conditions for reunification can be reached?

Affirmative answers to the first two questions are crucial, to the third one important.

OTHER QUESTIONS which will arise: Will a cease-fire bring peace? What are the odds the Communists will find the means to take over South Vietnam? Will the United States go to the aid of South Vietnam if Hanoi resumes the offensive?

Here are some candid answers:

A cease-fire will not bring peace. It will mean that a military struggle will become a political struggle in which the Viet Cong, with help from the north, will do everything possible to harass, undermine and unseat the Saigon regime.

For this year and next, the South Vietnamese have considerable military resources. The capability of the north has been greatly weakened by the bombing of the last six months. The capability of the south has been greatly strengthened by Vietnamization.

Whether Saigon can win a secure peace for itself in the long run depends on its relationship with its own people. That reamins an unknown factor.

The Nixon administration has no intention of going to war in Vietnam again unless there is a massive Communist attack. Even then, U.S. air support is very uncertain.

INFLATION — It's very relative. In the United States, most consumers wonder why the government can't get inflation under control and keep prices from going up. But in Western Europe, consumers want to know why their governments can't control inflation and keep prices down as effectively as the United States. The fact is that consumer prices in all the nine Common Market countires have been rising at an annual rate of 8 per cent while U.S. inflation has been running at about 3.5 per cent.

REMEMBER WHEN?

Jan. 22, 1963

A bill to return excess profits of the Golden Gate Bridge District to the counties in the district was introduced by State Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael.

20 YEARS AGO

Jan. 22, 1953

Attorney Wallace S. Myers asked Marin Municipal Water District directors to help him litigate a suit to force the Meadow Club to pay the same water rates as other consumers. The directors refused to go along.

Secret negotiations between Pacific Greyhound Lines and the Marin Federation of Improvement Clubs on a proposed 30 per cent hike in commute fares were brought to light by the Independent-Journal.

Fickle Words Refuse To Stay With Dictionary Meanings

A dictionary is the revenge scholars try to take on words for being so fickle. Their wild dream is to nail those faithless, evasive meanings down. One, two, three options at the most, and that's it

A hopeless cause'

In this century of the quick-change, nothing changes faster than words, slipping and sliding out of their previous commitments to keep up with the world they label

One must "trade in" one's vocabulary almost as often as one's automobile another case of planned obsolescence

Words — once the firm molds for meaning, the precision tools for definition — have turned to rubber, mocking those who use them Is there anything more perishable than the latest verbal novelty? Rhetorical question What exactly will special words like "turn on" and "far out" mean a decade from now, if the terms are still in use?

COMEDIANS, NOT SCHOLARS are needed to appreciate this tragicomedy of giddy semantics The practical jokes that words play upon people call for practical jokes in return And so the world produces irreverent men who set words on banana peels and give them a shove, just to see if they make more sense upside down than right side up

Oscar Wilde was such a man. Driven to tears by the pompous weight self-satisfied people imposed upon the word "experience," Wilde declared: "Experience is the name men give to their mistakes."

Ambrose Bierce — the American journalist who, according to legend, rode off on a burro to the Mexican revolution in 1914, never to be heard from again — was another such man. Suffering fools as ungladly as Wilde, Bierce cried: "A bore is a man who talks when you wish him to listen."

These two samples may suggest the rules of comic lexicography. The comic lexicographer presumes that most words are balloons into which hot air has been pumped. He comes equipped with nice sharp pins. With a fair degree of violence, he systematically destroys cliches.

IN BRINGING BACK words to reality, the comic lexicographer inevitably becomes a satirist. His definitions are social comments, and when they are laid end to end, they add up to a point of view.

Bierce actually organized a satirical dictionary ("The Devil's Dictionary"), over the years other aphorists have been more or less cataloguing Wilde's dictionary for him. And now here comes Bernard Rosenberg, editor of Dissent, professor at the City University of New York, and author of "Dictionary for the Disenchanted."

As at least three of the following examples indicate, Mr. Rosenberg's running theme is change itself: the solemn absurdities of the modish. In alphabetical order, of course:

"Artist: A man easily identified by his bizarre clothes, outrageous habits, long hair, insouciant manners, and other visible stigmata that render him indistinguishable from everyone else

"Foreign aid Taxing poor people in rich countries for the benefit of rich people in poor countries

"Hipster Someone who adopts customs that go in one era and out the other."

"Like An all-purpose expletive. Along with 'you know,' 'hopefully,' 'dig,' and 'man,' it has so enriched American English that we can henceforth do without most of the remaining 600,000 words that still clutter out-of-date dictionaries."

LIKE HIS FELLOW comic lexicographers, Mr. Rosenberg is a counter-puncher who scarcely cares what excesses he must commit in order to attack the prevailing cant. His motto is Wilde's: "Whenever people agree with me, I always feel I must be wrong."

Ah, the trials of the poor iconoclast'

The vocational malady of the comic lexicographer obviously is cynicism: he is an overreactor On subjects like marriage, his sneering is notorious. He frequently tries too hard — a sneer, like anything else, must come naturally. As La Rochefoucault, no mean definition-snapper himself, put it: "The passion to seem clever often keeps us from being so."

Mr. Rosenberg must plead guilty to these charges. But much can be forgiven a man who defines pragmatism thus: "A distinctively American philosophy whose only failing is that it does not work."

Supervisors To Study Joint Use Of Base

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, meeting tomorrow at 9 a.m. at Marin Civic Center, will discuss joint use at Hamilton Air Force Base and possible junking of the county aviation commission.

Discussion of joint military-civilian use of the air base will center on whether the county should spend about $50,000 for an environmental impact report

Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste, an opponent of joint use, said last week if the board turns down the environmental study, he will ask for the abolition of the aviation commission, which he considers "a lobby for joint use."

The Greater San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, meanwhile, has filed a report with the county showing many Marinites are in favor of joint use.

From Novato, considered a hotbed of opposition to joint use, 116 persons responded favorably and 23 unfavorably.

The Supervisors' agenda also includes:

SECURITY — A decision whether to reduce Civic Center security from the present 15-man force to a nine-man force The proposal is opposed by Sheriff Louis P Mountanos

MARINVIEW — Discussion of mudslide problems in the troubled subdivision of Marinview in Tamalpais Valley and whether additional development should be allowed and what corrective measures should be taken to guard against future mudsliding.

ELECTION — A decision whether to hold a tax rate election for the new Marin County Regional Park District or rely on the possibility of a favorable opinion from the state attorney general that no election is necessary to comply with the state's property tax limitation law.

BUDGET — Preliminary discussions on next fiscal year's budget with supervisors expected to outline what each thinks is the direction county government and county services should be going.

Sleeping Posture And Its Effects

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A Colorado Springs dental researcher says he can tell a person's sleeping habits by looking at his teeth, jaws and posture

Dr Hal A. Huggins said Sunday that Children who sleep on their sides or stomachs develop crooked teeth, undershot jaws, elongated skulls and bad posture.

The back sleeper usually has a straight back and beautiful smile, Huggins told the Dental Alumni Association of the University of California.

Huggins said his conclusion came after five years of studying the effects of sleeping habits on bone structure. His presentation to the alumni group was entitled, "Why raise ugly kids?"

IRS Office Is Offering Tax Help

Residents of San Rafael and other Marin County areas may receive free assistance in preparing their 1972 federal income tax returns by telephoning the San Rafael Internal Revenue Service office, according to IRS officials.

Help will be limited to answering questions that may arise while filling out the form in those specific sections of the return with which taxpayers may be having difficulties, officials said.

IRS personnel will prepare entire returns for persons with language or physical handicaps, however, according to Charles E. Kingman, IRS district director for Northern California.

Kingman points out that more than 70 per cent of all tax questions can be answered by telephone. So when confusion arises at tax time, he urged residents to get in touch with the San Rafael office, Third and D streets.

Office hours are from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. The office also will be open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. from Jan. 27 through April 16 and each Monday until 8 p.m.

The Loot Hooked

GLASGOW (AP) — A daring raider dressed as a "city gent" — a businessman in the financial district — hooked a money bag containing $720 from behind a bank counter using his rolled umbrella. Three accomplices chatted with the teller while the raid was carried out.

State Dominates Wine Market

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California wines will make up about 73 per cent of the anticipated 645-million in 1973, as an industry consultant said today.

California wineries will produce about 252 million gallons of the total and imports about 45 million gallons, Louis R. Gomberg said in "Wines & Vines," an industry publication.

Other wine producing states such as New York, Michigan, Washington, Ohio, Missouri and Arkansas will account for the remaining 48 million gallons.

Our new 280 SE 4.5 costs almost three times as much as the "average" car. But we think there are 10,000 Americans who can appreciate the difference.

At over $10,000, it is not only well above average, it is some $2,500 more expensive than the highest priced domestic luxury sedan.

Whether it's worth that difference to you may be answered only by what you expect of a motor car.

The 280SE 4.5 is a touring sedan in the best European tradition.

Designed to provide every motoring comfort for a party of five. And engineered to cope with driving situations that vary from the descending switchbacks of an Alpine pass to the 100 mph cruising speeds of an Autobahn.

A concept so different from that guiding the design of a domestic "luxury" car that Mercedes-Benz engineers used the Nürburgring racing circuit as its final testing ground.

Its engine is unlike any built in America. An overhead-cam, fuel-injected 4.5 liter V-8.

It has no carburetor. Instead, a computer monitors engine speed and load, temperature and altitude, then electronically meters fuel to each cylinder. This more precise method of fuel delivery provides high-speed touring capability with the greatest possible efficiency.

The fully independent suspension was designed for ruts and bends, not just boulevards and turnpikes. It's so roadworthy, Road & Track contends that "no domestic luxury sedan is even in the same ballpark."

And to match its performance abilities, Mercedes-Benz engineers have equipped it with four power-assisted disc brakes, ventilated in front to resist fading.

The result is an automobile that performs with equal aplomb on the 174 curves of Nürburgring, or the unwavering ribbon of a thruway.

And an automobile that is further endowed with almost every comfort. Power brakes and steering. Electric windows. Air conditioning and tinted glass. Electrically heated rear window. An AM-FM receiver. Even a central locking system that secures all four doors, the trunk and even the gas port at the touch of a button.

In addition to the 280SE 4.5, Mercedes-Benz builds two other V-8 touring sedans in similarly miniscule quantities.

The 280SEL 4.5 is identical to the SE except that it is longer. Longer in the Mercedes-Benz sense — an increase of four inches that is translated directly into rear-seat leg room.

The 300SEL 4.5 adds air suspension to the list of performance features unavailable on any domestic automobile.

In total, these three high-performance touring sedans will account for less than one of every 400 cars sold in the United States this year.

If you can accept a car that "different," take a thorough test drive. Discover the real differences in a car built to be the best — not the best seller.

Sausalito Sentenced On Charge

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Walter B. Dachsteiner, 37-year-old Sausalito man said to have grossed $20,000 a year from the sale of pornographic movies, has been sentenced to federal prison for 18 months.

Judge William T. Sweigert of U.S. District Court also fined Dachsteiner, who lives at 171 Second Street, $2,500. He allowed Dachsteiner, who reportedly has pneumonia, to remain free, however, until Wednesday noon.

At that time his attorney is expected to ask the judge to release his client on bail pending an appeal of the conviction, according to Asst. U.S. Atty. Dennis Nerney, who prosecuted the case.

Dachsteiner was convicted last month by a jury of 16 charges of sending obscene material through the mails, advertising his films, and one count of mailing one of the movies.

Postal investigators began investigating him in 1971 after receiving complaints from throughout the United States from persons who received Dachsteiner's brochure.

Discussion Set On Sewer Line

Ross Valley Sanitary District officials will meet with the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce to discuss undergrounding of a sewage pipe through the city's downtown at noon Thursday in the Ross Valley Savings community room.

Downtown businessmen have claimed the project will hurt business by inconveniencing shoppers.

Post's Solution To Smog Control

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — As an alternative to deferally proposed gas rationing Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post is dusting off a once-rejected plan aimed at dramatically reducing smog in Southern California.

It calls for annual inspections of all the estimated 7.2 million motor vehicles in the sprawling Los Angeles basin along with a requirement that the vacuum spark advance on used cars be disconnected.

Legislation establishing such a program was defeated last year in the Assembly Transportation Committee, which approved a similar bill only to see it die in the Denate.

Both were based on recommendations by Post, who said in an interview that he soon will renew his recommendation to the 1973 legislature.

He made the disclosure in the wake of a controversial federal proposal by Environmental Protection Agency Administrators William D. Ruckelshaus to ration gasoline in the basin during smoggy May-October. The proposal would reduce automobile use by up to 82 per cent.

The federal recommendation was viewed widely as an action designed to build public pressure on Congress to extend the 1977 clean air standard deadline for hydrocarbons, a chief ingredient of automobile-caused smog.

The federal plan also envisions annual mandatory inspections of motor vehicles, limiting automobile vacuum spark advances and installing anti-smog devices on older cars costing as much as $400.

"I saw nothing in the testimony last year that indicated the my recommendation was not an entirely viable and workable proposal," Post said.

Under questioning, he added, "I think it ought to be seriously reconsidered. We are going to request the legislature to reexamine it."

Scientific studies have shown, Post noted, that disconnecting the vacuum spark advance results in about a 50 per cent reduction in the emission of oxides of nitrogen. At freeway crusing speeds, emissions of hydrocarbons are reduced 30 to 50 per cent.

The vacuum spark advance is a device that boosts automobile acceleration. Exhaust emissions of pollutants are reduced when the mechanism is disconnected by relatively simple mechanical surgery.

The Los Angeles basin includes all of Los Angeles, Orange and Ventura counties along with portions of Riverside, San Bernardino and Santa Barbara counties.

While exhaust emissions are reduced under the disconnect procedure, gasoline mileage decreased by about 4 per cent and some auto engines overheat. Post noted that newly developed smog control devices already are costing a "considerable" mileage loss and insisted the heating problem can be easily overcome for about $25.

Originally, the analyst's roadside inspection program, financed by motor vehicle registration fees, was estimated to cost $21 million but later the proposal was refined and the price scaled down to $10 million.

Under the plan, exhaust emissions would be checked annually and the auto certified before it could be reregistered. Prior to inspection, the vacuum spark advance would have to be disconnected, a procedure which motorists could do themselves at no cost or at a service station for about $5.

Mayors To Eye Tax Shift Bill

The Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen will discuss the state's new school tax shift act, when it meets at 6:30 p.m. Jan. 31 at the Deer Park Villa in Fairfax.

The council will also consider proposals to control development within the so-called "spheres of influence" of Marin cities.

The meeting will be hosted by the City of Fairfax.

Panther Leader Is Speaker At Antiwar March

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Black Panther Bobby Seale says, "It won't be a question of four more years of Nixon...he's gonna have to deal with four more years of us."

He was speaking before 5,000 who marched from San Francisco's Ferry Building to Civic Center.

Planned Parent Director Speaks Up

NATIONAL BOARD member of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America Mrs. Laurence Kraus of Corinthian Island said that the greatest insurance a mother can have is to let her daughter know what is available to prevent unwanted pregnancy. Contraceptive services were given to 712 girls under 18 at its Marin affiliate last year.

By PAT BALMES

"If we could cut out all unwanted pregnancies, it would go far toward establishing true population stabilization for this country," said Mrs. Laurence Kraus of Belvedere, who has been elected to the national board of directors of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America.

"Think of it in relation to the whole change of attitude in this country. After World War II couples believed four children was the ideal family; now it is two," said Joan Kraus.

A volunteer since 1959, she said that when she began, Planned Parenthood was a spacing program for married women "as a health and happiness measure." Then about a decade ago, people began talking about population as a serious threat to our way of life.

In the past Planned Parenthood has been very interested in welfare workers suggesting family planning, but they could only mention it if the client asked, she said.

NOW IT is a directive. Money is federally appropriated to subsidize family planning service for women who could not otherwise afford it, according to Joan Kraus.

From July 1971 to June 1972 three-and-a-half million low-income women were served by public and private family planning services. Still there are an estimated three million more women who need some kind of subsidized service, she said.

Mrs. Kraus described the history of the Planned Parenthood Association of Marin at her Corinthian Island Tudor home. The 1933 house has a workmanlike kitchen where she likes to read cookbooks "like textbooks and then I just cook by myself."

The mother of three sons enjoys tennis, hiking, a 10-speed bike and caring and finding homes for "a couple of litters of puppies."

Wearing a mustache as she plays the part of a man because of her low voice, Joan Kraus has appeared in Junior Theater of Marin Masque Unit plays for children for six years.

She has been elected to the board of the Family Service Agency of Marin.

Mrs. Kraus spoke of the "very courageous group of Marin County women of 40 years ago" who started the agency which referred patients to private doctors and reimbursed them. One of these founders was Mrs. Norman Livermore, she said.

Because Mrs. Kraus's mother in Shaker Heights, Ohio, had served on the national board, Joan Kraus was contacted here.

She joined the small, active all-women board in 1959 which met at Marin General Hospital. It really was a women's orgaization then, she said. Now men are on our boards in Marin, throughout the county and onthe national board.

In 1959 one doctor met with a few patients once a month in Marin City. Later the affiliate used a donated Mill Valley office once a week and another in Terra Linda. Since it did not have an office, it used Mrs. Kraus' post office box number.

She served as president from 1961 to 1963. In 1968 she accepted a regional post but remained on the local board a few more years. She plans to serve on its new board of advisors.

"THE PILL skyrocketed the number of people who wanted to use Planned Parenthood's services," said Mrs. Kraus. In 1961 it moved to its first actual office on Mary Street in San Rafael, where it held its clinic, closing the others. The present location is 710 C Street in San Rafael.

"On a rainy night in November, 20 or 30 volunteers called a list of past contributors. We just got on the phone and raised practically the whole $5,000 for the new counseling coordinator's salary," she said.

In addition, seven qualified social workers volunteered to handle the 1,122 patients ages 13 to 42 who came in this past year for pregnancy testing.

Mrs. Kraus remarked sadly that a doctor told her that it is the youngest who wait the longest to seek pregnancy testing "hoping it will just go away."

The counselors present pregnant women with a range of alternatives: adoption, keeping the baby or referral to private doctors for abortions.

Addressing other mothers, Mrs. Kraus said that the greatest insurance that they coud have is to let their daughters know what is available to prevent unwanted pregnancy. "Education is insurance," she said.

Planned Parenthood's second service, contraceptive care, is limited to girls under 18 years old. Public health facilities take care of everyone older, said Mrs. Kraus who adds that Marin's is the only strictly teenage contraceptive care clinic in the United States.

WHAT BRINGS girls in? Mainly word of mouth from their friends. Planned Parenthood sends speakers to junior high and high schools. School nurses and social workers refer them. They read notices in the newspaper.

Teen-agers who come for contraceptives go to a rap session with a social worker first where contraceptive alternatives are outlined. Some bring their boy friends, she said.

Some decide they are not ready to get a contraceptive, but the majority do. Seven hundred and twelve teen-agers last year made 4,013 visits "because we do not give long supplies of the pill."

Pharmaceuticals, pap smears, venereal disease tests and vasectomy referral are available also. There is a men's rap session once a week about vasectomy with referrals to private doctors.

Mrs. Kraus stopped working for the Marin affiliate in 1968 when she became program chairman for the Western region, representing eight states and 35 affiliates. She now works from the San Francisco regional office as well as her home.

MRS. KRAUS was elected to the national board in October and will serve until October 1975.

The federation membership consists of nearly 200 affiliates across the United States and an elected board of 100 directors. Its purpose is to provide leadership in making various means of voluntary fertility control, including contraception, abortion and sterilization, available to all.

It acts as a catalyst to research, sets guidelines for affiliates and disseminates printed material for affiliates and other family planning agencies.

Actually, Mrs. Kraus went national two years ago as the grassroots representative from the Western region on the national executive committee. She still serves this region as chairman of its resource pool of volunteer experts and as program chairman,

In her new work as a national board member she will help run the large agency and serve on its nominating and expansion and policy committees.

They are now considering a new policy on teen-age sexuality in line with recommendations by the President's Committee on Population Growth and the American Future.

The expansion and policy committee is also working on a model family planning service which will show affiliates how to add services other than those they already offer.

"The number of women seeking Planned Parenthood services has gone up 20 per cent every year," said Mrs. Kraus.

Petalumans Pass Inaugural Invite

By KAREN PETERSON

Even though Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sams of Petaluma had to decline their invitation to the inauguration, they shared the excitement of the festivities with their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Tappero, who are in Washington, D.C.

The first of January, Mrs. Sams received a call from an inauguration committee secretary informing her that she and her husband had been invited to the inauguration.

As Mrs. Sams explained, she couldn't believe it. Her first reaction was, 'sure, what kind of joke is this?' But the secretary only laughed and said everyone she called had the same reaction.

Her first thought was let's just go, but after reconsidering, she and her husband decided to stay here and share the experience with Becki and Chris. When the secretary called back, Mrs. Sams said she sounded disappointed when they said they wouldn't be able to attend.

They received a souvenir invitation from the committee and her daughter sent her a souvenir license plate. They will also receive some medals and booklets from their children who are living in Washington.

Her son-in-law, assigned to Coast Guard headquarters in Washington, D.C., drove Supreme Court Chief Justice Warren Burger in the parade to the inauguration. Her daughter Becki, 29, who called during the interview, worked at the Vice President's reception Thursday night and was thrilled to tell her mother she had shaken hands with the First Lady — and Colonel Sanders. 'She's so excited,' said Mrs. Sams, 'and I'm so excited for her.'

The invitation was an honor, but it is not Mrs. Sam's first contact with a President.

During a tour of the White House when she was 18, Mrs. Sams saw a friend working as a guard and he offered to take her on a special tour. While walking in the halls, they ran into President Truman. 'Everyone called him Harry, my folks, everyone. So the first thing that ran through my mind was 'Hi, Harry.' He wasn't taken aback," she said, but just smiled and said "Hello Virginia."

She and her husband, a retired Air Force meteorologist, had lived in Washington and on occasion she had had the opportunity to meet President Eisenhower. While stationed in the Canal Zone, Eisenhower , at a parade at the base, recognized Mrs. Sams, stopped the car, and said, "Hello Virginia. Are those your daughters?" "He had a fantastic memory." said Mrs. Sams, "out of the thousands of people he had met, he remembered me and stopped to say hello."

Readers Will Help Select Women Of Year

"Women of the Year", a program of honors for American women of achievement will be established by the Ladies' Home Journal.

An outstanding woman will be selected in each of eight categories. They are public affairs, arts and humanities, economy and business, voluntary action, science and research, human rights, youth leadership and the quality of life.

The Women of the Year 1973 will be selected by both readers of the Journal and a jury of women leaders. The February issue of the magazine gives details of the way in which readers can make recommendations. The deadline for suggestions is March 20.

Folklore Plants Under Investigation

In Appalachian folklore, jewelweed takes the itch out of poison ivy, poke berries help rheumatism and mullein is good for colds.

There may be more truth in these sayings than is generally thought, says Dr. Gabor B. Fodor, professor of chemistry at West Virginia University, who plans to investigate Appalachian plants in an effort to produce medically active compounds.

African Traditions Kept Up By Women

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Educated women in Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania help to keep the traditions of the East African culture, according to Mrs. Mebo Kabeta Mwaniki, guest speaker at the Redwood Empire District Business and Professional Women's Club luncheon Saturday at the Alvarado Inn in Ignacio.

"Once they (the children) throw away the traditional songs and dances, they grow up without the countries values," Mrs. Mwaniki, a resident of Hayward and mother of three, said, as she spoke of the status of women in Tanzania.

But the educated women in East Africa is rare, she said.

In three universities, there is only one woman to 40 men attending.

However, some of the educated women have been able to enter politics, and the present mayor of Nairobi is a woman.

The educated woman also goes into the rural areas and teaches the women in their homes about cooking, sewing and nutrition. These same rural women, even since the independence of the country in 1960, must live with perhaps a grandmother, mother-in-law and a co-wife while rearing her children, keeping the home comfortable, working in the fields and "fetching water and fire wood, while being tactful about it all."

Education for men is far greater than that for women, she said, and when a member of the audience questioned her about the various fields open to women, she said there were no women engineers in East Africa.

Social organizations for women are being formed, among them is Progress for Women, with members working for equal job opportunity for women.

Women are also making homecrafts which are sold to get money for school centers and education for the children. She showed the audience a brightly colored handbag and a handmade necklace as examples.

Mrs. Mwaniki, a native of Tanzania, served as a teacher and principal of the Nassa Girls School. She received a PhD from Stanford University and was the recipient of the graduate fellowship award from the American Association of University Women while studying at Stanford.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Wife Sees Divorce As Answer But Neither Will Take Action

DEAR HELEN:

My husband hates me, but he is so determined to have everything his own way he won't go to the person he wants to be with. He thinks a divorce will make our grown children dislike us (especially him). So he spends most of his time with his girlfriend while putting on a show of "successful marriage" to the family.

He's not fooling anyone. Our children know how hateful he is. They've gone through his hitting and cursing and stinginess. Perhaps a few friends or business acquaintances think we're compatible, but if they knew how mean he talks about them behind their backs they'd stop talking to us.

My husband is forever comparing my looks and housekeeping to his superior woman friend. Even my job is stupid compared to hers.

How can I make him see he is destroying his own life as well as mine by not consenting to a divorce so he can live with the woman he loves? I wouldn't ask for a settlement. Ijust want to be free. Must I be a prisoner to a man who can't stand me, just so he can save face? — STARVED FOR LOVE AND FUN

DEAR SFLAF:

Since when are you a "prisoner"? You have a job, therefore you're self-supporting. You aren't locked away in a feudal castle. Anytime you wish, you can walk out the front door, see a lawyer, start divorce proceedings — and, even though your husband contests, you'll probably gain your freedom plus your share of the community property.

My guess is you want your husband to make the decision so that he'll catch all the blame: then he'll be branded by the family not only as a philanderer but a deserter. Well, friend, you can't have everything, so if you really want out, make the second move. He has already made the first by choosing another woman. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

First, I want to thank you for the advice you gave me about seven years ago. I wrote about my domineering mother who had taken over our lives and home for 20 years of married life. We followed your suggestion: took her to the other children for awhile and, when she returned, we showed her who would be holding the reins. It worked, and now we all appreciate each other in his or her rightful roles. Three generations can live together, but it takes skill.

Now, another problem. Our daughter is working on her Ph.D. in psychology. While she is well-intentioned and motivated, we are sure, she puts us "on the couch" every time we see her. We have two younger daughters still at home and she works them over, too — telling us all what we are doing wrong. Figuratively, it's "shock" therapy! She pulls no punches.

My husband and I have our degrees and felt for awhile that it might be helpful to let our daughter "practice" on us, but too much is enough! We are all suffering from her unsolicited diagnoses and have told her so, but she continues.

I become so depressed after one of her sessions that for months I can barely function. Otherwise, when not attacked, I have reasonable confidence and do a pretty darn good job in the home.

What's your opinion of psychiatrists and psychologists practing on their own families? — MRS. D.V.

DEAR MRS. V:

Mighty low! Unsolicited advice is as welcome as an allergy on a hayride — and sometimes even more damaging.

Has it occured to you, Mrs. V., that history has repeated itself? You solved the domineering mother problem, only to be knocked off your feet by a domineering daughter.

So re-learn a seven-year-old lesson: let your Ph.D. candidate know that in your house you make the rules, but temper your ultimatum by suggesting that your parenting couldn't be all wrong: look what a smart young woman you produced! — H.

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

A Genetic Basis For Nail Biting

A genetic basis for nail biting in children was indicated by an investigation of the habit in twins. Of 338 pairs of twins (676 children) age 6 years and older studied, 203 children or 30.3 per cent bit their nails. The habit was 1.5 times as common in girls as in boys.

When a parent had been a nail-biter, the chances of a child being a nail-biter were about three times as great as when neither parent had bitten their nails, according to the Medical and Pharmaceutical Information Bureau.

She Hopes To Be A Boatswain

By JAMES O. CLIFFORD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Anneliese Knapp has her eyes set on invading a male stronghold: the anchor-clanking world of the boatswain's mate.

All the cornball jokes about "seaperson" apprentice and being the bos'n's "mate" won't cause her to lose her good humor or the professional air she has while performing her duties on the Sanctuary.

Miss Knapp, sporting a hardhat over her long locks, and the other 60 women on the Sanctuary make a first in Navy history. The 520-foot ship will be the first vessel to set sail with a coed crew.

Ensign Rosemary Nelson, 24, of Walla Walla, Wash., was the first woman officer in a Navy crew. Lt. (j.g.) Ann Kerr, 26, of Aptos, was the first woman "line" officer aboard ship.

Miss Nelson's sleeve has the insignia of the supply corps, while Miss Kerr's uniform has the star of the "ship of the

MONEY MATTERS

The Gift Tax Exclusion

By JOSEPHINE RIPLEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

You may not be making out your federal income tax form this far in advance, but when you do so, the following question from a reader may be of interest to you.

Under the laws with respect to tax-free gifts of money to your family, there is a lifetime tax exclusion for money gifts up to $30,000.

In addition, there is a yearly tax-free allowance for money gifts up to $3,000.

You may draw on the lifetime tax exclusion at any time, and in any amount up to the $30,000 limit.

The yearly tax-free gift allowance of $3,000 is not cumulative and expires at the end of each calendar year.

HOWEVER, YOU may combine both in one year, if you wish, by taking the yearly allowance and drawing on your tax-free lifetime gift allowance in any amount up to the limit.

For instance, you could take the $3,000 with an additional $5,000 from your lifetime allowance for an $8,000 gift.

These tax-free gift privileges are available not only to husband and wife, but to all taxpayers.

But for husband and wife, there is a special provision which permits them to combine their $3,000 yearly gift allowance for a $6,000 tax-free gift to a child. This is known as a split gift and can be made only with the explicit consent of the spouse.

Husband and wife could also, if they so desired, pool their lifetime tax exemption for a gift to the child of $60,000.

Gifts in terms of property are not tax free if that giver retains the "right of enjoyment" of that gift during his lifetime. This could apply in the case of a painting, "given", for instance, to a child but still retained by the giver.

The individual's decision with respect to use of the lifetime exemption might well be determined by the tax rate at that time. For instance, if the gift is small and the tax rate low, one might prefer to reserve the lifetime exclusion for an occasion when the tax exclusion would be more beneficial.

More detailed and complete information may be found in the Internal Revenue Service publication entitled, "A Guide to Federal Estate and Gift Taxation," No. 448. The price 50 cents. It may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

MRS. M.H.B. of Texas, referring to a column entitled, "Funerals Needn't Cost So Much," asks for more information on the cost of cremation and where to find out more about it.

Local funeral directors are in a position to furnish this information. But most of them still favor the traditional funeral procedures.

Provisions for cremation are not readily available in some sections of the country, although the demands for such services are increasing.

One source of information is the Continental Association of Funeral and Memorial Societies, 59 E. Van Buren Street, Chicago, Ill. 60605.

Another is the National Funeral Directors Association, 135 West Wells Street, Milwaukee, Wis. 53203. This association would have information on funeral costs in various parts of the country.

You might also want to inquire at your state capital with respect to any state laws that might apply in the case of cremation.

A report in this column several months ago on progress in development of electronic checkout equipment for supermarkets prompted a request for information from B.F.B.of Cleveland Heights, Ohio. The reader asks about the "optical scanners and the cash registers of which they are a part," and requests names of the companies that are experimenting in their development.

Companies now engaged in the development of this electronic equipment include:

International Business Machines Corp., Old Orchard Road, Armonk, N.Y. 10504; the Singer Co., 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10020; Pitney-Bowes, Inc., Walnut and Pacific Streets, Stamford, Conn. 06904; Litton Industries, Inc., 360 N. Crescent Drive, Beverly Hills, Cal. 90210; A.R.A. Services, Inc., Independence Square, W. 6th and Walnut Streets, Philadelphia, Pa. 19106; Scanner, Inc., 500 Jefferson-Cullen Center, Houston, Tex. 77002; RCA, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10020.

Several of these electronic systems are due to be tested in selected supermarkets in the near future.

What May Be Popular Soon On Ski Slopes

Skiwear of the future may offer ski suits electrically heated by battery, convertible street-to-slopes ski clothes, transparent boots, snap-on skis, second skin suits and units combining skis, boots and pants.

The new idea is to streamline the clothes, raise the body temperature and lighten the load for skiers at high speeds by using space age materials, such as titanium or boron that will make the clothes and equipment thinner, lighter, warmer and faster.

Wilma Hover who designs for Head Ski and Sportswear, believes in a one piece suit in a second-skin, four-way stretch fabric, with the boot actually built into the suit.

"ANOTHER VIEW OF HEALTH FOOD STORES"

Every so often there appears in the newspaper some item treated as news that is little more than a planted, editorialized diatribe as slanted as some Texas oil wells.

Such an article, derogatory of health foods, health food stores and their operators appeared in the Independent-Journal on the "Food Page" Jan. 10th, 1973.

Believing in fair play, equal space should be provided for rebuttle even if it must be bought and paid for. Health food stores have proliferated it is true. There are many valid reasons for their growth.

One such reason is the public desire for them, revealing a preference for Parkinson's Law over Parkinson's Disease.

We are what we eat spiritually and intellectually. If we are fed bogus intellectual food we will not touch a health food store with the hem of our garments. If we get phony spiritual food, or none at all, we may be starved to damnation.

Unfortunately there have been unscrupulous people in all ages who like the status quo. They need the unhealthy family the drugged society the sick individual in the same way a jailer needs inmates.

Somehow all this flack against health foods and the public use of vitamins and food supplements reminds us of the Apostle Paul who was beaten of the silversmiths for his having spoken against idolatery.

"Really, I haven't had any navigational training," Miss Kerr said. "My duties are as administrative officer, personnel officer and ship's secretary. You name it."

A Navy spokesman said a male line officer in Miss Kerr's job would technically be up for command of the Sanctuary in an emergency, but she will not.

"What I'm doing is essentially what I did when I was ashore at Lakehurst, New Jersey," the officer said.

Both officers agree the real story aboard the hospital ship is with the enlisted women.

"We have our officers' rank," said Ensign Nelson. "They're the ones who will have to live with any day-to-day problems."

MISS KNAPP, the first woman "striking" for bos'n's mate aboard ship, says she hasn't encountered problems.

Sometimes, she said, a male crew member will try to help her move something heavy.

"This lifting thing works two ways," she said after a busy morning chipping paint. "I once helped a little male sailor move a heavy anchor chain. That's all part of teamwork.

"Actually, I like it when a sailor helps me with something heavy."

Miss Knapp has gone through firefighting school with the other women sailors at Treasure Island. She hopes eventually to go to cargo handling school and specialize in that phase of deck work.

Hair Cutting Now For Cleanliness

Many men and women are cutting their hair because they want to look cleaner, neater, and they are tired of an unmanageable mane. Monsieur Marc who coifs fashionable women in New York, reports there is a definite trend toward the petite head.

"It's not a bouffant or a long head or a boyish bob, but a short cut that softens the neck and can be brushed forward or backward," he said.

MODERN-DAY CINDERELLA

President Nixon danced with Mrs. Susan Synder at an inaugural ball Saturday and both seemed to enjoy it. Mrs. Snyder was unidentified in first publication of the picture, causing people around the world to wonder who the pretty blonde dancing partner of the president was and setting of a Cinderella-type search which turned Mrs. Snyder up in Sterling, Va. Nixon also danced with his wife and confided it was the first time had had danced at an inaugural ball. Below, Mrs. Snyder plays Cinderella by slipping her foot into a boot held by her husband, Gerald, after she was located by a United Press International reporter-photographer team.

Nixon To Seek To Cut Government

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, reading a mandate for spartan self-reliance in his re-election, is setting out at once to reduce the reach and the grasp of government.

Nixon will within the next 10 days, turn to domestic reform and spell out the details of his inaugural prescription for a government that promises less and performs less, at home and abroad.

He is apparently convinced that the goal of his first term — "peace with honor" in Vietnam —is all but achieved and he can now concentrate on breaking Washington of the habits of paternialism and permissiveness.

Nixon's philosophical message Saturday left his political enemies in Congress uneasy. He offered no word of reconciliation or compromise and made no Johnsonian bid to reason together.

Instead he emphasized his differences in outlook with the liberals and said he was sure that the people now and history later would judge him right.

The details are to go to Capitol Hill soon in a sparse budget and in a State of the Union address that he will send up by messenger rather than deliver in person.

Nixon, at 60 in excellent health and in joyful spirit and at the peak of his presidential powers, laid down his goals for the next four years in the inaugural address over which he had worked in isolation on and off for eight days.

It was his first direct address to the nation since a television speech on the eve of his Nov. 7 landslide.

"Abroad and at home," he said, "the time has come to turn away from the condescending policies of paternalism —of 'Washington knows best.'"

Hatless in 50 degree weather and a chill breeze, the President addressed a loyal throng from the gleaming white portico on the Capitol's east front. He drew his biggest applause with a restatement of his distaste for the social programs which have mushroomed over 40 years of largely Democratic rule:

"Government," he declared, "must learn to take less from people so that people can do more for themselves."

He paraphrased the most remembered passage from the 1960 inaugural of John F. Kennedy and turned it to his own purpose "In our own lives, let each of us ask not just what will government do for me but what can I do for myself."

After standing behind bullet-proof glass for hours to watch the inaugural parade—it featured a band from suburban Virginia of 1,976 high school performers to denote the "Spirit of '76" theme—the President attended five inaugural balls Saturday night.

At a rock dance, he invited young ladies to cut in on him and 10 accepted his offer.

He was up early Sunday to worship at an ecumenical service in the White House and to attend a reception for members of his and his wife's families.

The weekend was very much Nixon's. After a lifetime of narrow victory and bruising defeat, it celebrated his overwhelming election victory over Democrat George McGovern. McGovern spent Saturday as a tourist in London. Nixon never again likely to be a candidate for public office, spelled out a personal vision of a different government.

It will be up to each American to make the next four years "the best four years in America's history," he said.

Abroad, the United States will meet its committments but "the time has passed when America will make every other nation's conflict our own, or make every other nation's future our responsibility or presume to tell the people of other nations how to manage their own affairs."

Republicans Praise Inaugural Message, Democrats Bothered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republicans praised President Nixon's inaugural message but Democrats found fault with his exhortation to the nation to be more self-reliant.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., said the speech confirmed his fears that Nixon was getting ready to trim domestic programs.

"Self-reliance is fine," Mondale said, "But what if you're sick? What if you're poor? What if you can't get a job? What if you're mentally ill or retarded? What if you can't speak English?"

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said the speech was inspiring. Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said it "set the tone Americans are looking for to bring a lasting peace."

Freshman Sen. Dick Clark, D -Iowa, said "nothing struck me as being particularly unusual or unexpected in the address." He said he was "sorry there was not something specific on the war."

Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., both presidential candidates a year ago, said they were concerned by the lack of any presidential reconciliation with the Democratic Congress.

Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., said he was disappointed the address omitted specifics and said that Nixon's "cliches are not always equated with his actions."

Rep. Margaret M. Hechler, R-Mass., said she "liked the content." California Gov. Ronald Reagan, a Republican, said he was delighted with the speech, adding "let's say he made it perfectly clear he does intend a decentralization" of government.

Protest Leaders Pledge More Demonstrations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The last of tens of thousands of antiwar protesters trickled out of Washington today with their leaders vowing they would continue mass street demonstrations until peace is achieved.

The protesters, most of whom left Saturday night and Sunday, following a mass march and rally demanding that the United States get entirely out of Southeast Asia and sign the peace accords, packed the last of their vans and autos and headed home.

They had kicked off their three days of "an inauguration of conscience" with a news conference at the gates of the White House and an anti-inaugural concert, conducted by Leonard Bernstein, on Friday.

They concluded their protest events on Sunday with an ecumenical service in which political, religious, show business and military personalities urged an end to the war.

U.S. Park police estimated the crowd at 60,000 Saturday afternoon during the main antiwar rally on the grounds of the Washington Monument. Some estimates were lower, some higher.

Leaders of both the National Peace Action Coalition and the Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice, co-sponsors of the mass march on Saturday, said they would continue to call street protests until there was a settlement of the war they liked — and they made it clear a ceasefire would be only the first step.

Both Dr. Sidney Peck of the PCPJ and Jerry Gordon of NPAC said they were surprised and pleased at the turnout of demonstrators on Saturday, the largest antiwar demonstration in Washington since April 24, 1971, when more than 250,000 people participated.

Youngster Wounded By Pellet Gun

Officers said that Tres Black, no age given, of Walters Road, was involved in horseplay at a friend's house Saturday when the pellet weapon fired into his right kneecap. The boy was treated at Marin General Hospital and sent home, officers said.

Bicycle Rider Injured In Fall

A 27-year-old San Francisco man was hospitalized after a fall from his bicycle at 12:45 p.m. Saturday on Muir Woods Road, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Patrolmen reported that Lake hit a puddle of water on the road, causing him to be tossed from his bicycle

Boys Arrested On Theft Charge

Sgt. Leo D Hutchinson said the youths were arrested in connection with burglaries at two Petaluma homes and at two boats in the Petaluma turning basin.

Police refused to name the youths on the advice of the Sonoma County district attorney's office They were released to the custody of their parents

Chappel Works Win Applause

By ADA GARFINKEL

Mrs. Chappell's paintings are fields of a single color with schematic renditions of memories and memorabilia. Some of her imagery are abstractions of fossils; others retain an organic entity; still others are from every-day usage abstracted to basic shapes, and knotty linear tensions. In its entirety, each painting becomes a forum for the artist's engagement in the evolution of life and in her own interacting relationships.

Some of Mrs. Chappell's titles are clues to this process: "All Souls Shells," "Mass for Whales at Amchitka Island," "Bride's Beach" and "The Garden (married life)."

The artist's color fields are tough and biting: acid green, raw blues, orangey-peach, somber pinks. Much of the imagery is in chalky white, outlined in black and further augmented with black running-stitch — not unlike a dress pattern or an architectural elevation plan.

In the aforementioned "Garden," a huge, pyramid-like monument becomes a symbolic climb with pipes and levers and household fixtures marking stages and landmarks in the pilgrimage onward. Erasures — light overpainting —add to the introspective biography.

Each of Mrs. Chappell's paintings (there are eight) needs to be savored slowly, since they are so rich in structural content and meaning.

Walter Chappell's photographs are more painter-like and sculptural than they are about people and nature in traditional photography.

Each of the 34 black and white shots is a studied arrangement, whether of meditative nudes in single or group poses, or of textural details such as palisade-like formations, or of a trapezoidal arrangement of delicate branches flanked by a slender steeple and a wooden overhang.

Still others have the liquid, kinetic quality seen in multiple exposures. This is particularly true of the only color print with its lava-like flow of red.

There is very little photographic spontaneity. The closest thing to what might have been shot in an "on-the-spot, let's get this one" way is the detail of a foot dangling lazily in a shimmering flow of sunfilled water.

The exhibits will continue through Feb. 17, and may be viewed from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday throug Thursday, and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

Bach-To-Mozart Group Adds Another Star To Marin Series

By VERA M. OLMSTED

The artistry of the Bach-to-Mozart Group, combined with the talents of its guest soloists, sparked a lively performance of chamber music last night as part of the Candlelight Concert Series at Del Mar School auditorium in Tiburon.

The concert series is by now an established Marin tradition, providing an opportunity to listen to fine music in a relaxed setting.

Every candlelit table was occupied with people sipping coffee or punch, eating dessert and obviously enjoying themselves. The large audience spilled over to chairs set up in back of the hall.

The Georg Phillip Telemann Concerto in D Major for Trumpet and Two Oboes opened the program. Edward Haug played the trumpet in a seemingly effortless manner, and with true intonation. Oboists Raymond Duste and Carolyn Michaelian added their solid musicianship to the solo group.

The overall ensemble had a few shaky moments in the firs movement, but settled down to polish off the second and third movements in fine style.

Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart wrote "La Clemenza di Tito" — last night's second offering — for the coronation of Leopold II of Bohemia in 1791. Although the opera was not a great success, several of the arias remain dramatically powerful music.

Guest artist Marie Gibson, soprano, sang Sextus's aria "Parto ma tu ben mio" from Act I. The interweaving of voice and clarinet obbligato,played by Frealon Bibbins, was marked by careful phrasing and clarity of line.

Also performed was the delightful Orchestral Suite No. 2 in B minor by J. S. Bach, scored for flute, strings and continuo.

In the first movement, a French overture in form, the dignified slow section used the flute principally to double the first strings. The lively fugal portion which followed became a showcase for the considerable talents of flutist Walter Subke.

The other six movements of the suite are dance forms, each with its own rhythm, tempo and character. The differences between them were admirably pointed up by the ensemble and the firm support of the harpsichord, cleanly played by Erika Matthes.

The aria from Albert Lortzing's opera "Zar und Zimmerman" was not performed due to a technical problem, disappointing both lovers of German comic opera and Russian history buffs.

Guest artist Robert Bernard, bass, substituted the aria "To God Our King," from Handel's "Occasional Oratorio." Phrasing and diction were exceptionally clear, and the imitative sequences between voice, trumpet and oboe were well balanced.

One of the highlights of the evening was the Quintet for Clarinet and Strings in B Flat Major, Op. 34, by Carl Maria von Weber.

The music is technically brilliant and rhythmic, relying more on strong contrasts as it moves from one idea to another, and less on thematic development. All of the possibilities of the clarinet are explored.

Frealon Bibbins displayed tremendous agility and beautiful dynamic control in his playing, especially when producing the striking pianissimo echo effects.

The last movement Rondo, with its brilliant arpeggio and scale passages, is reminiscent of Weber's piano works.

Miss Gibson returned to sing "Schweigt, ihr Floten," from Bach's Cantata No. 210, the "Wedding Cantata." This amusing aria declaims "Flutes be Silent," but did not succeed in intimidating Subke's versatile flute.

Miss Gibson was joined by Robert Bernard for the duet "Wann kommst du, mein Heil" from Bach's Cantata "Sleepers Wake." (No. 140.) Their voices balanced well although Miss Gibson sounded a bit forced in parts. William Pynchon played the intricate violin obbligato well, but one could have wished for a more ornamented realization in the harpsichord part.

The program closed with the happy and tuneful soprano aria "In Any Wind" from "Agrippina," an early opera in the Italian-style by George Frederich Handel. Miss Gibson used her voice to full advantage, singing with a smooth and flexible tone.

The next candlelight concert will be held Feb. 25 at 8 p.m.

Charming College Opera Production

By SYLVIA L. RUBY

A charming production of Arthur Benjamin's one-act opera, "The Prima Donna," opened this weekend in the Studio Theater at the College of Marin. Phyllis Murphy and Owen Orser, music and stage direc-'ors of the Opera Workshop, respectively, did a first-rate job with a talented and enthusiastic cast.

Set in 18ty Century Venice, the plot involves the visit of Florindo's rich uncle, the count, and the hope that entertaining him with the wiles of a beautiful singer will loosen his purse strings for his debt-ridden nephew. Unfortunately, however, two prima donnas rather than one show up and each is set to outdo the other.

Guest artist J. D. Nichols as Florindo lent strength to the performance with his professional acting and singing talents. He was ably assisted by tenor Michael Barbara, who played Florindo's good friend, Alcino.

As the sly housekeeper, Claudia Siefer made the most of her part and sang with a sweet, clear voice. The trio aria by these three, enumerating a list of foods to be served the count done in Italian-style opera, was terribly clever and well-performed.

Sopranos Laurie Ulmen and Tommie Sue Anderson were delightful as the two prima donnas. Both had lovely, well-trained voices in balance with one another, yet each displayed separate personality traits — Miss Ulmen, saucy and flirtatious; Miss Anderson, red-headed and fiery.

The plum role is that of Florindo's uncle, the count. Joseph Arone, with his rich bass voice and mature acting abilities, was perfect in the part. Delectably lecherous, he took full advantage of all the stereotyped behavior one would hope for, yet never overplayed the buffoon. His final seduction scene with its parody on birdcall songs was wonderfully funny.

Written in 1933, Benjamin's music borrows freely from varied styles. In the main it is pleasant light opera stuff, but there are overtones of grand opera as well as Gilbert and Sullivan. A really fine drinking song could have made it as a college or hit tune of the 1930s or 40s.

Also on the evening's program was a presentation of several scenes from various operas. These scenes are learning experiences for less experienced singers and for those who have never taken their vocal training to a performing stage. All were staged simply but effectively.

Some of Saturday night's scenes included "The Marriage of Figaro," "Don Giovanni," "H. M. S. Pinafore," "Carousel" and "Trouble in Tahiti." James Digby was good as the blustery captain in "H. M. S. Pinafore," and Janice Richard made an appealing Carrie Pepperidge in a song from "Carousel."

Virginia Murray showed class and elegance as the wife in the pensive duet from Leonard Bernstein's "Trouble in Tahiti" about a married couple drifting apart; Horace Hill did a nice job as the husband.

"The Prima Donna" and selected opera scenes will be presented again Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Studio Theater.

Concert Of Bluegrass Music Set

County musician Bill Monroe, known as the father of bluegrass music, and his Bluegrass Boys will perform at 8 p.m. Feb. 18 at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Monroe's music, considered one of the last remaining links between the styles of the 30s and those of modern country performers, is characterized by his ringing mandolin playing and high tenor voice.

In 1927, with brothers Charlie and Birch, he formed the Monroe Brothers, a band that toured the South and Midwest and he launched his radio career in 1930.

When the Monroe Brothers disbanded in 1938, Bill formed the Bluegrass Boys, named in honor of his native Kentucky, and like Al Hopkins and his string band of the 20s, the Hillbillies, he coined a term that would become a generic name for his distinctive style of country music.

Since 1939, members of the Bluegrass Boys have included such country performers as Lester Flatt and Earl Scruggs, Don Reno, Gordon Terry, Carter Stanley, Mac Wiseman, Jimmie Martin and Sonny Osborne.

Monroe is the composer of the classic "Mule Skinner Blues." Some of his other compositions include "Blue Moon of Kentucky," "Kentucky Waltz," "Rawhide," "Bluegrass Breakdown," and "Crossing the Cumberlands."

Tickets are available at Macy's, Ticketron and the auditorium box office.

Jed Barahal To Perform As Soloist

Cellist Jed Barahal, already an internationally-trained musician while still a senior at San Rafael High School, will be guest soloist with the Marin Symphony Orchestra at its second concert of the season, Jan. 30.

The concert will begin at 8 p.m. in the Marin Veterans Memorial Building, with Sandor Salgo conducting.

Barahal, the 1971 winner of the Marin Symphony Memorial Scholarship, recently returned from a year's study at the Geneva, Switzerland, Conservatory of Music. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Barahal, accompanied the youth while his father, a San Rafael High School instructor, was on sabbatical leave.

Barahal has studied cello for eight years, under Richard Anastasio of Dominican College. For the concert, he will play Schumann's "Concerto for Cello and Orchestra." The program also will include Beethoven's "Symphony No. 2" and Dohnanyi's "Orchestral Suite in F Sharp Minor."

Tickets for the concert are available through the Marin Symphony Association, P.O. Box 300, San Rafael, or at the box office.

Museum Winter Program Opens

The winter program at the Louise A. Boyd Marin Museum of Science in San Rafael opened today with such classes scheduled as ecology walks for adults and shark fishing jaunts for children.

Classes for junior and senior high school students and adults also will deal with birds of prey, veterinary medicine and spring wildflowers. Classes on reptiles, Indian history and sea life are open to children ages 6 to 12. Nature walks and workshops will be held for 3 to 5 year olds.

Employee Benefits Will Be Discussed

Employee fringe benefits will be discussed by the Dixie School District board when it meets at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the district administration building in San Rafael.

Clifford Lund, the district's insurance agent, will report on a study he has made of fringe benefits.

Two Stolen Crowns Recovered

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two jewel-encrusted crowns stolen from a Roman Catholic church in Brooklyn 12 days ago recovered by the FBI yesterday crime chieftains reportedly passed the word it would be "healthy" to return them.

Agents recovered the crowns, valued at $350,000, after a gruff-voiced man called their office about noon and told them, "The package you want is in the East Side Air Terminal, Locker 112."

The gold crowns, formed from the melted down wedding rings of World War II widows and then covered with diamonds and rubies, had been kept in a supposedly unbreakable glass case behind the altar at the Regina Pacis Shrine, where Mafia "boss of bosses" Carlo Gambino is a parishioner.

John F. Malone, assistant director of the FBI in charge of the New York office, said, "From our investigation and the fact that organized crime has been aware of our interest in the case, it's a possibility that they may have had a hand in the recovery of the jewels."

Progress Report Due Tonight

The Lagunitas School District board will hear a progress report tonight on a study which will be finished in March on how the district can use its facilities more efficiently.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at San Geronimo Valley School. The office of the county superintendent of schools is making the study at the request of the board.

The board also will discuss methods being used to evaluate the success of several district programs, including the open classroom system.

MOPPING UP AT HOUSE BLAZE

Fireman Larry Wall and an unidentified companion douse the smouldering remains of the O. E. Dehnert home at 44 Driftwood Court in San Rafael. Flames broke out shortly after 8 a.m. yesterday. Damage was estimated at $45,000 to the house and its contents. Dehnert and his daughter, whose name was not known by firemen, were at home at the time of the blaze, but both escaped. Firemen said the flames erupted near a fireplace in the living room.

Cell Fire Burns Prisoner

A San Quentin inmate serving a life term for murder was in Marin General Hospital today, recovering from serious burns suffered when he set fire to his cell, San Quentin authorities revealed.

Lee DeBord, prison information officer, said that inmate Frank Lopez, 32, of Contra Costa County, was reported in good condition, expected to return to the prison either this week or next.

Lopez set fire to wadded up newspapers outside his segregation-unit cell late New Year's Eve; the fire flared into the cell and ignited bedding and clothing, DeBord said. Lopez was transferred from the prison hospital to Marin General Hospital Jan. 2, and kept under guard 24 hours a day to prevent an escape attempt.

The convict was sentenced June 29, 1971, from Contra Costa County for a murder that was connected with the armed robbery of a bar in El Cerrito, DeBord said.

DeBord said today a prison officer on duty over the holidays apparently failed to report the incident because he "didn't feel it was a reportable incident" to the press.

DeBord also said "I don't know why it happened unless he (Lopez) was celebrating New Year's Eve with a little fire." He said the incident apparently was unrelated to recent disturbances in the prison.

Leroy Gerner Is Chosen Novato Citizen Of Year

Leroy M. Gerner, 59-year-old landscape designer, was honored as Novato's 1972 citizen of the year at the city's 13th birthday anniversary party Saturday night.

Gerner, instrumental in establishing along Novato Creek what later became known as Gerner Park, was awarded a plaque before about 250 persons at the Novato Community House.

Gerner, cochairman of the Novato Citizens Creek Committee and president of the Novato Civic Foundation, designed the park, coordinated volunteer efforts, worked at the site and patrolled the area when vandals struck.

He is a member of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission and formerly lived in San Anselmo and Mill Valley. He and his wife, Ruthella, have lived in Novato nearly seven years.

Nominees for the honor, besides Gerner, were Jerry A. Cannon, Gail Wilhelm, Charles Lewis and Rueben Kaehler.

The city also presented best design awards to Gerner Park; the Novato Realty building, 1122 Grant Avenue, and the Bellucci Apartments, 1100 Fourth Street.

Novato Realty and the Brass Ring, a toy shop at 817 Grant Avenue, received design awards for building signs.

The city also gave recognition to persons who have served on city commissions and committees during the past year.

Turnout Is Small In College Vote

A blanket mailing of ballot cards to all College of Marin students did not succeed in boosting the percentage who voted in the student government elections last week.

A total of 488 students cast their ballots, a figure which represents 7.5 per cent of all students, or 10 per cent of full time students.

The seven candidates elected to the Associated Students board of directors were Mark Conlan, Steve F. Coleman, William A. Essertier, Mark Riordan, Mark Bredt, Dava C. Evans and Charlie O. Price III.

A student body president will be elected by the board at its first meeting in February.

Rezoning Of Club Is Appealed By Fairfax

The Town of Fairfax has appealed a court ruling that rezoning of the Marin Town and Country Club by popular vote last April was illegal.

The appeal, filed Friday, means that the ruling of Marin Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson will be reviewed by the state Court of Appeal in San Francisco.

Club owner Max Friedman last month won a summary judgment from Judge Wilson invalidating the rezoning. The town council, in a fiery meeting two weeks ago, voted 3-2 to appeal Wilson's decision.

At issue is an initiative election held last April in which Fairfax Citizens voted by more than a 2-1 margin to rezone Friedman's 26.8-acre parcel from commercial to a designation permitting only private recreational facilities.

Friedman, who had closed his club, reopened the swimming resort after the public verdict, later reversed by Judge Wilson.

Fairfax Town Councilman Lee Nelder, who has opposed any town appeal of the Wilson ruling, said today the Friday filing "is a waste of taxpayers' money."

Nelder has contended that the private citizens group that sparked the initiative should finance the appeal.

The councilman also noted that the town council soon will be voting on a new zoning ordinance next month which will rezone the parcel to the private recreational designation anyway.

Nelder is supported by Councilman Robert R. Souza. The council majority has called the appeal proper, saying Friedman's plans to develop his land with apartments would change the character of the town.

Elderly Aid Bill Before Lower House

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to increase the number of people eligible for senior citizens property tax assistance has been introduced by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

Many elderly citizens deserve the relief, but cannot get it because of inequities in present qualification standards, Bagley said. His measure, AB 111, would limit the definition of household income to make it easier to qualify for the aid program.

The problem, Bagley said, stems from the fact that in order to be eligible a senior citizen must have a "household" income of less than $10,000. The definition of "household," however, is so broad that it includes nearly any relative or in-law, no matter how far removed and regardless of whether they can or will contribute to the expenses of maintaining the home, he said.

The bill would limit the term to husband and wife and others in the home who substantially contribute to household needs and expenses.

Marin Shoreline Plans Submitted

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Proposals for two shoreline projects in Marin, one on the east side of Strawberry Point and one in Tiburon on Raccoon Strait, have been filed with the Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Both will be heard by the commission at 2 p.m. on Feb. 1 in Room 1194 of the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue.

The Strawberry project, proposed by E. Gordon Smith of Tiburon, is for nine single-family homes and five docks covering approximately 1,600 square feet of water.

The property, below a bluff reached via a vacant lot adjacent to 355 East Strawberry Drive, was the subject of a controversial application that was denied by the commission in 1971. The applicant then, Stanley W. Taylor, wanted nine homes, all of which would have extended over the bay on piles, with extensive dredging and no public access.

Taylor fought the commission in court, but lost.

In the new application, none of the houses would extend over the bay, there would be no dredging and public access would be provided.

The two-story homes would cost about $50,000 each, plus the cost of the land, according to the applicant.

The Tiburon application, for a three-story, two-family house at 2042 Paradise Drive, was filed by Sanford Coplin, also of Tiburon. He proposes to dredge eight cubic yards of material from the bay floor to accommodate four pilings.

Portions of the structure totaling 672 square feet, or 21 per cent of the total, would extend over the bay on the pilings. Its cost was estimated at $85,000.

25 Color TV Sets Taken From Store

Thieves smashed into the Rainbow TV Center in the Bon Air Center, Greenbrae, yesterday morning and stole 25 color television sets.

Larkspur police said it appeared the intruders had backed up a truck to the store's front door to load the heavy sets.

Owner Keith Burkhart said today he had not completed inventory of the stolen merchandise, but estimated it was worth many thousands of dollars. Several of the sets were heavy table models weighing 135 pounds, he said, and normal delivery of such a large quantity would take at least 45 minutes.

The Rainbow TV Center also was burgled in October, when several TV sets were stolen.

Coast Commission Will Meet Wednesday

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO AIRPORT — The first meeting of the California Coastal Zone Conservation Commission will be held here Wednesday at 10 a.m. in the Savoy Room of the Hilton Inn.

The commission and its six regional commissions were created by voter approval of Proposition 20 on the November ballot.

The 12-member commission and its regional arms have three years to draft a plan for future use of the coast. All developments in the zone will require a commission permit during the three-year planning period.

The proposition allocated $5 million to the commission from the Bagley Conservation Fund.

The organizational session Wednesday will include election of officers and may also take up the issue of hiring staff. Joseph E. Bodovitz of Mill Valley, executive director of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission, reportedly is a leading contender for the top staff slot in the new state organization.

Marin Girl Is Model Governor

I-J Special Report

SAN LUIS OBISPO — A 17-year-old San Rafael girl defeated four male challengers and was elected governor of the Young Men's Christian Association Model Legislature during the YMCA's Youth and Government Elections Conference this weekend.

Lisa Morrison, 43 Kinross Drive, defended the newsman's right to protect confidential records and sources in a speech that led to her victory. She is the second girl to be elected in the history of the model legislature, which celebrates its 25th anniversary this year.

Lisa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morrison, is a student at Marin Catholic High School in Kentfield, where she is vice president of the student body and president of the ski club.

She will preside at the State Building in Sacramento when the model legislature convenes Feb. 1-4 and is scheduled for several meetings with Governor Ronald Reagan and other top legislative officials.

"I'm ecstatic," Lisa said of her victory. "I tried very hard. This is really an honor for me."

This summer, she also plans to attend the YMCA National Governors' Conference in Washington, D.C.

Youth Burned When Pants Catch Fire

David Leydecker of 58 Rafael Drive, son of Independent-Journal reporter Mary Leydecker and former Marin County Supervisor Byron Leydecker, was reported in serious condition today in Marin General Hospital with burns on his legs and buttocks.

Officers said they arrived at 1220 Irwin Street at about 2:30 a.m. after receiving reports of a fight and found the youth lying on the sidewalk amid shreds of burned clothing.

Area residents and firemen said he apparently had spilled gasoline or lighter fluid on his clothes and either had accidentially ignited the clothing or had tried to burn off the gas, police reported.

A neighbor said young Leydecker knocked at her door screaming for help and reported he was writhing on her patio with his pants on fire, according to police.

The youth told family members he was on his way home when he tripped over a can of liquid and became enveloped in flames when he lit a match to see what it was. He said he was refused aid when he went to a nearby home seeking aid.

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Louisiana leads the nation in the production of sulphur, salt, sweet potatoes and sugar cane syrup.

One More In School Seat Races

Only one new candidate had filed nomination papers by today in the April 17 school board races in Marin, the Marin County Elections Department reported.

Harold Drob, 50, of 559 Marin Avenue, Tamalpais Valley, filed for one of three seats open on the Mill Valley School District Board. He is business manager for the Learning Resources Center at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco.

Drob's wife, Pearl, is an artist and the couple has two daughters in Mill Valley schools. Drob, born and educated in New York City, is a veteran of Army field artillery service in Europe during World War II and received the Bronze Star.

Drob said he has been attending Mill Valley school board meetings for more than a year, and believes his money management experience would be valuable to the board.

Three trustees' terms will expire in Mill Valley, but only incumbent John H. Cutler so far has said he will seek reelection. Tamalpais Valley housewife and volunteer teacher aide Cate Bauer filed nomination papers last week.

Filings will close at 5 p.m. Feb. 15 for a total of 57 trustee seats in 21 districts in Marin County.

Tennis Club Is Due Discussion

Plans for tennis club buildings to be built on the Marist Seminary grounds in San Rafael will be discussed tomorrow by the city's planning commission.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in city hall. The Marin Tennis Club proposes to build a clubhouse and locker rooms covering about 4,175 square feet, 10 tennis courts, a stadium, swimming pool and parking facilities at the site once occupied by St. Peter Chanel Seminary in the Dominican area of San Rafael.

The club has already received a use permit for the property.

Special Meeting

A special meeting of the Bolinas School District board will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Bolinas School to call for an election to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Trustee John G. Barrow, who is leaving the district, and to consider calling a tax increase election, according to Supt. L. M. Horning.

GM Announces Recall Of 3.7 Million Cars

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors today announced it was recalling 3.7 million 1971 and 1972 full-sized Chevrolets, Buicks, Oldsmobiles and Pontiacs to install a shield that will prevent stones from lodging in the steering mechanism.

It was the second largest recall in history, both of them by GM. The other involved 6.7 million Chevrolets in which restraints were added in case engine mounts snap.

In the latest recall, GM said cars without shields could pick up stones "under very unusual circumstances" which could cause interference with steering control.

There have been 96 reports of incidents where this allegedly occurred, GM said. Twenty three of these reports involved accidents in which 12 injuries were reported.

GM has been under pressure from safety groups to recall the affected cars, but did not begin the recall until it had completed its investigation.

The company said it "decided that such a campaign was desirable even though there have been only a limited number of cases reported —all of them under very unusual circumstances."

In order to take care of the few cars which might become involved, General Motors will ask the 3.7 million owners of all these cars to bring them in, a GM spokesman said.

The shields will be installed at no charge to the owners who will begin receiving certified letters in about two weeks, the company said.

Magazine Claim On Watergate Pleas Denied

NEW YORK (UPI) — Time Magazine said Sunday the five guilty pleas in the Watergate bugging trial staved off testimony that former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and former White House aide Charles W. Colson approved the wiretapping of the Democratic National Committee.

Spokesmen for both Mitchell and Colson denied the report. Mitchell issued a statement saying, "The Time Magazine report, as it concerns me is an absolute falsehood." Colson made an unequivocal denial.

Time and Newsweek also reported that four of the defendants who entered guilty pleas had received and would get financial help from "friends" who wanted to "minimize the GOP's embarrassment" about the episode.

DATE ON BONDS AND INTEREST RATE: Bonds are to be dated the 2nd day of March, 1973, and will bear interest from said date. Interest rate is fixed in the Resolution of Intention, as amended, at not to exceed seven per cent (7%) per annum. Such interest shall be evidenced by coupons attached to each bond, and each of said coupons shall represent six months' interest on the bond to which it is attached. The first coupon will be for interest from March 2, 1973 to January 2, 1974.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: Said bonds are authorized to be issued by the Board of Directors of the San Rafael Sanitation District, Marin County, California, by Resolution of Intention No. 223, as amended, and proceedings subsequent thereto. The purpose is for the construction of a sanitary sewer system, together with the acquisition of all necessary rights of way. These improvements are within the boundaries of the assessment district designated, "Bayside Acres Sewer Assessment District, San Rafael Sanitation District, Marin County, California," and reference for details is made to the proceedings for the formation and completion of said assessment district.

PAYMENT: Both principal and interest are payable in lawful money of the United States at the office of the Marin County Treasurer, Civic Center Building, San Rafael, California.

CALLABLE BONDS: All bonds are callable pursuant to the provisions of the Improvement Bond Act of 1915 twice each year. No bonds may be called except on July 2 or January 2 and there must be a sixty day notice of call. Any bond called will have interest to date of call and a premium of five per cent (5%) of the principal amount.

AUTHORITY FOR ISSUANCE: Said bonds were authorized to be issued by the proceedings in said assessment district and said assessment district was organized and consummated under the provisions of the Municipal Improvement Act of 1913 and bonds provided to be issued under the Improvement Bond Act of 1915 of the State of California.

SECURITY: Said bonds are payable from the redemption fund provided by law which is secured by all of the unpaid assessments within the boundaries of said district. Said bonds are further secured by a limited guarantee on the part of the entity which issued said bonds. Under the provisions of the Improvement Bond Act of 1915, any real property on which the owners have failed to pay installments of assessments as they fall due is sold for delinquencies by the Sanitation District in the same manner as real property is sold for delinquent taxes. It is the duty of the San Rafael Sanitation District to bid such property in at such tax sale. It then becomes the duty of the Sanitation District to transfer to the Redemption Fund the amount of the purchase. In the event there is not sufficient money in the General Fund to transfer this amount into the Redemption Fund, it becomes the mandatory duty of the Sanitation District to levy a tax up to 10c on each $100.00 of assessed valuation of property within the boundaries of the San Rafael Sanitation District sufficient in amount to pay for the delinquencies. It becomes the continuing duty of the Sanitation District throughout the life of the bond issue, to levy such a tax and to pay for the installments upon property sold to the Sanitation District for delinquencies. The maximum levy which the Sanitation District is obligated to make in any one year is 10c on each $100.00 of assessed valuation. The assessed valuation of all taxable real property in the San Rafael Sanitation District for the fiscal year 1972-73 is $114,720,120.00. Ten cents on the $100.00 would therefore raise, in the San Rafael Sanitation District, the sum of $114,720.00.

LEGAL OPINION: The legal opinion of the law firm of Sturgis, Den-Dulk, Douglass & Anderson, 1322 Webster Street, Oakland, California, 94612, approving the validity of said bonds will be furnished to the successful bidder without charge. In the opinion of Counsel, interest on the bonds is exempt from all federal income taxes, and from State of California personal income taxes, under presently existing statutes, regulations and court decisions, and the bonds are also exempt from all California taxes except inheritance, gift and franchise taxes.

HIGHEST BID: Bidders are requested to name the interest rate or rates not exceeding seven per cent (7%) per annum in multiples of 1/8 or 1/20 of one per cent (1%). Each bidder must specify in his bid the amount and maturities of the bonds of each rate and all bonds maturing on the same date must bear interest at the same rate. No bid may name more than four interest rates, any of which may be repeated. No rate may be more than one and one-half per cent 1½%) higher than the lowest rate named in the bid. The interest payable on any bond on any interest payment date may, however, be represented by one or more coupons. A zero rate cannot be named for all or any of the time from the date of the bond to its stated maturity and the premium, if any, must be paid in the funds specified for payment of the bonds as part of the purchase price. No bid of less than 97% of par and accrued interest or for less than all of the bonds offered will be entertained. Unless all bids are rejected, the bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose proposal results in the lowest net interest cost to the issuer, and the net interest cost will be determined by deducting the amount of any premium paid from or adding the amount of any discount to the aggregate amount of interest upon all of the bonds from their date until their respective maturities.

RIGHT OF REJECTION: The San Rafael Sanitation District reserves the right at its discretion to reject any and all bids and to waive any irregularity or informality in any bid. Any bid must be in strict conformity with this Official Notice Inviting Bids, and without any qualification.

PROMPT AWARD: The San Rafael Sanitation District will take action awarding the bonds or rejecting all bids not later than forty-eight (48) hours after expiration of the time herein prescribed for the receipt of proposals.

PROMPT DELIVERY: Delivery of the bonds will be made to the successful bidder at the office of the County Treasurer of the County of Marin, Ex-Officio Treasurer of the San Rafael Sanitation District, Civic Center Building, San Rafael, California, as soon as the bonds can be prepared, but not earlier than the date of said bonds. Successful bidder, by making a bid, agrees to pay for and take delivery of the bonds within forty-eight (48) hours after notification by the San Rafael Sanitation District that the bonds are ready for delivery, but bidder is not obligated to take delivery earlier than the date of the bonds. The successful bidder shall have the right at his option to cancel his offer to purchase if the bonds are not tendered for delivery within 45 days from the date of the bonds.

FORM OF BID: All bids must be for not less than all of the bonds herein offered for sale. Each bid, together with bidder's check, must be enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed to the Secretary of the San Rafael Sanitation District, and endorsed "Proposal for Bonds, Bayside Acres Sewer Assessment District, San Rafael Sanitation District, Marin County, California."

BID CHECK: With each bid must be submitted a certified check or cashier's check for $10,000.00 drawn on a bank or trust company transacting business in the State of California, payable to the order of the San Rafael Sanitation District, to secure the Sanitation District from any loss resulting from the failure of the bidder to comply with the terms of his bid. Check of the unsuccessful bidders will be returned by mail upon the award of the bonds. Check of successful bidder will be credited upon the purchase price of the bonds, and no interest will be paid upon the deposit of any successful bidder. Check of the successful bidder will be forfeited to the Sanitation District if the bidder fails to pay for and take delivery of the bonds within the time provided for in this notice as liquidated damages.

NO LITIGATION CERTIFICATE: The San Rafael Sanitation District will furnish to the successful bidder, at the time of the delivery of the bonds, a no-litigation certificate, certifying that there is no controversy or litigation pending or threatened concerning the validity of the bonds.

OFFICIAL NOTICE INVITING BIDS FOR THE PURCHASE OF BONDS, BAYSIDE ACRES SEWER ASSESSMENT DISTRICT, SAN RAFAEL SANITATION DISTRICT, MARIN COUNTY, CALIFORNIA

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the sealed proposals will be received by the District Administrator of the San Rafael Sanitation District, Marin County, California, located in Room 301, City Hall, 1400 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, California, at the hour of 10:00 o'clock A.M. on the 7th day of February, 1973, for the purchase of $770,110.34 principal amount of bonds for Bayside Acres Sewer Assessment District, San Rafael Sanitation District, Marin County, California. Said bids will be publicly opened, examined and declared at said time and place.

These bonds are authorized to be issued, and the assessments are authorized to be levied, under the provisions of Resolution of Intention No. 223 of the Board of Directors of the San Rafael Sanitation District, adopted on the 25th day of August, 1971, as later amended, and proceedings subsequent thereto. The Resolution of Intention, as amended, provides with relation to said bonds as follows:

Red Force Foiled In Land-Grab Try

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese infantrymen and armored units kept two battered North Vietnamese regiments pinned in deep jungles north of Saigon today while waves of U.S. Air Force B52s pounded the retreating Communists, military spokesmen said.

Six waves of heavy bombers roared over the Michelin rubber plantation Sunday night and dropped more than 500 tons of bombs on the Communist troops pulling deeper into the heavy jungles, according to U.S. Command reports.

Fighting broke out suddenly in the area 40 miles north of Saigon Friday afternoon when the Communist force was caught trying to sneak in close to the capital area to prepare for a land-grab after a cease-fire.

The two South Vietnamese battalions that made the initial contact were outnumbered and badly mauled in the opening round. The understrength Communist regiments numbered about 1,600 men and the South Vietnamese force was about 1,000, according to military sources.

But tactical warplanes, artillery and armored units moved in with infantry reinforcements and pushed the Communists back into the steamy jungle after a fight that lasted through Saturday. The Saigon command said 325 Communists were killed and South Vietnamese losses were 46 killed and 116 wounded.

The Communists on Sunday offered to to free 130 South Vietnamese prisoners wounded in the battle. But commanders bypassed the offer because prisoners had been used as bait in a successful ambush in the same area earlier Sunday, the Saigon command said.

In addititon, a command spokesman said, South Vietnamese helicopters and spotter planes drew fire during the day when they flew over the designated pickup zone in the Michelin rubber plantation, 40 miles of Saigon.

The prisoners were members of the South Vietnamese 5th Infantry Division who were wounded Friday in the heaviest single battle in South Vietnam in six months. Military sources said allied aircraft wrote an explosive finish to the battle Sunday night after they were called in by a U.S. Air Force aC130 Spectre gunship crew who spotted a convoy of 100 Communist trucks snaking from the Cambodian frontier toward the battlefield.

The sources said the planes destroyed 33 of the trucks and damaged 51 others.

The final toll of the battle was 46 South Vietnamese soldiers killed, 116 wounded, and 325 North Vietnamese soldiers killed, the sources said.

A Communist broadcast Sunday said the prisoners could be picked up any time that day or until sundown today by unarmed helicopters marked with red crosses.

"We did not respond to that proposal because our aircraft flying over the pickup area were shot at by ground troops," a South Vietnamese spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the Communists tried twice Sunday to entice South Vietnamese troops out into the open to pick up wounded prisoners. They succeeded the second time because the troops and prisoners were from the same outfit and knew each other, the spokesman said. But the toll was only one South Vietnamese soldier killed and 10 wounded, he added.

At the height of the three-day battle, contact was so close that B52 bombers were ordered to avoid the site due to the risk of hitting South Vietnamese troops, military sources said. One survivor told a reporter troops on both sides became so intermingled they were shooting their own men.

TAIPEI (UPI) — Premier Chiang Ching-kuo said today his government never will negotiate with the Chinese Communists.

"In the past 20 years," Chiang said in an exclusive interview, "the Chinese Communists have sent out numerous trial balloons and started many rumors about peace talks with us.

"But let me give you my word of honor that we will never enter into any negotiations with the Chinese Communists," he said. "Our decision in this respect is not based on political dispute or personal grudges. It is a matter of life or death."

Chiang, 62, is the eldest son of President Chiang Kai-shek and is the leader who runs the daily affairs of the Nationalist government in Taiwan.

In his first interview since becoming premier last June 1, Chiang said that continued American support of South Vietnam is the key to Asia's future.

"It is our sincere hope that President Nixon would firmly support South Vietnam as it is the key factor in the Asian situation," Chiang said.

"If Vietnam is allowed to fall to the Communists, then other countries in the area such as Thailand, Laos, Cambodia, Singapore and Malaysia will also fall.

"South Vietnam, South Korea and Taiwan are the three crucial points in Asia. If they fall to the Communists, the entirety of Asia will go."

Young Chiang, second only to his father in power in Taiwan, suffers from diabetes but appeared to be in excellent health during the interview in his office. He works 10 to 12 hours daily and never drinks or smokes.

The premier said the Nationalist government still expects to regain control of the China mainland, which it lost to the Communists in 1949. The Nationalists then retreated to Taiwan, an island 100 miles off the China coast.

"We plan to recover the China mainland by 30 per cent military efforts and 70 per political efforts," Chiang said.

"We will emphasize the political rather than the military measures. It's not that we are going to invade a foreign country. We are just returning to our own territory and therefore political measures are more important than military ones."

Chiang, who served as defense minister before he became premier, said Nationalist Chinese military forces include a regular army of 550,000 men backed by a force of 1.7 million men.

"We are confident of the defense of Taiwan against Communist attacks because we are militarily strong enough," Chiang said. "Our people in Taiwan and on the offshore islands of Kinmen (Quemoy) and Matsu will rise up against the Communists in the event of attacks to protect their properties, their families and their own lives." The premier said Peking lacks leadership.

"The problem the Chinese Communists have now is the lack of leadership," Chiang said. "There have been drastic changes in the basic political system of the Chinese Communists and their internal situation has not been steady.

"It is a matter of time that the Chinese Communist regime will topple, and the only problem is whether this will happen before or after the death of Mao (Chairman Mao Tse-tung)."

Chiang said his government cannot overlook the number of countries which have broken diplomatic relations with the Nationalists and recognized the government in Peking.

"But what matters is whether we have the ability to maintain our contacts with those nations with whom we no longer have diplomatic relations," the premier said.

"Since we lost our United Nations seat a year ago, many nations have severed diplomatic relations with us. We have been able to maintain economic and cultural relations with nearly all of them with the exception of only one or two.

"We know this is a special situation. We don't take it easily and we are not pessimistic."

Ten Commandments In School Proposed

WASHINGTONG (UPI) — Evangelist Billy Graham has proposed the daily reading of the Ten Commandments in the nation's schools as a less controversial religious exercise than the offering of classroom prayers.

Graham made the suggestion yesterday at President Nixon's interfaith worship service. The initial reaction was not favorable.

"I believe that every Jew, Catholic and Protestant would agree that the Ten Commandments should be read every day in every classroom in America," Graham said in his sermon. "Our young people flounder because they are uncertain as to what is right and wrong. They wait desperately for someone to tell them."

Speaking with a reporter later, Graham said he was making the proposal to see what the reaction would be. He said actor Charlton Heston, who starred in the movie, "The Ten Commandments," thought it was "a great idea."

The Supreme Court twice has ruled against the mandatory offering of prayers in the classroom, and a proposed constitutional amendment to authorize such prayers has failed in Congress to date.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, who was at the service, said the reading of the Ten Commandments could not take place "at this time."

"So far even the Psalms are unconstitutional," he said.

Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin, Wilshire Boulevard Temple, Los Angeles, and Roman Catholic Archbishop Joseph L. Bernardin, of Cincinnati, who also gave sermons, expressed their support of the content of the commandments—but their reservation about reading them as Graham suggested.

"I would certainly agree with the main thesis that the Ten Commandments are as valid today as they ever were and that we have an obligation to teach them to our people and to relate them to our situation," the archbishop said.

"But whether they ought to be taught in this way, that's another matter, and I'm not prepared to comment."

Said the rabbi: "I know he means, that the gist of it is that the Ten Commandments should be taught. But it would bring up in the minds of thousands of people the question of church and state. It would be controversial."

"The Ten Commandments are the basis of moral law," Graham said.

Small Explosion Leads To Suspects In Slaying

Authorities said a tipster told Butler County Sheriff Clyde Hendrix he had seen one of the suspects, Dallas Ray Delay, 33, at the garage a few days before Kittermans were murdered.

The tipster reportedly told authorities Delay had a pistol and something resembling a dynamite stick, which he exploded with gun powder.

"I'm going to use this to rob a bank," authorities said the tipster quoted Delay as saying.

Ripley County Prosecuting Attorney James Hall said Sunday Delay, Lloyd Dwaine Cowin, 21, and Jerry Rector, 22, each would be charged with three counts of first-degree murder. The three lived in Van Buren, Mo., about 15 miles northwest of Grandin.

Authorities said the trio had been camping in a wooded area where a fake bomb and currency were found. The makeshift campsite was about seven miles from where the bodies of Kitterman, 43, his his wife, Bertha, 38, and their daughter, Roberta, were found last Wednesday. The victims had been tied to small trees and each was shot once in the head.

About one hour before the bodies were found, Kitterman had rushed into the Bank of Grandin, of which he was president, and scooped about $11,000 from the vault. He told a bookkeeper that his wife and daughter were being held by extortionists. Kitterman said dynamite had been strapped to his chest.

Authorities said a device consisting of a short fuse, a small metal box and a set of wires and batteries was found at the campsite. They also found money in a blood-stained blue pillowslip, a .32 caliber automatic and a sack, bearing the words "please return to Bank of Grandin." The amount of money recovered was not revealed.

It was believed the Kittermans may have been killed because they knew the extortionists and could identify them to police. Hall said Kitterman served on a jury three years ago that convicted Delay of auto theft.

Italy Changes Money System

ROME (UPI) — The government introduced a "two-tiered" money system today for lira dealings against foreign currency, a measure adopted earlier by France and Belgium.

The system divides commercial and financial — or speculative — transactions.

The Bank of Italy, an announcement said, will continue to maintain the exchange rate on straightforward commercial dealings connected with the exchange of goods, services and tourism. In such transactions, the bank will continue to hold the price of the lira to within 2.25 per cent above or below internationally-agreed limits.

Muslim Death Motive Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A special 11-member police squad probed for a motive in the murder of seven members of a Muslim group today, interviewed one victim who survived the grisly attack and cross-checked reports that a gun used in the killings was stolen.

The special squad was assigned yesterday to handle only the case in which two adults and five children were slain Thursday in a $78,000 house once owned by Milwaukee Bucks basketball star Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. The house was later donated by him to the Hanafi Muslim sect of which he is a member.

The two adults and two of the chidlren were shot to death. Three other children were drowned in a bathtub.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Iron Deficiency Is The Cause Of The Most Common Anemia

The most common, treatable anemia is caused by iron deficiency. In the United States, it is prevalent in almost every age group and is reported to be widespread among women in their reproductive years and in children under the age of 3.

Lack of iron may lead to irritability, loss of appetite, and listlessness. However, the majority of victims are unaware of the deficiency because it is borderline.

THIS TYPE of anemia occurs whenever blood iron loss exceeds iron intake in the diet. Hemorrhage is an obvious cause, but bleeding may be absent when it comes from the stomach or intestines and is not noticeable in the stools. In most instances, the cause is dietary. Many of the victims are poor and cannot afford or do not wish to eat foods rich in iron.

Almost all foods contain some iron. Milk has the least iron content and infants are likely to develop anemia if they are not given solid foods after 4 to 6 months of age. This is more lilely to occur if they have small iron stores at birth.

To be of any value, the iron in food must be absorbed. Iron in plant foods, for example, is less well absorbed than that from meats and eggs. From 15 to 20 per cent of the iron is absorbed from diets containing large amounts of animal protein, while only five to ten per cent is absorbed from diets composed of vegetable foods.

IRON DEFICIENCY is widespread in young women. This has been true for a hundred or more years. At the turn of the century, the condition was called chlorsis, because the girls had a waxen, sickly green complexion. Then, as today, it was caused by a deficiency of dietary iron. Recently, the Chicago Board of Health conducted a study of approximately 1,000 pregnant teenagers, 15 years old or younger. Approximately 60 per cent were anemic or had hemoglobin concentrations of less than 11 (normal 12 to 16).

Iron-enriched foods, such as cereals and flour, are helpful. Treatment of this type of anemia involves correcting the cause and taking iron tablets or capsules. Ferrous sulfate (USP) is one of the cheapest and best.

TALL AT 12

Mrs. R. A. G. writes: My 12-year-old daughter is the tallest in her class. Is there a way to retard further growth?

REPLY

Yes, but only if X-rays of her long bones show that additional growth can be expected. It is much better to let well enough alone. Furthermore, from this point on, her classmates may have a growth spurt and she might end up shorter than her friends.

KITCHEN BURNS

C. T. writes: What is the best way to treat a burn incurred while cooking?

REPLY

Control your temper, apply ice until the pain subsides, and then wash the area with soap and water. Cover with a sterile dressing and secure with adhesive tape or bandage.

'INHALES' CALORIES

Miss M. writes: My mother, a restaurant worker, claims she gains weight because she inhales grease fumes all day. Is this possible?

REPLY

Only from the fumes she inhales as she nibbles on food.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Sad News For A Tree Cutter

Only God can make a tree, but any fool can cut it down.

If the tree doesn't belong to the cutter, he'd better be prepared to pay, pay, pay. For the law allows three times the actual value if injury to the tree is wilful and malicious. That means not only the value of the tree itself, but the injury the owner may suffer.

For example, Larry Lucas hired a gardener to cut down Charley Goodman's trees. These trees blocked the view from Larry's home. The trees were worth $800 but the court awarded $2,400 damages.

The court said in effect, "Lucas knew the trees weren't on his land. Yet he disregarded his neighbor's rights and cut the trees for the sole purpose of improving his view. The acts were wanton and wilful and warrant triple damages."

Suppose you cut someone's trees by mistake? That isn't wilful and malicious. Then you pay double, instead of triple. Say, however, that you did this because you relied on a boundary line fixed by a licensed surveyor. Then you pay only actual "single" damages.

Consider Paulette Bunyan, who had a lease on land with the right to remove timber. She was mistaken in believing that her lease was still in force. She had cut and removed some trees. Her lessor sued. The court awarded the mandatory double damages.

True, Paulette didn't act malicously. She made a mistake. Still the law awards double damages. The purpose of the law is to prevent the wrongful cutting of trees and the burden is on the cutter to make sure he has the right to cut. Said the court: "Section 3346 gives treble damages against the rogue and double damages against the blunderer."

Some trespasses are crimes. Removing crops, taking shrubs or even dirt and rocks are acts of trespass. The person may be sentenced to up to six months in jail and a fine of $500.

A new subdivision may change many environmental conditions. For example, it may cause changes in drainage of rain. This can cause flooding and deposits of mud on property nearby. This is an act of trespass or the creation of a nuisance. The injured party may recover damages and also get an injunction to make the developer correct the nuisance. (Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.)

Four Are Killed In Plane Crash

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — A twin-engine Cessna 310 crashed on landing at Omaha's Eppley Airfield Sunday night. Four persons were killed and one critically injured.

Authorities said the plane was enroute from a point in Kansas, but its destination was not immediately known.

Witnesses said the plane approached the airport from the southwest during a freezing drizzle, but fell short of the runway and slammed into a dike which protects the airport from the Missouri River.

ALMANAC

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Monday, Jan. 22, the 22nd day of 1973 with 343 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening star is Saturn.

British poet Lord Byron was born Jan. 22, 1788.

On this day in history:

In 1789, the first American novel, "The Power of Sympathy" by Sarah Morton, was published in Boston.

In 1963, the nations of France and Germany — old foes — signed a treaty pledging cooperation in foreign policy, defense and cultural affairs.

In 1968, Communist North Korea seized the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo in the Sea of Japan and took 83 crewmen captive. The crew was released 11 months later and North Korea kept the vessel.

In 1972, a pact was signed to enlarge the European Common Market to 10 by the admission of Britain, Ireland, Norway and Denmark. Norway later voted against joining the trade community.

A thought for the day: British scientist Havelock Ellis said, "A man must not swallow more beliefs than he can digest."

Smuggling Conviction Is Given

A Santa Rosa woman has been convicted of smuggling Scotch to her inmate husband at San Quentin, but a Marin Superior Court jury acquitted her on a charge of smuggling secobarbital.

The jury in the court of Judge Charles R. Best deliberated for two days before returning the mixed verdict in the case of 35-year-old Ruby Bonita Medina.

Mrs. Medina was arrested July 24 during an overnight visit to her inmate husband, Benjamin. Prison officials said she was carrying a partially consumed bottle of Ballantine's Scotch and three balloons containing white powder.

Guards went to the cottage where the Medinas were enjoying a 48-hour visit because Medina, a convicted robber and burglar, appeared to be under the influence of a drug at morning roll call.

Mrs. Medina's defense was that the drugs came from inside the prison, but she failed to convince the jury on the alcohol count. Sentencing was set for Feb. 9.

Two Are Injured In Explosion Of Rail Tankers

POWDER SPRINGS, Ga. (UPI) — A Seaboard Coast Line freight train carrying five tankers of butane and other forms of gas derailed and exploded "like an atomic bomb" Sunday night about 500 yards from a chemical plant. Two crewmen were injured.

Two tankers containing LP butane gas exploded after the train skipped the tracks in a sparsely-populated area, but police said the three remaining tankers held some sort of "deadly, toxic" gas.

Police said the chances were "remote" the fire would endanger the chemical plant, but said there was danger of the other tanks exploding.

Police said at 2 a.m. that the fire apparently had been brought under control.

Plea Is Entered On Reduced Charge

The Independent-Journal erroneously reported Jan. 5 that Carole Ann Desalernos, 31, of San Francisco, was sentenced for drunken driving.

Originally charged with the violation, she pleaded guilty on Dec. 21 to a reduced charge of reckless driving. She was placed on probation for six months and fined $182.

Mr. J. Oliver Finds Way To Help Shrink Painful Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues

...caused by inflammation and infection.

Junction City, Kansas.—Mr. J. Oliver writes; "I couldn't get relief. Then I bought Preparation H. I surely recommend it. It's worth its weight in gold."

(Note: Doctors' tests have proved Preparation H® actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation. It's so effective that in many cases the first applications give prompt, temporary relief from pain and itching in such tissues. There's no other formula like Preparation H.)

Haerle Backed By Reinecke For GOP Post

Reinecke told California Republican Assembly directors he favors the former member of Gov. Ronald Reagan's staff because of his "past performance."

The vice chairmanship is regarded as an automatic stepping stone to the chairmanship and the CRA's political activity committee has recommended Truman F. Chambell, chairman of the Fresno County Central Committee.

Reinecke's suggestion was made Saturday at an inaugural ball.

NO JOKE

North thought he was joking, but astoundingly enough South did make his contract by ruffing a club in the dummy.

West opened the king of diamonds and continued with the ace. South ruffed, drew two rounds of trumps and then took the ace and king of hearts.

Declarer's next step was to lead a low heart. If the two missing hearts were evenly divided, South could safely ruff in dummy.

West could not gain by discarding. Dummy would ruff, and South would ruff a diamond to regain the lead. South would then draw the last trump and cash the queen and another heart. At the end, South would give up two club tricks.

DISCARDS CLUB

West saw all this and therefore ruffed the third heart with the jack of spades. South discarded the deuce of clubs from the dummy, beginning his campaign to shorten dummy's clubs.

West led a third diamond, and South ruffed with his last trump. Now South cashed the queen and six of hearts, discarding two more clubs from the dummy.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠- J 8 7
♡- 9 5
◇- A K 6 2
♣- A 9 7 4.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one club.

If partner bids two clubs, you will pass; and if he bids one diamond, you will raise to two diamonds. If you opened the bidding with one diamond and partner responded two clubs, you would have to bid three clubs — a decided overbid with your minimum values.

Chiang's Health Is Said Excellent

TAIPEI (UPI) — President Chiang Kai-shek's eldest son says his father's health is excellent after his recovery from pneumonia last year. Chiang, 85, is the last surviving allied leader from World War II.

"The president last year had a cold, and due to lack of proper rest, it developed into a case of pneumonia," the president's son, Premier Chiang Ching-kuo, said in an interview. "He has recovered," Chiang's son said, "but he is taking more rest as ordered by the doctor so that his recovery will be complete." Other sources said the president has resumed his custom of after-dinner walks and meets almost daily with his son, who directs government affairs.

A Great Day For Mr. O.J.

After watching O.J. Simpson run over, around and through some of the best defenders in the National Football Conference yesterday I can't help but wonder how many yards he would gather each year if he were playing for a good team.

Buffalo isn't a team which can boast the best blocking in the NFL, and for O.J. to go over the 1,000-yard mark for the Bills, which he did this past season, it was like being a 20-game winning pitcher for the Texas Rangers. It was the first Pro Bowl for Simpson and all he did was set a game record by rushing for 112 yards, caught three passes for 58 yards and was named the game's outstanding performer to the surprise of nobody who saw the game on television.

My only worry yesterday was that the television set would blow a fuse. After all, 61 points in one game in this age of the defense is shocking. That final score, American Football Conference 33 and National Football Conference 28 made me think back to the early days of the American Football League when such scores were common place. Since that time professional football has improved its defense — so much that many of the games turn into bores. Fans like to watch touchdowns, not field goals.

Anyway, it was great to see the 49ers and Raiders contribute to the excitement of the game. Tight end Ted Kwalick of the 49ers scored a touchdown on a 12-yard pass from Norm Snead and Raider running back Marv Hubbard scored for the AFC on an 11-yard run, so the Bay Area supplied 12 of the 61 points. And 49er linebacker Dave Wilcox intercepted a pass and made some fine tackles.

And what about the Packer bruiser John Brockington who scored three of the NFC's touchdowns? Put him in the same backfield with Simpson and you've really got a combo.

But let's switch our attention from that football field in Irving, Tex., to the boxing ring in Kingston, Jamaica. The smart money that flows through channels everytime a heavyweight championship is held says Joe Frazier will win, with odds of 3½ to 1 posted. But Bay Area fans who would rather bet with their hearts are picking George Foreman of Hayward to win tonight's title bout.

Foreman has always had the distinction of being "the Nice Guy," since his rise to the National scene in the 1968 Olympics when he won a gold medal in the heavyweight division and then proudly danced around the ring waving a small United States flag. In an Olympics in which anti-U.S. demonstrations were gaining headlines, it was refreshing to many at home to see this boxer dancing around a ring in Mexico City waving that American flag.

Since that time Foreman has won all 37 of his professional fights, 34 by knockouts, but none of the boxers was the caliber of Smokin' Joe. Foreman will be in a different ballgame tonight.

SHORT HOPS — Honor Jackson, safety for the New England Patriots, tied a team record this season when he intercepted passes in three straight games, tieing a mark held by five other players. Jackson was a star performer at Tamalpais High and College of Marin before his football days at University of Pacific . . . Although some critics correctly said there weren't enough camping displays for the common folk and it was geared too much for the affluent, the San Francisco Sports and Boat Show set in an attendance record of 387,524 during its 10-day run which ended yesterday.

San Diego Acquires Baltimore's Unitas

BOTTOMS UP — Boston Bruins' star Bobby Orr tried to kick the puck away from the stick of a California Seals' player yesterday in a National Hockey League game in Oakland. Although sprawled on the ice, Orr managed to deflect the puck away in this first period sequence. The Bruins won, 5-2. (UPI Telephoto)

Quarterback Traded For 'Future Considerations'

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Johnny Unitas, who became football's greatest quarterback after joining the Baltimore Colts as a free agent castoff in 1956, was traded today to the San Diego Chargers for "a future consideration."

Unitas, 39, demanded that he be traded after he was benched by the Colts following the firing of head coach Don McCafferty last fall.

Unitas, who had a 10 year $1 million "personal services" contract with the Colts, to take effect upon his retirement, said after he was benched that he would never play another season with the Colts and that he didn't intend to retire.

At the time of his benching he was among the leading quarterbacks in the AFC. In his last play before the hometown fans Dec. 3 Unitas threw a touchdown pass in a 35-7 romp over the Buffalo Bills.

The Colts benched Unitas and some other veterans when general manager Joe Thomas, unhappy with the team's 1-4 record, decided the team needed major overhauling.

The trade had been simmering for some time but Unitas had said he wanted to be traded to a winning team. The Chargers were 4-9-1 in 1972.

"No other players or draft choices were involved in the agreement," Thomas said after the trade was announced. "The Chargers will assume only Unitas' standard player contract and the Colts will, of course, meet all future obligations accrued by Johnny Unitas during his playing career with the Colts."

Thomas refused to say when the transaction will be completed. He is still in the process of interviewing applicants for the head coaching job, vacant since interim coach John Sandusky was fired at the end of the season.

Reports from San Diego indicated last week that veteran quarterback John Hadl would be traded. Hadl led Sunday's 33-28 AFc victory in the Pro Bowl in Dallas.

If Hadl is traded then it appeared Unitas would be assured of a starting job next season under head coach Harland Svare.

"The Chargers are honored and proud to acquire John Unitas, the greatest quarterback ever to play the game," Coach Harland Svare said in San Diego.

Unitas was signed by Don Kellett for the Colts in 1956 after he was cut during the preseason by the Pittsburgh Steelers. He became the starting quarterback shortly after the season started and held it without serious competition, except when he was out with injuries, until he was benched in 1972.

He has set virtually every pro football passing record, passing for more yardage and touchdowns than any other quarterback.

He led the Colts to three World Championships and nine division titles and won the adulation of millions in the 1958 sudden death playoff with the New York Giants, which the Colts won 23-17. He was an allpro six times, he played in 10 pro bowls and was the NFL's Most Valuable Player in 1957, 1964 and 1967.

Unitas was quoted by the Baltimore Evening Sun as saying he doesn't know if he will play for San Diego.

"Just because I've been traded doesn't mean I'll be going to the West Coast," Unitas said. "For one thing, I don't know if it's legal. I'll just have to sit down and look at things and then talk with the San Diego people."

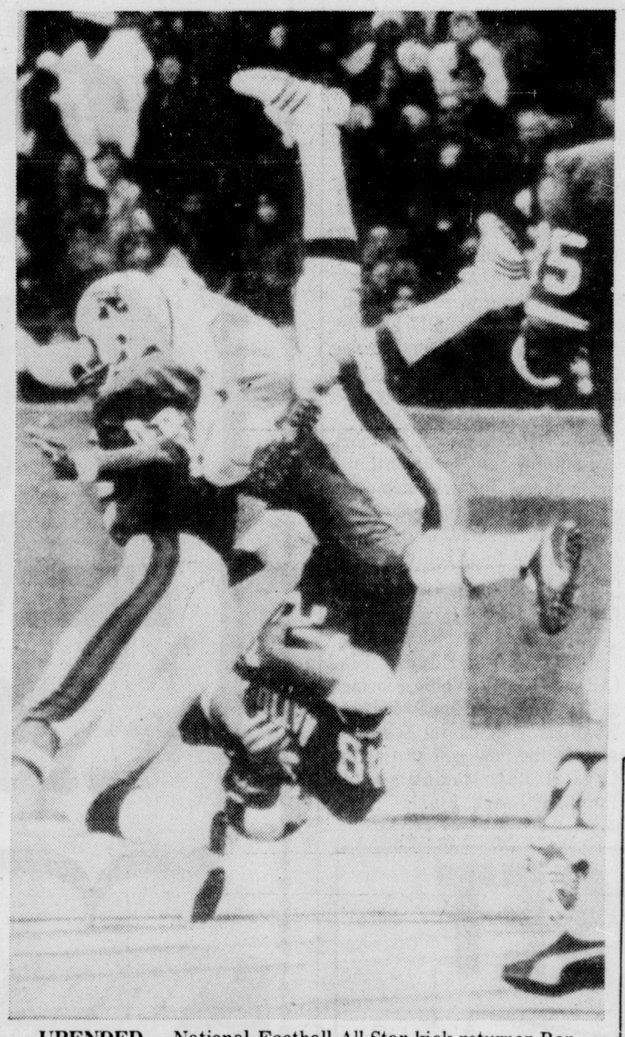
Simpson Leads AFC Win, Climaxes Top Pro Season



UPENDED — National Football All-Star kick returner Ron Smith (48) was knocked upside down by American Football Conference defender Robert James (20) yesterday in the Pro Bowl in Irving, Tex. Smith had returned the kickoff 55 yards to open the third quarter before being halted and jumped on by James. The AFC won, 33-28. (UPI Telephoto)

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — O.J. Simpson took four years to reach the plateau in pro football expected of him from the first moment he signed with the Buffalo Bills.

And on a gloomy, damp day in Texas Stadium yesterday, Simpson climaxed his most rewarding season by helping the American Football Conference achieve total domination— at least until next year—of the National Football Conference.

The AFC All-Stars whipped the NFC all-Stars in the third Pro Bowl between the two conferences 33-28 to finish off a season that also included a one-game edge in inter-conference play for the American Conference and a victory in the Super Bowl by AFC Miami over NFC Washington.

The AFC also took a 2-1 lead over the NFC in National Football League Pro Bowl competition.

"There is no doubt about it," said Kansas City flanker Otis Taylor, who caught a five-yard scoring pass from Oakland's Daryle Lamonica for one of the AFC's four touchdowns. "The rivalry still exists.

"It may not be as intense as the old days, but it's there. We wanted to win when we started workouts a week ago. Coach (Chuck) Noll told us the first day we were here to win and that was the attitude of the entire squad the whole week."

Despite that attitude, it looked for a while like the NFC was going to salvage a little pride.

The AFC fumbled twice in the first period and the NFC turned them both into touchdowns by John Brockington— one on a one-yard run and the other on a three-yard pass from Washington's Billy Kilmer. It was 14-0 and the AFC had shown little.

"We made a lot of mistakes and they were capitalizing on them," said Ted Hendricks, Baltimore's linebacker. "I thought it might turn into a rout. But we hung together, eliminated our mistakes and forced them into turnovers."

And once that first turnover came the AFC's way in the form of a Kilmer fumble, O.J. Simpson stepped in to lead the rally.

With a third down and one situation facing the AFC at the NFC 22, Simpson bolted for 15 yards and then got the call on the next play. He sprinted seven yards, dove into the end zone and the AFC was on its way.

After two field goals by Pittsburgh's Roy Gerela had closed the deficit to one point in the third quarter, Simpson ran 14 yards to set up an 11-yard scoring run by Marv Hubbard.

And early in the fourth period Simpson carried the ball four times in the drive which led to Lamonica's touchdown pass to Taylor.

Bobby Bell of Kansas City, without the slightest help from Simpson, stepped in front of a Norm Snead pass seconds later and ran 12 yards for another

The Troubled Seals Seek Winning Way

The Boston Bruins last night spoiled the opener of a three-game Seals' road trip, running up a 5-0 lead and holding on for a 5-2 National Hockey League win.

Johnston, who hopes to get back in action this week, is looking for a helmet to protect his broken jaw. He needs one that will allow him vision while on the ice.

"Everytime I looked down in the helmet I was using in practice last week I would lose the puck," he said. The bars got in the way every time I looked at my feet."

The Seals were outshot 34-23 Sunday night and suffered their third loss in as many games at Boston this season.

Marin '5' Wins, Moves Into 1st

It was worth waiting for.

College of Marin's basketball team was forced to stand around Saturday night in Cupertino while De Anza College held the ball, but the Tars eventually achieved a 43-32 victory. As a reward for their patience, they took over undisputed possession of first place in the Camino Norte Conference.

They had been tied with West Valley of Campbell, but the Vikings were upset Saturday night by Skyline of San Bruno, 80-77. Marin now leads with a 4-0 record, stands 16-2 overall, and couldn't have hurt its No. 2 ranking in the state.

"We really kept our poise," said Tar coach John Panagakis. "We began to play as patiently as they were — only we were scoring and they weren't."

De Anza led at halftime, 10-9, but Marin got a break early in the second half when the Dons' coach was called for a technical foul. Tar forward Joe Casteel had blocked a shot, and the coach thought goal-tending should have been called, Panagakis said.

Guard Joe DeMaestri made the foul shot, the Tars took the ball out of bounds and forward Wil Garner, who scored 22 points, made a field goal. Marin never trailed afterwards, and built the lead to 15 points midway through the half.

Panagakis praised the defense. "We intercepted three inbounds passes," he said. "(Guard) Len Smith held their good shooter, Rick Hoffman, to zero points before switching off to guard this guy (Mich) Plaat (who got 20). Against a stall, it's easy to get impatient, and that's when they start to hurt you. But we kept our poise.

"And we tripled them on the boards, something like 36-12."

Santa Clara Man Wins Cyclo-Cross

Mike Neel of the Turrin Bicycle Club from Santa Clara County slogged over the muddy, 6.4-mile course along Paradise Drive in an hour and six minutes yesterday to win the senior A division in the first Marin Cyclo-Cross, conducted by the Marin Cyclists.

Tom Reynolds of Tiburon, a member of Marin Cyclists, won the senior B competition. A field of 15 cyclists competed for $320 in prize money, "the biggest prize list anybody in the field had ever seen for cyclo-cross," according to race director Mark Horwitz.

Heavy Security Tonight For Frazier-Foreman Title Fight

KINGSTON, Jamaica (UPI) — Police officials revealed today extraordinary precautions have been taken against any possible sabotage or bombing under the ring for tonight's World Heavyweight Title fight here between champion Joe Frazier and George Foreman.

At today's weigh-in Foreman held a three and a half pound advantage as the challenger scaled 217½ to Frazier's 214.

Douglas McFarland, assistant police commissioner, confirmed "there have been threats of sabotage."

He did not reveal the source of the threat but said 740 police officers and more than 200 armed federal troops have been assigned to national stadium, site of the fight.

The fight program will be shown on closed circuit television at four Bay Area outlets starting at 6:30 tonight. It will be shown at the Richmond Auditorium, Oakland Coliseum, and San Francisco's Winterland and Orpheum Theater.

"It is true there have been threats of sabotage," said McFarland "but we have taken certain precautions. It would be no use for anyone to try to damage the lighting system at the stadium because we have two separate generators on hand."

Forty plainclothesmen guarded the ring 24 hours prior to the fight.

"It will be no good for some idiot saying they have placed a bomb under the ring," said McFarland, because we took over the stadium 24 hours before the fight.

As an extra precautionary measure, Premier Michael Manly of Jamaica ordered the 200 federal troops in addition to the regular police officials.

Egan Youngest Coach In NBA

Combined AP & UPI

HOUSTON — John Egan, for years the smallest player in the National Basketball Association at 6-feet, today is the youngest coach in the league at 33.

Egan, a 12-year veteran from Providence College, was promoted from assistant coach to head coach of the Houston Rockets yesterday to replace Tex Winter. Winter, head coach the last year and a-half, was fired by general manager Ray Patterson an hour and a half before the Rockets ended their 10-game losing streak by beating the New York Knicks 107-103.

Winter, 50, was expected to have the Rockets in contention in the Central Division this season but they were in third place, 12½ games out of first and only a half game ahead of last place Cleveland when he was fired. The Rockets finished fourth last season and had an overall record of 51-78 during his tenure.

Egan, who played with many of his teammates, said the team needs more discipline and he intends to see that they get it.

PREP BASKETBALL

Petaluma At Home For Hogan, Vallejo

Petaluma High School battles the city of Vallejo this week, as the Trojans host first the dangerous Hogan Spartans tomorrow night at 7 o'clock, and then take on the league leading Vallejo High Apaches Friday night in two North Bay League basketball crucials.

In other area high school hoop action tomorrow night at 7 o'clock, Analy of Sebastopol visits Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park in a Sonoma County League game and Tomales host St. Helena in a non-league match.

The Trojans are currently in a five-way tie for second place in the NBL at 2-2 with Santa Rosa, Montgomery of Santa Rosa, Napa and Ukiah — two games behind Vallejo which is 4-0 in league play.

Hogan, which is tied for third place with Vintage of Napa at 1-3, was rated one of the stronger teams in the NBL in preseason polls. Since then, the Spartans have fallen on hard times, losing to Ukiah by 24 points, Napa by nine and Vintage by eight.

The Spartans are potentially very dangerous, though, as they knocked over previously unbeaten Santa Rosa, 50-47 — the same Panther squad that beat Petaluma 63-59.

Rancho Cotate will try to get back into the win column against winless Analy. The Cougars are 2-1 after a 66-51 loss to Sonoma, and one and a-half games behind SCL leaders Cardinal Newman of Santa Rosa, which they host Friday night. Analy lost a 40-38 overtime game to the Cardinals in the last 11 seconds Friday night.

The Tigers are one of the biggest teams in the league, led by 6-foot-3 cornerman Jay Bartholmew and 6-4 Mark Gonnela. "They are bit and strong and tough on the boards," Cougar coach Mike Francis commented. "Considering their strength on the boards, we are going to pick our shots better.

Miss Willis' victory was achieved by a scant .05 over Susan Chan of Drake, even though Miss Willis did not win any of the four events — floor ex, bars, balance beam and vaulting.

The top 50 per cent of the novices and beginners, top 75 per cent of intermediate school and all nine intermediate open entrants will advance to the intersectional meet Feb. 24 at Burlingame High School. No gymnasts in the advanced category competed Saturday.

1ST BASEMAN

A's Sign First Player—Tenace

OAKLAND (UPI) — Gene Tenace, hero of last year's World series with four home runs, is the first member of the World Champion Oakland A's to sign his 1973 contract.

News of his signing, for a modest raise, leaked out during the weekend although the A's had hoped to keep it secret for a few days and announce it with some fanfare.

The A's also announced the signing of ace right-handed pitcher Jim (Catfish) Hunter for a "substantial salary boost." Terms of the contract for the 21-game winning pitcher were not disclosed, but Hunter admitted he received a good pay raise.

"I just happened to stop by the office 10 days ago," said Tenace, a catcher last year but a first baseman this year, "and Mr. (Charlie) Finley was there. He showed me my contract, I was satisfied with it and I signed it right away."

Naturally, Tenace would not reveal how much he signed for but he indicated there was a raise attached to the agreement with Finley.

Finley tried to give Tenace a $5,000 bonus for his World Series heroics but Commissioner Bowie Kuhn ruled he couldn't because it was a violation of baseball rules. It is presumed Tenace was given that $5,000 plus another $5,000 as a raise for 1973.

"Let's just say I'm happy with what I got," he said. "Mr. Finley took care of me."

Tenace, while busy getting his family ready for the move to a new home in suburban Ramon Village, said he is anxious for spring training to get underway.

"At this time of the year, you're always anxious," he said.

Tenace told Finley after the World Series his shoulder ached and that was why he was unable to keep the Cincinnati Reds from stealing everything but his mitt in the Series. That, plus other reasons, prompted Finley to unload first baseman Mike Epstein, despite the fact he led the A's last year with 26 home runs, to the Texas Rangers for reliever Horacio Pina.

Finley said at the time he traded Epstein because he wanted Tenace to play first base where the demands wouldn't be as great on his throwing arm.

"I think I can do the job at first," said Tenace. "I've played there before so it's not a strange position. With time I should be able to hold up my end."

Swimmer Backhaus Stands Out

Robin Backhaus of the Marin Aquatic Club won three events in the boys 15-17 age bracket Saturday to help boost the North to a 292-220 victory over the South in the third annual California All-Star Age Group, swimming meet, conducted by the Pacific Association, Amateur Athletic Union.

Backhaus won the 200-meter freestyle in 1:43.3, the 200 individual medley in 1:59.0 and the 500 free in 4:40.4 at the Culver City High School natatorium.

Maura Campion, also of the Marin A.C., was a member of the first-place 400 free relay team in the girls 13-14 bracket, and captured two second places — the 200 free in 1:58.2 and the 200 I.M. in 2:16.6.

Other Marin A.C. swimmers in the top three were Jo Hislop, second in the girls 15-17 100 free in 54.3; Sue Kay, second in the girls 13-14 50 free in 25.9; and Joe Dunn, third in the boys 13-14 200 butterfly in 2:07.7.

The victory was the third straight for the Northern California team, and was achieved with more ease than the previous two, each of which went down to the final relay.

Conroy's Four Goals Lead Bantams' Win

Ken Conroy scored four goals and assisted on another yesterday as the Marin Amateur Hockey Club Bantams defeated Santa Rosa, 8-3, for the lone victory by Marin.

The Pee Wees lost to Santa Rosa, 5-1, the Midgets lost to Sun Valley, 3-0, and the Mites and Squirts were idle.

Margaret Seeks 2nd Title In Row

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Ladies Virginia Slims tennis tour moves on to Los Angeles this week and with Billie Jean King on the shelf with a wrist injury, Margaret Smith Court has a chance for her second title in as many starts this year.

Mrs. Court, with Billie Jean watching from the sidelines, had little trouble whipping Kerry Melville, 6-3, 6-3, Saturday night to wrap up the British Motors title at San Francisco's Civic Auditorium.

It was quite a performance for Mrs. Court, who gave birth to a son last year and was not expected to be in her best form this soon. But there was little question who would win the BMC once Mrs. Court got past Rosie Casals of Sausalito Friday night in the semifinals. It was Mrs. Court's ninth consecutive tournament title and brought her $6,000.

Her victory in the BMC was a smooth display of tennis. Against Miss Melville, she was content to stay back and hit ground strokes.

"I've found that I usually have to play her that way," said Mrs. Court. "If I rally with her for a while, she eventually makes an error. What I try to do is hit the ball down the middle, because she likes to hit those wide shots on the run. I don't blame her, that's her strength."

Miss Melville had nothing but praise for Mrs. Court.

"She just has no real weakness," said Miss Melville. "There just is no simple way to beat her."

AT CANDLESTICK

Giants To Begin 'Informal' Work

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Weather permitting, the San Francisco Giants will hold the first of a series of "informal" workouts at their home base in Candlestick Park today.

Among those expected to tale part in the drills, under the care of first base coach Joe Amalfitano, is Willie Mccovey, the big slugger who became the first member of the Giants to sign his 1973 contract—for $120,000—during the weekend.

The workouts, to be held today, Wednesday and Friday until batterymen report to the spring training base at Casa Grande, Ariz., on Feb. 19, are being staged on a voluntary basis with only those players living in Northern California—some 14—invited to take part.

McCovey, the acknowledged club leader, said he hopes he can lead the Giants to a division title this year. Last year, he went out after the fourth game with a broken bone in his left forearm and managed to come back and play in only 70 games—with a foot long steel rod in his arm. Despite his problems and limited play, McCovey hit 14 home runs and has a career total of 384, fourth highest ever on the Giants.

The Giants finished fifth in the six team National League West last year after winning the division the year before. McCovey attributes that to his loss plus physical problems suffered by star pitchers Juan Marichal and Sam McDowell.

"Juan had what they say is a successful operation on his back and Sam has been resting his arm all winter," said McCovey, "so both should be ready to pitch the way we know they can. If I can come back with them, then we have as good a chance as anyone to win the Division.

"A lot of youngsters got a chance to play last year and that year of experience under game conditions should help in their progress. I'm a little excited about the coming season. When you look around and see promising kids like Dave Kingman, Ed Goodson, Jim Barr, Ron Bryant, Jim Willoughby, Garry Maddox and Gary Matthews, you have to get excited."

Novato Visits Redwood Five

Novato High School, alone at the top of the Marin County Athletic League basketball standings after a stunning series of events Friday night, will take its three-game winning streak to Larkspur for a crucial game with Redwood High tomorrow at 4 p.m.

The Hornets lead with a 4-1 record, but the Giants are just behind at 3-2, tied with Drake and Terra Linda. In other games tomorrow, Drake visits San Rafael at 4 p.m., Terra Linda invades San Marin at 7 and Tamalpais plays at Marin Catholic at 7.

If the season's first weekend constituted a Night of Upsets, then Friday was a new, improved version. Four of the top five teams lost, Tamalpais won its first league game of the year, and Novato moved into the undisputed lead.

"All those wind sprints paid off," said Hornet coach Jim Caranica, who essentially went with five starters all the way against a Drake team with a deep bench and a fondness for running.

Novato's last four games have been decided by three points or less, and the pressure-hardened Hornets have won three. They have all been at home, however, and now Novato must play seven consecutive games on the road.

The Hornets' victory Friday was achieved because of the inside work of 6-foot-5 center Willie Barnes, who scored 22 points, and the outside shooting and defense of guard Tom Conklin. Antoher factor was the play of improving junior forward Curtis Saine, the only starter who did not also start last year. He scored 13.

Caranica received a neighborly assist from cross-town rival San Marin, which beat Redwood for the first time in its history. The Giants, with no regular player scaling more than 6-2, fell victim to the inside work of 6-5 Mustang center John Tait. Tait's 28 points tied the high-point total for the MCAL this year. Price (Skip) Starnes, a 6-5 junior, added another 13.

San Marin now meets the league's most enigmatic team, Terra Linda, which has not won at home and has not lost on the road. The game is at San Marin. so the Mustangs may be in trouble.

Terra Linda fell victim to the "good things come to he who waits" offense of Marin Catholic in a 45-34 upset which knocked the Trojans out of a share of first place. The Wildcats will try their waiting game against Tam, but in a different sense, Tam has been waiting the longest of any team.

The defending champion Indians lost their first four, and three of them weren't even close, but erupted to stun San Rafael Friday. Center Mike Dinehart scored 24, but perhaps more importantly, the Indians got 30 points from three players who weren't even with last year's title team — Hollis Ownes, Frank Jandura and Ethan Winterling.

San Rafael now has lost three in a row after two opening victories, and picked a bad team to try to reverse a streak against. Drake had won three straight prior to the loss to Novato.

St. Vincent Wins; Loss For Tomales

St. Vincent High School of Petaluma kept pace with North Central League II frontrunner Kelseyville by beating host Calistoga 61-56, and Tomales fell further behind with a 70-58 loss to host Kelseyville in basketball action Friday night.

St. Vincent is now 2-0 in NCL II play, one-half game behind the Indians at 3-0, and the Braves fell two and a-half games back as their record dropped to 0-2 in league play.

Bob Vyenielo led the Mustangs to victory with a 21-point, 29-rebound effort. He was helped by Dan Tocchini who added 14 points.

The Braves were blown out of the game by a 27-point second quarter by Kelseyville. The Indians came back in the third period to add 23-more points for a 58-40 lead. Russ Sartori scored a game high 23 points to lead Tomales in defeat.

ONE-ON-ONE — Milwaukee Bucks' center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (33) backed in towards the basket against Golden State Warriors' pivot man Nate Thurmond in Milwaukee yesterday. The host Bucks won the National Basketball Association game, 124-108.

Ailing Barry Hopes To Play Versus Lakers

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Golden State forward Rick Barry sprained his ankle against Milwaukee yesterday night, but says he hopes to be back for a weekend series with the Los Angeles Lakers.

"In the past I've been a quick healer," Barry said. "I was supposed to be out a couple of times for a few weeks but I was back in four or five days."

The All-Star Warrior forward injured the ankle and was forced to leave the game in the second quarter after scoring 15 points.

The Bucks, sparked by a third quarter 12-point explosion by Lucius Allen, downed Golden State 124-108.

A Warrior spokesman said it is "highly improbable" Barry would play in the NBA All-Star game Tuesday night at Chicago. However, he is expected to accompany the team there.

The injury occurred when Barry was driving for the basket and became sandwiched between Milwaukee's Dick Cunningham and Curtis Perry.

Barry fell to the floor, landing on the side of his left foot. He limped back into the game later and made two free throws to give the Warriors their final lead of the game 43-42 but he could not continue after that.

"It changes our offense quite a bit when Rick goes out," said interim Warrior Coach Nate Thurmond.

"Rick is an integral part of our team," Thurmond said. "Against teams that we can defense a little better, we could better afford his loss, but the Bucks can score a lot of points on you in a hurry."

That's just what Milwaukee did. In one four-minute stretch of the third quarter, the Bucks scored 18 points to only two for Golden State.

ABA ROUNDUP

Utah Beaten By San Diego

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Utah Stars took the expansion San Diego Conquistadors too lightly Sunday night as as a result found themselves with only a 3½ game lead in the American Basketball Association's Western Division.

The expansion Conquistadors, with Ollie Taylor scoring 15 of his 23 points in the second half, rallied from a three-point deficit in the final quarter to upend the Stars 97-92.

Stew Johnson and Red Robbins hit baskets to put San Diego ahead and the Q's held on for the last 10 minutes. Johnson finished with 22 points while James Jones led Utah with 25.

In the only other ABA games Sunday, The Kentucky Colonels defeated the Denver Rockets 118-111 and the Dallas Chaps whipped the New York Nets 105-98.

Walt Simon scored 26 points as the Colonels overtook Denver in the second quarter and held off a late Rockets' rally. Dan Issel added 21 points and Artis Gilmore 20 for Kentucky while Ralph Simpson was high man for Denver with 30.

Rich Jones, an All-Star choice, scored 29 points and Joe Hamilton's three-point play ignited a nine-point burst in the last quarter that carried Dallas over the Nets. George Carter had 33 points for New York.

Heavy Security Slated For Frazier-Foreman Title Go

coolness down here toward American tourists on the part of the local Jamaicans. To forestall any possibility of trouble from the fight fans tonight at National Stadium, about 1,000 police and army personnel will be close to ringside. There are seating accommodations for 42,000 but the actual crowd may be less than 20,000 judging from the way ticket sales have been going.

Foreman, 24, has been brought along carefully, his opponents being hand picked by manager-trainer Dick Sadler. There hasn't been much reason for Foreman to think about losing. His last defeat came back in 1967 as an amateur in the Golden Gloves after which came an Olympic Gold Medal.

Foreman has never been seriously hurt in the ring as a pro. He hasn't given his opponents much time to do any damage.

Frazier has remained remarkably cool, and even made an appearance at a local night spot just three days before the fight. But mostly he kept to himself over the weekend, getting mentally prepared for what could be a tough fight, physically, for him.

Frazier, who has won all of his 29 pro fights, the last two not that convincingly, must answer some questions about his health. Some say he was permanently damaged when he decisioned Muhammad Ali almost two years ago. His fights against Terry Daniels and Ron Stander last year didn't do much to disprove that theory.

But the champion has trained hard for this fight and feels he's ready. "I didn't slack back in my training at all," he said. "I've been workin' hard, turning it on.

"I'm well now. I got my health. We all get sick. Heck, I ain't no Samson, no Superman."

COLLEGE ROUNDUP

UCLA To Visit Loyola Cagers

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

With nationally ranked University of San Francisco and Providence disposed of in ridiculously easy fashion, the UCLA Bruins take the show on the road against Loyola of Illinois Thursday and Notre Dame Saturday in a shot at the all-time college basketball winning streak record.

The Bruins, playing in their home court, routed No. 11 San Francisco 92-64 Friday night and demolished No. 9 Providence 101-77 Saturday night to run their 1972-73 season mark to a perfect 14-0 and their consecutive streak to 59.

If they beat Loyola Thursday, that will tie them with the 1955-56 Bill Russell-K.C. Jones led USF team for the all-time consecutive victory mark and they can shoot for the record on Saturday against Notre Dame, the last team to beat them way back during the 1970-71 season.

Providence Coach Dave Gavitt, after watching the Bruins take his team apart, said "I don't know if anyone can beat UCLA. I'm sure no one can beat them at home. They do everything exceptionally well. We tried five different defenses against them and they had answers for every one."

With Bill Walton hobbled somewhat by an ankle injury late in the first half, Larry Farmer became UCLA's big man against Providence, scoring 21 points and pulling down 24 rebounds. Walton and guard Larry Hollyfield added 18 each in the rout.

With USF suffering its second loss of the season in 14 starts, No. 6 Long Beach State took over as the West's second best team by beating Creighton 68-51. That gave the 49ers a 14-1 record and this week they play once—in New York against Northern Illinois.

All but USC among the Pacific 8 teams played outside the conference last Saturday and all of them won. Washington routed Montana 77-59, Oregon beat Cal Poly of Pomona 73-63, Oregon State got past Idaho 77-59, California downed San Jose State 79-68 and Stanford edged Utah 80-71. USC was idle.

In the West Coast Athletic Conference, Nevada-Las Vegas defeated Nevada Reno 101-90 in the only league game to move into third place in the standings while Seattle shaded Portland 60-59, St. Mary's lost to San Francisco State 80-78 and Loyola bowed to New Mexico 75-69.

In the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, Fresno State defeated Weber State 79-75, UC Santa Barbara downed Northridge State 73-65, Pacific lost to Illinois State 95-56 and San Diego State bowed to Arizona State 95-70.

Games of note on tonight's schedule find California hosting Nevada-Reno and Pacific at Montana State. Las Vegas plays at St. Mary's and Reno at UC Davis tomorrow, while on Wednesday, Santa Clara is at Pacific before the big weekend schedule.

Sonoma State, second in the Far Western Conference standings at 3-1, is at Bakersfield tonight, at Fresno Pacific on tomorrow and then takes the rest of the week off. League leader Chico State is 4-1.

FOOTBALL

AFC touchdown.

Simpson wound up gaining 112 yards, by far the best rushing performance in the three years of the AFC-NFC Pro Bowl, caught three passes for 58 yards and was the unanimous selection as player of the game, thus winning the $2,500 trophy created by Delmas and Delmas Jewelers of San Rafael.

"This was just unreal," Simpson said. "It was a tremendous honor just to be selected to play. This was what I call a fun game, and I haven't had too many of those in pro football."

After Brockington's two first period scores the NFC could not get on the board until it was too late. But even then the NFC made the score look a little better by pushing across two touchdowns in the final minutes, on a one-yard plunge by Brockington and a 12-yard pass from Snead to San Francisco's Ted Kwalick.

NBA ROUNDUP

Hayes Makes Points In Clubhouse, Court

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Elvin Hayes made his big point during the game, then added another telling one when it was over.

With just 4:34 left in Sunday afternoon's game against Philadelphia, Hayes hit on a 15-foot jump shot from the left side of the key for his final two points of the contest. They also were points No. 10,000 and 10,001 for his National Basketball Association career, making Hayes only the third player in league history to reach that lofty plateau within a five-year period.

But in time-honored tradition, Hayes downplayed his own performance in relation to that of his team, the Baltimore Bullets.

"It wouldn't have meant anything to me if I was playing on a losing club," he said following Baltimore's 108-97 victory over the 76ers. "But playing on this team has been the best thing that's ever happened to me and coming the way it did, playing on a winner, is why it meant so much.

"We've won seven straight games and we're in first place and that's why it meant a lot."

By winning, the Bullets increased their first-place lead in the Central Division to five games over runnerup Atlanta, which was idle.

In other games Sunday, the Milwaukee Bucks beat the Golden State Warriors 124-108, the Boston Celtics beat the Buffalo Braves 104-97, the Houston Rockets edged the New York Knicks 107-103 and the Los Angeles Lakers beat the Kansas City-Omaha Kings 123-102.

Boston stretched its hex over Buffalo to 15 consecutive games while lengthening its Atlantic Division lead over the Knicks to 2 1-2 games. John Havlicek scored 26 points for the Celtics while game honors went to Elmore Smith, who had 32 points for the Braves.

Mike Newlin hit a six-foot jump shot with six seconds to play to snap a 103-103 deadlock against New York and Don Smith added an insurance basket at the buzzer as Houston made a winner of John Egan in his coaching debut.

Wilt Chamberlain scored a season high of 29 points and pulled down 21 rebounds to lead the Lakers to their sixth victory in the last seven games.

Sleep Helps WHA Sharks Coach Slater

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Some coaches spend the night at the drawing board and others just dream away.

"I had a dream to put Odrowski at center," Slater explained Sunday night after Los Angeles had edged the Cleveland Crusaders, 3-2.

And so it was that Jerry Odrowski, normally a defenseman, started at center and with the game just 25 seconds old he converted a pass from Gary Veneruzzo to score his fifth goal of the season and put the Sharks ahead to stay. Veneruzzo followed with his 29th goal five minutes later and Mike Byers added what proved to be the decisive goal early in the third period.

In the only other World Hockey Association games Sunday, the New England Whalers snapped Winnipeg's six-game winning streak by beating the Jets 7-2, and the Houston Aeros moved into second place in the Western Division with a 5-1 victory over the Ottawa Nationals.

CRONIN'S GUIDELINES

Designated Hitter Rule Clarified

BOSTON (UPI) — American League President Joe Cronin has shed light on the confusing designated hitter rule—the most important change in baseball playing guidelines since teams were limited to nine men on the field nearly 100 years ago.

The rule, approved recently in Chicago by American League owners on an 8-4 vote and ratified unanimously by the Rules Committee governing professional baseball, allows each club to designate a batter to step to the plate in place of the pitcher throughout the game. The hitting specialist would not have to take the field.

Cronin, whose league will try the new rule for the next three seasons, Friday detailed the change.

He said the designated hitter:

—May be inserted in the lineup prior to the game and only for a pitcher. The designated hitter remains in the game regardless of pitching changes.

—Must always bat in the position assigned him on the lineup card presented to the umpire-in-chief prior to the game.

—May play in the field once the game is underway, continuing to bat in the same spot in the lineup. But the pitcher, in this situation, must bat in place of the substituted defensive player and no more designated players may be used.

—May be lifted in favor of a pinch hitter, who then becomes the designated hitter until the game ends or he is lifted for another pinch hitter.

—Need not be used every game.

—May not re-enter the game once removed and may not be replaced by another designated hitter if taken out while on base.

Cronin, who said he favored the rule, admitted he will have difficulties administrating it at first. "But everything will be straightened out before the season starts."

The league president said he planned to meet next week in New York with American League umpires to discuss the rule change.

Cronin said he expected managers, players and fans "are staying up nights going all around the mulberry bush" thinking of ways to maximize use of the rule.

The hypothetical question goes this way:

After pitching to the first batter, the second baseman-pitcher returns to his infield spot and the pitcher comes onto the mound.

The complex maneuver would allow the designated hitter, under the rules, to bat for the starting pitcher, who would be the second baseman. What now Joe?

"Well, we probably will have to have each club submit a list of pitchers, catchers, infielders and outfielders before the season starts and limit the number of players at each position to avoid such moves."

And in the World Series, the traditional rules will take precedence over the revised guidelines.

SEALS

The Seals spoiled Eddie Johnston's bid for a shutout in the final period when Stan Gilbertson tucked away a tip-in of a Walt McKechnie's slap shot at 13:23 and Hillard Graves scored at 14:09.

The Seals take on the New York Islanders Tuesday night and Atlanta Wednesday. They return to the Bay Area for a game with the St. Louis Blues Friday.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Dependency Exemption Doesn't Require 50 Per Cent Support

You can claim the dependency exemption for someone where you have contributed as little as 10 per cent of the cost of support, if you can qualify as follows:

Over half the support of the dependent will be treated as received from you if (1) no one person contributed over half of the support; (2) over half of the support was received from persons who, but for the fact they did not contribute over half of such support, would have been entitled to claim the dependent for last year; (3) you contributed over 10 per cent of such support; and (4) each person besides yourself who contributed over 10 per cent of the support files a written declaration that they will not claim the dependent for last year.

You file such declarations by having each party who contributed to the support, except the one who is going to claim the credit, sign Form 2120, Multiple Support Agreement, and the one who is claiming the exemption then attaches these Forms 2120 to his tax return when he files it.

Form 2120 is available at your Internal Revenue Service office.

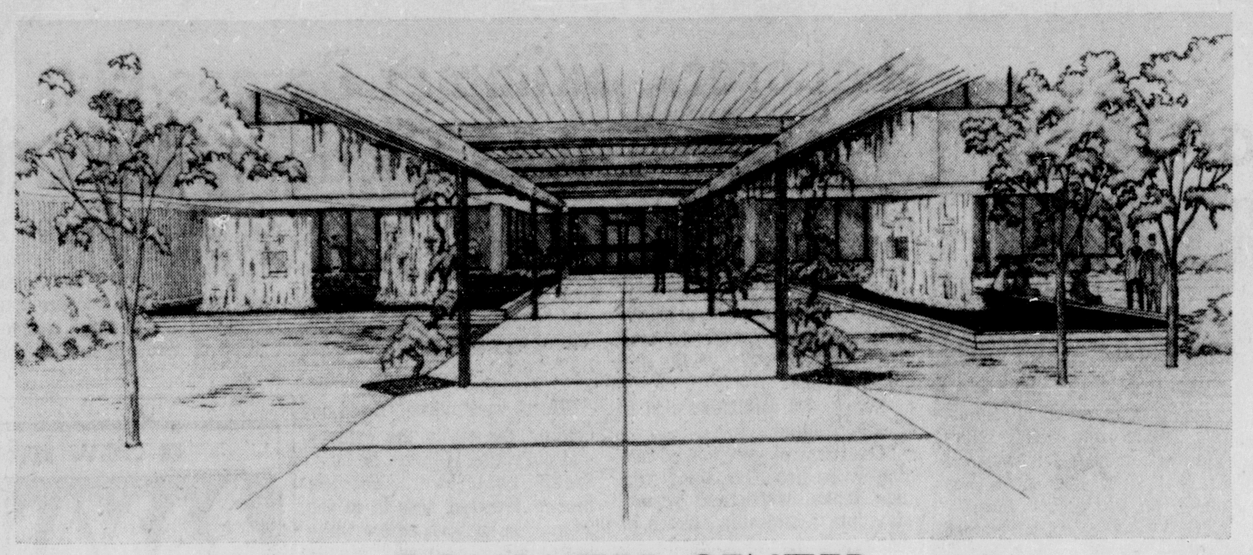
What constitutes support? Food, lodging, utilities, clothing, education, medical and dental expenses count towards support.

Items that do not count as support are: purchase of an automobile, life insurance premiums, taxes, funeral expenses, etc.

If there is any doubt in your mind as to whether you furnished over 50 per cent or not, you should make a list of all monies available for the dependent's support and another list of all the expenses of supporting the dependent.

These lists should tell you if you furnished over one-half.

It is a good idea to keep these lists with your copy of the tax return as you may need them to substantiate your deduction.



COMPUTER CENTER

Earthen colors and extensive landscaping will be used in Fireman's Fund American's new computer center at the corner of Lucas Valley Road and Highway 101, San Rafael. This is the main entrance as designed by architects Page, Clowdsley and Baleix. Building materials include precast texturized concrete in an earthen hue. Brown, non-reflective windows will be set in bronze frames. The $10 million center will open in July of 1974 with a work force of 875 and eventually employ almost 1,000. Between 250 and 300 new jobs will be filled by Marin residents.

Sonoma Urbanization Eyed

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Sonoma County, most agricultural of the nine Bay Area counties, will reap the benefits and problems of continuing urbanization during the remainder of the 1970's — and come out well ahead.

This is the conclusion drawn in an economic survey released by the Bank of America — the first Comprehensive study ever made of the county's economy.

Entitled "Focus on Sonoma County," the report says the county between 1970 and 1980 will enjoy a 32 per cent increase in population, a 30 per cent increase in employment, an 85 per cent increase in personal income, and a 40 per cent increase in per capita income.

The population of the county is expected to increase from 205,000 in 1970 to 270,000 by the end of the decade. Leading the trend toward further urbanization will be Santa Rosa, whose present population of 57,000 is projected by the bank to increase to 75,000 by 1980.

Total employment in the county is expected to increase from 66,500 to 86,400 during the decade.

While employment and personal income will increase, the county will continue to experience acute unemployment, and will have below-average per capita income when compared with California as a whole.

The county population has a median age of 29.7 years, slightly higher than the Bay Area median of 28.4, the survey notes. Nearly 13 per cent of the population is 65 years of age and over, compared to the California average of 9 per cent.

"Although the county has a large population of retired people, centers of younger people are emerging in the cities of Petaluma, Rohnert Park and Cotati," the survey states, continuing:

"Petaluma has attracted more than 15,000 new residents in the past 12 years. Many are young commuters who work in Marin County or San Francisco. Rohnert Park, where California State College, Sonoma, is located, has a population with a median age of only 20.4."

Island's Economy Makes Comeback

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI) — After absorbing the impact of the 1970-71 U.S. recession, Puerto Rico's economy bounced back to record-breaking new levels with the island's gross product jumping 12.8 per cent in fiscal 1972 to a record high of $5.8 million.

Net income on the island rose from $4.2 billion to a record $4.8 billion, a boost of 12.3 per cent.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Can you advise me whether to hold or sell the following: Kroger Co. (NYSE), Pay Less Drug Stores (NYSE), Alza Corp. and warrants (OTC) and W. E. Heiler (NYSE)? I am interested in growth stocks. — L.D.

A. With the exception of Kroger Co. your portfolio is in good shape. Intense competition, particularly in the East and Midwest, pushed Kroger's operating results into the red in the fiscal 1972 third quarter. Although earnings will probably afford only narrow dividend coverage, cash flow should be sufficient to warrant continuation of the present dividend rate for the next few quarters. Because competitive conditions remain unchanged, it is difficult to foresee any significant upward revision in Kroger's price-earnings multiple. Shares should be sold.

Heller, an international financial intermediary, has achieved an outstanding growth record. Since 1965, earnings and loan volume have increased 125 per cent, in spite of wide variations in money conditions over the six-year period. Shares, trading at a reasonable 15 times projected 1973 earnings, are recommended as a replacement for your Kroger holdings.

The Alza common and warrants, although high in risk, may be held for their long-term speculative potential. The company has not as yet marketed a product, although research on drug delivery systems for eye disease, birth control and intravenous use is in various stages of development. The product nearest to introduction is the Ocusert, designed to be placed under the eyelid to release glaucoma medication for four days. It is hoped that this product will be ready for marketing late this year.

Pay Less Drug Stores (California) and Pay Less Drug Stores Northwest have recently announced merger plans. The exchange will be share-for-share and the latter company, which is listed on the Big Board, the surviving entity. Thus, the fact that you do not specify which shares you hold is unimportant. The combined companies will operate a chain of 93 retail drug outlets, with sales volume exceeding $250 million. Growth should be strengthened by the merger.

Stocks Post Moderate Gains In Early Hours

Gains were attributed partly to administration reassurances that Phase III guidelines will be enforced, together with a report the Cost of Living Council is likely to disapprove a 30-cent-an-hour wage increase won last week by West Coast Longshoremen.

Prices were slightly higher in moderately active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

OIL SPILL — Cleanup crews skim remnants of a 200,000 gallon vandal-caused oil spill in the Oakland Estuary. The mass of goo, released from five storage tanks late Thursday, was herded yesterday into a stretch of backwater in the estuary. (UPI Telephoto)

Laborers, Skimmer Barges Plus Vacuum Trucks Cleaning Up Oil

OAKLAND, (UPI) — An armada of yellow rowboats spread through marinas on the east side of San Francisco Bay, scooping remnants of a 200,000 gallon vandal-caused oil spill from around white yachts and the shoreline.

Nearly 300 waterfowl died in the salty slime.

The mass of goo, leaked into the water from five aging storage tanks, washerded yesterday into a two-mile stretch of backwater in the Alameda estuary.

Unlocked spigots on the tanks were opened, apparently by vandals, Thursday night. The refined oil seeped undetected down storm drains and emptied into the harbor, the Coast Guard said.

Clean Bay Inc., an industry sponsored oil spill cooperative, was contracted by the Coast Guard during the weekend and massive efforts, estimated to cost $500,000 over a week-long operation, were brought into play.

More than 160 laborers, six skimmer barges, 13 vacuum trucks and an estimated 30, 14-foot rowboats were blocking and removing the oil, said Jim Mann, spokesman for the Clean Bay group.

Efforts were concentrated on holding the oil in the estuary and collecting it there, he said. Small boats were moving among tethered vessels in the 25 marina harbors, where white hulls glistened darkly in the oily water.

Fish and Game Department officials said 432 birds, their feathers gummed with the oil, were captured and subjected to cleaning operations. Of these, at least 280 died from the effects of the pretroleum. Another 45 were cleaned and released by Sunday and the remainder were expected to get their freedom in "the next couple of days."

"The peak period for waterfowl appears to be past," a spokesman said. "An aerial survey reveals few areas where birds are likely to become contaminated and no large concentration of birds in the critical areas."

Two Injured In Auto Crash

One person was hospitalized and another injured at 2:20 a.m. yesterday when their car blew a tire and hit the Novato Creek bridge on Highway 37, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Michael James Drady, 27, also of Boyes Hot Springs, was treated for facial and head cuts.

Drady was driving eastbound on Highway 37 when the accident occurred, patrolmen reported.

Snow Closes Roads In Nation's Midsection; Oklahoma Hard Hit

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Snow piled up through northern sections of the Midwest today, highways were clogged with the white stuff in portions of Oklahoma, schools closed in rural sections of Nebraska, and travelers' warnings were issued for many sections of the northern states.

From 150 to 200 motorists sought shelter in motels and schools around Woodward, Okla., because up to 15 inches of snow snarled highways in the northwestern part of the state. The state highway patrol reported a foot of snow on level ground and waist-deep drifts. Skies were clearing today.

There was scattered flooding along rivers in Illinois, some clogged by ice and others brimming their banks in the wake of heavy rainfall on frozen or saturated ground.

The National Weather Service reported snowfall ranging from 8 inches in a band through central Kansas to central Wisconsin, and posted heavy snow warnings from southeastern Minnesota to upper Michigan.

Travelers' advisories were issued in Upper Michigan, and from eastern South Dakota and north central Kansas to northern Missouri and southeastern Minnesota because of snow or blowing snow. A belt of rainfall washed the area from northern Arkansas through the Ohio Valley to the south and central Atlantic coastal states.

More advisories were issued for motorists in the western Pennsylvania mountains, parts of Massachusetts and Vermont because of fears of a combination of snow, sleet and freezing rain.

Two waves of snowfall hit Iowa, the first leaving nine inches of snow in Des Moines, the second going through Sunday night and early today. Many Iowa highways were glazed, although interstate routes were open to traffic.

In neighboring Nebraska, slight snow and blowing snow forced school closings in the eastern part of the state. Four persons died when a light plane crashed in freezing drizzle at Omaha, although it was too early to determine whether weather was a factor in the crash.

Flash flood watches remained in effect for Illinois, portions of Indiana and Kentucky, where heavy rains were expected to flood low lying areas.

Rain covered most of the eastern third of the nation today, spreading from northern Florida across the central Appalachians to the Ohio Valley.

Twenty-five families were evacuated from the Hancock County community of Poontoosic, Ill., Sunday night when ice jams on the Mississippi River forced water inland, covering about half the town's streets. No injuries were reported. Civil Defense units from surrounding areas were on alert as more rain or snow was forecast for today.

Cloudy skies shrouded most of the nation today with only the lower Mississippi Valley, portions of the southern Plains, New England and the western third of the country experiencing fair skies.

Light snow whitened the central Rockies.
